

Ike, Adlai Vote, Quietly Await Outcome of 'Biggest' Day

NEW YORK, N.Y., Nov. 4 (UP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower, feeling he had done all he could to win the presidency, settled down today on Manhattan's Morningside Heights to await the verdict of the American people.

It was a weary but optimistic Ike who returned with his wife early this morning to his residence on the Columbia University campus from a star-studded election eve rally at Boston.

Like other citizens, their first business of the day was voting—at the nearby precinct on 119th Street.

As the bitter campaign for the nation's highest office drew to a close Monday night, Eisenhower pulled off his topcoat. He later told advisers he didn't have the strength to wave his arms under the coat's added weight.

Behind the 62-year-old Republican candidate was a 52,000-mile campaign that ended on a peaceful but painful note before 17,000 cheering supporters in Boston Garden.

U.S. Balloting 'Unprecedented'

U.K. Tories Will Denationalize Steel Industry

Queen Opens Her First Session Of Parliament With Throne Speech

LONDON, Nov. 4 (UP)—Queen Elizabeth II opened her first session of Parliament today with the announcement Britain will turn back toward capitalism in 1953 by denationalizing the steel and trucking industries.

The 26-year-old Queen, resplendent in a robe once worn by Queen Victoria, and with her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, seated to her left, told assembled peers of the realm, diplomats and members of Commons she earnestly prays for an early armistice in Korea.

But until a truce is concluded, she said, her forces would continue to fight in Korea as clear proof of Britain's attachment to the ideals of the United Nations.

She promised Britain would follow a foreign policy based on the "closest and most friendly" relations with the United States.

The Queen outlined the Conservative government's program for 1952-53 in a speech written for her by Prime Minister Winston Churchill's cabinet. It was the traditional "speech from the throne" which opens each new session of parliament.

The colorful ceremony in the red and gold House of Lords was the first in a series of ceremonies for the young Queen, to be climaxed next June with her coronation.

The Queen's disclosure that the Churchill government will take the first formal step of turning Britain from the path of socialism laid down by the postwar Labor governments came in these words:

"Bills will be laid before you for the reorganization of the iron and steel industry and to provide changes in the transport industry."

This means legislation will be pushed through the Houses of Lords during the next 12 months to return both industries to private ownership.

They were nationalized during the Socialist regime of Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee, and the Labor party has vowed to nationalize them again if returned to power.

The Queen also promised:

1. "My government will continue to take their full share of the work of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization as the bulwark of the western defense and the embodiment of the common aspirations of the Atlantic community."

2. "In every way they (the government) will seek to maintain the closest and most friendly relations with the government and people of the United States of America."

3. "The government will seek to strengthen the unity of Europe by working in close association with and giving all possible support to western European countries in their efforts to forge closer links with one another."

4. "The government will press on with its rearmament program and the development of civil defense with due regard to the need for maintaining economic strength and stability."

5. "All necessary measures will be taken to place Britain's economy on a sound footing."

6. Britain will "work for the conclusion of an Austrian state treaty and for a fair and equitable settlement of the problem of German unity."

7. The government will "promote ever closer co-operation with Commonwealth and Empire members and to that end has called a Commonwealth prime ministers' conference on economic questions at the end of this month."

After a luncheon recess, members of Commons went to their own chamber to begin debate on the Conservative program outlined by the Queen.

Col. Drew will visit Premier W. A. C. Bennett shortly after his arrival in Victoria, Nov. 14. It will be the first meeting of the two since Mr. Bennett left Conservative ranks.

He will be in B.C. between Nov. 6 and 15.

Col. Drew will address the Vancouver Island United Services Institute at a luncheon the day he arrives.

A reception for the former Ontario premier will be held at the Club St. George in the afternoon of Nov. 6 where he will speak briefly.

A private dinner will be held later either at the Union Club or the home of Gen. Peakes.

The next morning he leaves for Nanaimo and Alberni.

his campaign on a non-argumentative theme. He said he wanted to end his bid for the presidency with something less than "the lusty language of a booming rally."

And it was painful because, during a radio-television show in a studio following the Garden Rally, a 14-inch studio clock which was being moved at the request of photographers fell on Eisenhower's head.

Mrs. Eisenhower and Sen. Richard M. Nixon, G.O.P. vice-presidential candidate, rushed to Eisenhower's side and studio personnel covered a large lump and laceration on his head with mercurochrome.

"I'm glad the campaign is over," Eisenhower said with a wry smile.

Eisenhower's Garden speech was couched in such grave language that the audience, which had given him a wild, five-minute ovation when he appeared on the speaker's stand, became quiet and applauded infrequently.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 4 (UP)—ADLAI STEVENSON, happy and confident that he has "told the truth as I see it," voted today at Half Day, Ill., and then settled back to await the nation's decision on his battle for the presidency.

Win or lose, Adlai said, he is ready to accept the voters' decision with "traditional American sportsmanship."

Stevenson voted at Half Day, a little crossroads hamlet near his 70-acre northern Illinois farm. Shortly thereafter, the Democratic nominee flew to Springfield to receive the election returns at the governor's mansion there.

He spent the night before the fateful balloting at the home of an old friend, Hermon Dunlap Smith, in suburban Lake Forest.

After voting, he was to talk briefly to school children of the town and attend a reception given him by his neighbors.

Outwardly, at least, Stevenson was calm and confident, taking an almost fatalistic view of the events now unfolding.

In a hectic, election eve broadcast, one in which he was cut off the air before completing his address, Stevenson declared he was satisfied that in campaigning for the presidency he had talked "sensibly and honestly." He admitted it meant "saying things that sometimes people don't like to hear," and that in doing so he risked losing votes.

But, he said, if he had not spoken frankly he would not "feel so good" as he did as he sat before the television cameras and summarized 32,000 miles of campaigning.

Stevenson said he was proud he had taken dangerous stands on tidelands oil before Texas crowds, civil rights before southerners, and had warned veterans they could expect no special benefits.

At the same time, Stevenson promised that if elected president he will seek a "fresh" approach toward gaining an armistice in the Korean fighting, thus ending what he called the "miserable stalemate" there.

For Stevenson, election day meant the end of a trail which has led from political obscurity to his nomination for the presidency last July, a nomination which he did not seek but which he accepted with the promise to "fight to win with all my heart and soul."

ELECTION EXTRA TONIGHT

Phone B3131 for Voting

The Victoria Times election extra, giving the latest trends in the U.S. presidential voting, will be on the street shortly after 9 p.m. tonight.

By that time there should be a fair indication of how the vote is going in the big eastern states and a trend established toward the eventual winner.

The extra editions will be available to people in the residential districts from sellers posted at strategic corners. Phone Times circulation tonight to find out where you can get them near your home.

Throughout the evening the Times will maintain an election phone service at the editorial offices, Beacon 3131, where the nation's press wires will provide the latest up-to-the-minute information.

B.C. Man Awarded B.E.M. For Bravery

Vancouver Soldier 'Saved Many Lives'

OTTAWA, Nov. 4 (CP)—Sgt. George William Elliott, of Vancouver, a stretcher-bearer with the 1st Battalion, P.P.C.L., has won the British Empire Medal, according to the latest awards list for the Korean war released by the army today.

Elliott won his medal because he never left a wounded man without care, repeatedly took risks to go to the aid of his fellows and "undoubtedly saved the lives of many wounded."

Lt. Col. Gordon C. Corbould, D.S.O., New Westminster, commanding officer of the 2nd Battalion, R.C.R., won the O.B.E.

Awards of the D.S.O. went to Lt. Col. N. G. Wilson-Smith of Winnipeg, and to Maj. V. W. Jewkes, M.C., of St. John's, Que.

Other awards:

O.R.E. Lt. Col. Edward G. Brooks, D.S.O., of Montreal, as commanding officer of the 2nd Artillery Regiment; Lt. Col. Joseph A. G. Vallee of Quebec City, as a company commander and later officer commanding the 2nd Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment.

M.B.E. Maj. Albert J. Abbott, Port Arthur, Nfld., Royal Canadian Engineers; Maj. James C. Allan, D.S.O., 1st Battalion, P.P.C.L.; Maj. Harold Ball, Consort, Alta., R.C.E.; Maj. Henry Brodie, Ottawa and Hamilton, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps; Maj. James S. Hittman, Kingston, Ont., Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps; Maj. John R. McLaren, London and Ottawa, Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers; Capt. Harold E. McLaughlin, Toronto, R.C.E.M.E.; Capt. Norman Trower, Toronto and Orangeville, Ont., R.C.E.; Capt. Farnes, Canora, Sask., and Kimberley, B.C., R.C.E.M.E.

M.C. Capt. E. William Berthiaume, Tecumseh, Ont., and Bridgetown, N.S., 2nd Artillery Regiment; Capt. Roland Leclerc, Rimouski, Que., 2nd Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment.

B.E.M. Sgt. Malcolm S. Haynes, London, Ont., R.C.A.S.C.

ELECTION SIDELIGHTS

ARILENE, Kans., Nov. 4 (AP)—Of the first 44 votes cast in Dwight Eisenhower's home town in today's general election, 39 were for the Republican candidate for president.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—Elder statesman Bernard Baruch today called upon the United States electorate to unite behind the next president, and then cast his own vote.

Baruch had some difficulty with the voting machine and called out: "This damned thing doesn't work, you can't pull the lever."

levers. The machine was adjusted in a few moments.

Asked about a letter he had written praising Republican candidate Dwight D. Eisenhower, Baruch said after his vote: "I don't say one thing and do another."

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Nov. 4 (AP)—Four assistants co-operated today as 111-year-old Jim Hard, the country's oldest surviving Union veteran of the Civil War, cast his vote for Gen. Eisenhower.

Hard says he cast his first vote for Abraham Lincoln.

TAIPEI, Formosa, Nov. 4 (AP)—Chinese Nationalists here are excitedly watching the election race between Sze Ti Wen Sen and Ai Sen How Wei.

If your Chinese is rusty, the candidates' names mean "History Jingles Literary Life" and "Love Jungle Hero Manliness."

G.O.P. VERSUS DEMOCRAT

What American Election May Mean to Canada's Way of Life

BY RONALD HAGGART

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4 (Special to The Times)—Upwards of 50,000,000 Americans trooped to the polls today to choose between the New Deal and the New Frontier.

Whoever wins, the Democratic party represented by Adlai Stevenson or the Republican forces of Dwight Eisenhower, what will the outcome mean to Canada?

If Eisenhower wins:

1. No fundamental change in the bi-partisan foreign policy, but a closer look at the cheque book in an attempt to fulfill campaign promises of lower taxes. With 85 per cent of the American budget committed to defense, including foreign aid, help for overseas Allies could be the major target of budget-cutters in a Republican Senate.

2. An ending of U.S. price controls. Eisenhower is opposed to "direct, artificial" controls, and most Republicans voted against the price ceilings which are still in effect here. Any increase in

Electors Vote in Drove; Record Turnout Certain

Compiled From C.P., U.P. and A.P. Dispatches

United States voters got out early and in droves today to make their decision between Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower and Democrat Adlai Stevenson as the 33rd man to become their president.

Throughout the country, the story was the same: Voting so heavy that election officials called it unprecedented.

Across the land the weather was perfect.

"You couldn't ask for better weather," said a spokesman for the weather bureau at Washington.

He said it was unlikely there would be any appreciable rain anywhere in the country today.

Some forecasters predicted 55,000,000 to 60,000,000 ballots. The biggest vote cast in the past was 49,820,312 in 1940 when Democrat Franklin D. Roosevelt defeated Republican Wendell Willkie.

The big mystery was what was going on behind the curtains of the voting booth—did the big vote mean "a landslide for Ike" as Republicans hoped, or "a sweep for Stevenson" as Democrats wished?

The result may be known around 8 tonight or, if the voting is close, perhaps not until sometime Wednesday. The last of the polls to close, some on the West Coast, will be open until 8 p.m.

As usual, several small precincts got in all their votes and made a count soon after the opening hour—a freak of the U.S. voting system.

Sharon, N.H., had its votes in by seven minutes after midnight. The count: Eisenhower 32, Stevenson 14.

Brown's Farm, Fla., gave Eisenhower four and Stevenson four.

Rutland, another small Florida precinct, reported 14 for Stevenson and 10 for Eisenhower.

From Cataloochee, a mountain cove in North Carolina's great smokies, the returns were seven to none for Stevenson.

Pointe Aux Barques, Mich., announced 15 to none for Eisenhower.

Truman's Final 12 Weeks Ahead

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Nov. 4 (UP)—President Truman voted early today and boarded his special train to return to Washington for his final 12 weeks in the White House.

Mr. Truman's wife and daughter Margaret also were voting in their home town and going back to Washington with him.

Although he expressed confidence of victory for the Democratic ticket, the president didn't make any prediction of the number of electoral votes Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate would get.

The president made his last bid for votes for the Democratic ticket Monday night in an appeal carried on nationwide radio and television networks.

He spoke from nearby Kansas City, preceding Stevenson and Sen. John Sparkman, the Democratic vice-presidential candidate, who made a final pre-election rally address to a national audience from other places.

Mr. Truman said his party had given the nation its "greatest prosperity" and had stopped Communist aggression without throwing the world into an "all-out atomic war."

He said that Stevenson and Sparkman are the "only men" who could lead the nation in achieving world peace and maintaining prosperity at home.

'Terrific' Earthquake Rocks Siberia

OTTAWA, Nov. 4 (CP)—The Dominion seismologist today said an earthquake of major proportions has struck northeastern Siberia.

Dr. John Hodgson said that more than two hours after the first shocks were recorded at the Dominion observatory here, instruments still were recording tremors.

Mystery surrounds the location of a "terrific" earthquake which was recorded at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory in Saanich today at 9:07 a.m.

Observatory officials said they have not yet been able to determine the direction of the earthquake which would have caused considerable damage if it had occurred in a populated area.

They said the shock had a magnitude of 6½ to 7 in intensity. They tentatively placed the earthquake at about 600 miles from Victoria in an undetermined direction.

Maiden Parliamentary Speech

Amid all the glamour and pomp associated with the opening of British Parliament Queen Elizabeth today read the Speech From The Throne for the first time since ascending the throne. It was one of the first major events of the new Elizabethan era. (Story of the opening on Page 2.)

Fireworks Ban Recommended

Police Commission Will Ask Council To Act 'Before Someone Gets Killed'

Victoria Police Commission will ask City Council to ban sale of fireworks except under "special permit," Police Commissioner Brent Murdoch said today.

"We must ask council to take action before someone gets killed," he said.

The three-man commission, comprising Mayor Claude-Harri-son, Ald. Murdoch and Bill Hamilton all agreed Halloween "fun" has gotten out of control.

"It has gotten to the hooligan stage," declared Commissioner Hamilton.

Ald. Murdoch said the "true significance of Halloween is gone."

"Now it's a case of trying to build the biggest bomb or do the most damage," he added. "We dislike to curtail children's activities but there should be more park and bonfire celebrations by organized groups."

Permits would be obtained from the chief of police and would be issued to persons representing organized groups, who were staging a community celebration, Ald. Murdoch felt.

Fourth Hunter Shot; Killed; Inquest Set

COURTENAY, Nov. 4—Albert Reeves Webb, 32, Deep Bay logger, became Vancouver Island's fourth hunting accident victim Monday when he was shot and killed north of Bowser.

Police would not say who fired the fatal shot.

With him were Fred R. Street, of Hammond, and Edward Lehman, Deep Bay. The accident occurred at 9:15 a.m. in the old Robert Dollar Co. logging property two miles north of Bowser.

The trip was planned when Webb decided against going to his regular job with Olympia Forest Products Ltd. because of heavy rain. He reportedly was wearing a red handkerchief on his hat when killed.

An inquest will be conducted here by Coroner G. H. Pidcock Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Webb was married and had two children.

Other fatal accidents this year were:

Oct. 5—Edward Keith Wood, 19, killed by ricochet from his grandfather's rifle while hunting near St. Mary's Lake, Salt Spring Island.

Oct. 19—Joseph Grigoletto, 15, fatally wounded by own shotgun while duck-hunting on Alberni Canal.

Oct. 27—Richard Lakes, 13, of Vancouver, fatally wounded by father on Salt Spring Island.

Driver Found Dead

LADYSMITH, Nov. 4—John Edward Clavring, 68, of 565 High Street, was found dead at the wheel of his car Monday at 4 p.m.

R.C.M.P. officers listed carbon monoxide poisoning as cause of death, but said there was no suggestion of foul play. The car was found in the municipal gravel pit.

Lot depends on whether Truman lost votes for Adlai as fast as McCarthy lost 'em for Ike.

Incidentally, it's lucky Harry didn't hear about th' job at th' park lake. He might've started usin' rotenone too.

Too late for Halloween an' too early for an election celebration. Th' upset recorded at th' observatory must o' bin just a 'quake after all.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

MEDIEVAL MEAD

THERE WAS SOMETHING of an anachronistic note in the introduction at the Canadian Beekeepers' Council convention here last week of a sample of mead. And, incidentally, I wonder how many of those present, including the American visitors, realized that its appearance there was helping to bring another "bit of Old England" to Victoria.

For mead is as medieval in origin as the suits of armor in which knights of old went forth to war, and in the mythology of the ancient Greeks and Romans it occupied a privileged, almost a sacred position. So I learned while in England last year for the Festival of Britain, where this potable was among the many ancient traditions revived for the occasion.

FLEET STREET TOAST

AT THE Suffolk County Show, held at Bury St. Edmunds during our visit, a Stowmarket bee-master won a cup and prize for an exhibit of the ingredients of mead—and instructions for making it. It was shown in the honey tent, but while visitors were invited to taste various varieties of honey, the mead was not for sampling.

A week or so later, 50 bee-masters—as they call apiarists over there—stood on a roof in Fleet Street and drank a toast to the success of the first hive in that home of the newspaper fraternity, right in the heart of London. The hive stood nearby, draped with a Union Jack. And I have since wondered if the bees from that particular hive had much luck in finding the makings of honey in that congested area of narrow streets.

ANCIENT TRADITION

MEAD, ACCORDING to the experts, is probably the earliest alcoholic drink made by man and is produced from honey, blended with herbs and aged to vintage maturity. Nectar, the fabulous drink of the Greek gods, familiar to ever reader of Homer, was a form of mead.

The Romans also set great store by it, while an old Gothic custom which required newweds to drink mead for the first month after their marriage is recalled in the English word "honeymoon" and the French term "la lune de miel".

PRAISED BY CHAUCER

LATER, meads became the national, traditional liquors of Anglo-Saxon and medieval England; Chaucer, the great poet, who died in the year 1400, is said to have held them in the highest estimation. Most of the meads were made by the monks in the great abbeys and other religious houses, but their popularity declined rapidly with the Reformation, following the introduction of cheap foreign wines into England and the end of the industry associated with the monks.

By the end of the 17th century, the industry had collapsed commercially and meads became practically unknown, except in a few corners of rural England, where for centuries some farmhouses and hamlets have made mead, along with cowslip and pears wine, elderberry and dandelion cordials.

CORNISH REVIVAL

A FEW years ago this once flourishing craft of mead-making was revived in the little village of Gwulva, in Cornwall, in the pretty vale of Trevayler, which flows into Mount's Bay about a mile from St. Michael's Mount.

In that lovely setting, an ancient mill has been reconstructed. Here they are turning out English meads under their ancient names: Sack Mead, Methelin, Bochet, Cyser, Pymment, Hippocras and Melomel. And, to add to the medieval touch, church dignitaries take part in "The Blessing of the Mead" in the courtyard each August 24—as they did in olden days.

BRILLIANT OPENING FOR BRITISH HOUSE

Queen Wears Robe Used by Victoria; Falters Once in First Throne Speech

LONDON, Nov. 4 (CP)—The Queen today drove in state to the House of Lords, and personally opened the first Parliament of the new Elizabethan age.

In a clear, calm voice which faltered only once, the poised young Queen read the speech from the throne to her assembled peers and commoners, diplomats and great officers of state, pledging herself to serve Britain and the Commonwealth with the same devotion shown by her late father, King George VI.

The Queen took her place on the raised throne in the House of Lords wearing the parliamentary robe used on similar occasions by Queen Victoria. It was the first time parliament had been formally addressed by an uncrowned Queen since Victoria did so in 1837.

SPECIAL CHAIR FOR DUKE

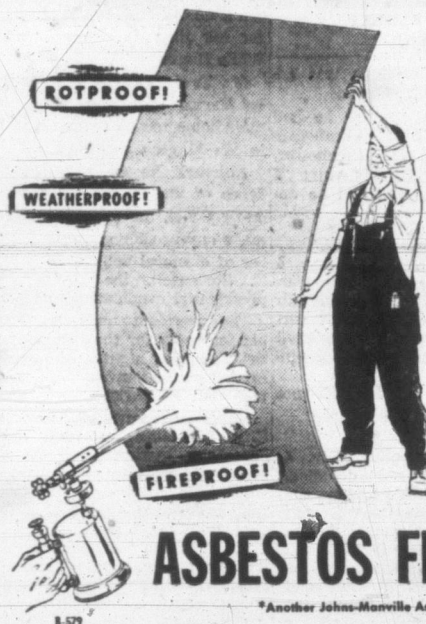

From her seat on the throne, with the Duke of Edinburgh in a special chair to her left, the Queen looked out over one of the familiar scenes of English pageantry—directly before the bewigged law lords and peers of the realm in their scarlet and ermine robes, flanked on either side by ambassadors in service and morning dress and by peers in evening dress.

The Queen drove from Buckingham Palace to the House of Lords in a black-and-gilt Irish state coach, drawn by four Windsor greys. She entered the chamber in a great state procession, headed by the Duke of Devonshire, the Earl of Salisbury, the Earl of Mar, the Earl of Home, the Earl of Sutherland, the Earl of Argyll, the Earl of Glencairn, the Earl of Strathmore and Kinghorne, the Earl of Perth, the Earl of Ross and Cromarty, the Earl of Selkirk, the Earl of Argyll and the Earl of Sutherland.

IF IT RAINS LET IT POUR

DUNCAN, Nov. 4—If it's going to rain, it might just as well rain hard.

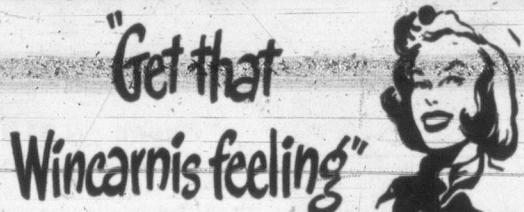

That's the opinion of the Cowichan Exhibition committee which has just received a cheque for $1024.15 because it rained .11 of an inch when it staged its big show last Sept. 5. The cheque represents settlement of a rain insurance policy which the committee purchased just in case the show might be washed out. The policy was for $1,200, and the insurance company made up the difference between that figure and the slim gate receipts.

The policy called for payment if it rained more than an inch in three hours.

Three Polio Cases At Dawson Creek

DAWSON CREEK, B.C., Nov. 4 (CP)—Three polio cases were reported Tuesday in Dawson Creek, raising British Columbia's 1952 total to 490 cases.

The new cases include a 13-year-old girl and a 25-year-old man. The other is a previously unreported case from which the patient has recovered.

Asbestos Achievements

J-M ASBESTOS TEXTILES
Modern asbestos "magic", in the form of fireproof asbestos textiles, today wards off many hazards that once took tragic toll of property, wealth and human lives. Thanks to asbestos clothing for the fire fighter, fire departments are better able to cope with burning, destroying flames. Asbestos oven suits protect the housewife from burns and even the theatre goer attend is made safer thanks to an asbestos curtain.

J-M INDUSTRIAL FRICTION MATERIALS
When a giant derrick lifts a heavy load and sets it down gently it depends on asbestos friction materials for safe, sure, positive stops. When the office elevator handles rush hour loads smoothly it's asbestos that takes the strain. From raw material to finished product, Johns-Manville controls the quality of J-M Industrial Friction Materials. That's why many leading industrial equipment manufacturers have standardized on Johns-Manville friction materials.

City Clerk Maintains Use of Ballot Is Theft

City Clerk Frank Hunter still labels Toronto's proposed new ballot system as "theft" of the Hunter system, despite a letter received today from George A. Weale, Toronto city clerk.

Mr. Weale wrote that Toronto did not propose to change its voting system but added:

"Committee on legislation has recommended that the required authority be obtained to give a composite ballot a trial at future civic elections. . . . It is understood a single ballot is in use in other municipalities."

According to a story in the Toronto Globe and Mail, Toronto's legislative committee had approved a new composite ballot, which Mr. Hunter maintained is his copyright ballot.

"Toronto will not acknowledge they have taken my ballot," he complained.

Mr. Weale's letter contained no word of thanks for the extensive information sent him on the ballot system by Mr. Hunter.

Urges New Grade Cold Storage Eggs

MATSQUI, B.C., Nov. 4 (CP)—A development of a new grade of guaranteed fresh eggs is urged by E. A. Lloyd, professor emeritus in poultry science at the University of British Columbia.

Speaking at a meeting here, he said the new grade would be equivalent to the "Washington AA" quality recently introduced south of the border. This grade is commanding a premium price of three to five cents a dozen.

Prof. Lloyd said the plan would be for eggs to be gathered three to five times daily, held in cold storage rooms at the farm, shipped to the city twice a week, and kept in cold storage in the retail shop.

Clip These Scorecards and Keep Tabs on Vote Guards Had Standing Offer to Aid Jackson Escape, Inquiry Hears

HERE THERE and EVERYWHERE

ELIGIBLE—Frank W. Stokes, 94, who participated in four polar expeditions and has lived in New York's Greenwich village for the last 50 years, will cast his first presidential ballot today.

Stokes, a painter, became eligible to vote in 1879. He said he will vote for Eisenhower.

BRAYO—In Kenion, O., Henry W. Gramlich, 101, said he will walk to the polls today to cast his vote for Dwight Eisenhower. Gramlich, the oldest man in these parts, has voted in more presidential elections than anyone else. His first presidential ballot went to Horace Greeley in 1872.

CHEERED—Dr. Gottfried Krummacker was cheered at a meeting in Kassel, Germany, when he demanded that the Allies pay Nazi party members $2 for each day spent in internment camps after the war and an additional 50 cents for each hour of work done by order of camp commanders.

SPORT—Deer hunting is easy if you have the necessary equipment—like a cabin cruiser. Maynard Hernas, Charles Kunz and Clarence Gies are stalking deer in their cabin cruiser—Lake Roosevelt, Wash., Monday.

When they spotted one, they simply eased their cruiser into shore and made the kill.

BOYSTERIOUS—In San Antonio, Tex., an attractive, red-haired girl of 15 became angry when her parents refused to let her go out with boys.

As a result she set a grocery store on fire, smashed a plate-glass window with a hammer and confessed to police.

SPIRITS—In Boston the Massachusetts Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission has warned the liquor industry to stop using Santa Claus as a whisky salesman.

The commission made public Monday a letter to manufacturers, wholesalers and importers pointing out that Santa Claus, or St. Nicholas, "has since time immemorial been associated with children, and it is for the best interests of the industry that its advertisements should in no way associate the children's saint with alcoholic beverages."

$130 Per Week For Newsmen On N.Y. Mirror

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (UP)—Negotiators for the New York Daily Mirror and the American Newspaper Guild (C.I.O.) reached agreement early today on a new contract covering more than 500 editorial and commercial employees.

The agreement, which must be approved by members of the Mirror unit of the guild, averted a strike.

The guild negotiating committee accepted a management proposal for a general wage increase ranging from $4 to $6 a week, with new minimums running from $45 for copy boys and messengers to $130 for experienced newsmen. Previous minimums were from $42.50 to $126.

The guild also won a 35-hour work week, four weeks' vacation after 12 years' service, and severance pay up to 56 weeks' salary.

INJURIES FATAL

VANCOUVER, Nov. 4 (CP).—A woman injured two months ago when she was struck by a train died in hospital during the week-end. Dead is Mrs. Dorothy Symington 36.

Adventurous Career Ends As Frank Turley Passes

Funeral services for the late Frank Turley, ex-soldier, civic and business leader, will be held Wednesday at Sands chapel.

Mr. Turley was 76. He died Monday in St. Joseph's Hospital. He was an Oak Bay councillor from 1941-44.

Born in Worcestershire, Eng., Mr. Turley was a veteran of the Boer War. He worked on the African Gold Coast, Australia, China and on the Panama Canal before coming to Canada in 1913. Prior to his retirement in 1936, he was manager of the Imperial Oil Ltd. here.

He was president of the Victoria Rotary Club during 1943-44. He is survived by a son, Frank, 318 Newport Avenue.

Guards Had Standing Offer to Aid Jackson Escape, Inquiry Hears

TORONTO, Nov. 4 (BUP)—Guards at the Don Jail used to talk about a standing offer by Leonard Jackson to give money to any guard who would help him escape.

Guard John K. Hopper Monday startled the royal commission inquiring into the escape of four Boyd gang members September 8 by stating that he and several other guards had been offered bribes by Jackson after Guard James Morrison had been convicted of trying to help Jackson escape.

Commission Counsel George Walsh asked: "You mean it was general talk among the guards that Jackson had a proposition for anybody who wanted to make some money?"

Hopper answered: "Yes, sir. We also knew he would try to get out the first chance he had. He even told us that."

Hopper said when Jackson asked him if he wanted to make some money, he replied: "Yes, but not your way."

Guard William Starkey, employed at the jail since 1927, said one of his jobs was to listen to the amplifier in the governor's office for noises coming from the Boyd gang cellblock. A few hours before the escape, he said, a sergeant of detectives had telephoned him and asked if he had heard any noises from the Boyd cell. The sergeant added:

"If you hear anything let me know."

While Starkey was having lunch, his relief guard heard "banging noises" coming from the cell and reported them to Deputy Governor Alexander

Noble, who was in charge of the jail's night shift.

Guard John Arthur Thompson said he and Noble went to the Boyd gang cells and that Noble flashed a light on the bars and into the cells, but apparently noticed nothing wrong.

This was just a few hours before Edwin Boyd, Leonard Jackson, Steve Suchan and William Jackson escaped. Captured eight days later, Leonard Jackson and Suchan were sentenced to be hanged Dec. 16 for the murder of Sergeant of Detectives Edmund Tong here last March; Boyd was sentenced to life imprisonment for bank robbery and William Jackson to 20 years.

Meanwhile former guard James Morrison, now serving a two-year prison term for attempting to help Leonard Jackson escape, testified Monday in the trial of Frank Watson, 34, accused of possessing counterfeit money and with bribing a peace officer.

Morrison said Watson gave him $70 and counterfeit bills totalling $100 after Jackson had arranged a meeting. Morrison said he had delivered six hacksaw blades from Watson to Jackson's wife, Anne, and some chocolate bars from Watson to Jackson.

Asked whether the guards often talked to Jackson Morrison said: "Most guards had contact with Jackson. Most of them passed the time of day with him."

In answer to a question by his counsel, Watson admitted a long prison record, including sentences for car theft, housebreaking, armed robbery and possession of narcotics.

Canada at London

THE CANADIAN GOVERNMENT'S policy at the forthcoming Commonwealth conference in London is now pretty clear—a policy on which the government obviously is willing to stand in next year's general election.

On the negative side, the Government rejects any plan to have the trade of the Commonwealth off from the general trade of the world. It will not join any kind of exclusive trading bloc, as long proposed by some elements in British politics and lately suggested by the Council of Europe. Whether this bloc included only the Commonwealth and sterling area, or whether it was extended to cover western Europe as well, Canada would not enter it.

This has not been announced in so many words but it is indicated beyond doubt by Mr. Abbott's recent speeches. In Montreal not long ago, for example, he said:

"A great many countries, many of them traditional markets for Canadian products, are still attempting to solve their balance of payments difficulties by maintaining and increasing import restrictions, exchange controls and the like. We believe—and experience has shown—that measures of this kind hold out no hope of a permanent solution of these difficulties. We shall do everything in our power to further objectives which we have had constantly before us since the end of the war. These are to do everything possible in our power to keep the channels of world commerce as free as possible."

That attitude automatically rules out the old theory of an exclusive trade zone since it could be erected only by the exclusion, so far as possible, of goods from all areas outside its own boundaries. The essence of such a scheme, of course, is to hold down to the barest minimum all imports from the United States and thus to solve the dollar shortage of the sterling and European countries.

The United States would retaliate

immediately by cutting down its imports from the countries which had injured its trade. If Canada joined the project it would diminish and in great measure lose its American market. Since the Canadian economy lives very largely on that market it will not be swapped for the much smaller markets of a restricted area conducting a kind of economic war against the United States with political consequences more serious than the economic.

No Canadian government in its senses could adopt any other policy. It is notable that, despite all his criticism of the government, Mr. Drew has never proposed that Canada should put all its eggs in a narrow sterling basket.

On the positive side, however, the Canadian delegates are going to London with constructive proposals. They will argue that the solution of Europe's problem can be found only in the expansion of world trade, the removal of trade restrictions and in the larger sale of European goods, directly or indirectly, in the dollar countries of North America.

To this end, in the Canadian view, Europe must cure its internal inflation, as Britain is now beginning to do, hold down its export prices and compete vigorously in all world markets.

If this policy is accepted in London—and it has strong support in the British government—a real and permanent cure for the sterling nations' problem can be foreseen. And if they are ready to expand instead of restricting trade, if they are willing to strengthen the Geneva agreements—instead of retreating from them into the barren storm cellars of protectionism, then the sterling nations may expect and would be entitled to substantial monetary aid from the United States and Canada during their period of readjustment. No such aid need be expected and none would be of any permanent use if the sterling countries propose to maintain the opposite policy of restriction and discrimination against North American goods.

Canadians for Canada

MR. RENE B. PERRAULT OF Montreal, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, believes that the flow of people from this country to the United States is abating. Recently he quoted interesting figures to show that about 10,000 Americans are moving into Canada each year and 5,000 former Canadians are returning.

Those figures are significant in spite of the number of new immigrants to Canada who continue to cross the 49th parallel into the U.S. We are losing many of the people who reach this land from European and other countries, but we are drawing in a large number of North Americans, including our own who have strayed away.

The vast postwar industrial development of Canada is, obviously, one of the strongest magnets pulling people to this country and holding young Canadians here. Opportunities are opening in this nation as they have never done before. Higher salaries and other considerations are attracting the university graduates into our national fabric where they once left to be woven into the pattern of the United States.

This is apparent over and above the influence that the draft laws of the United States might have in discouraging Canadians from taking up American residence and citizenship.

As conditions exist today, there is little cause for Canadians to bring out their crying towels and weep over the export of brains to more lucrative fields south of the border.

Canada is enriched by Canadians who go to the United States, learn new techniques and methods and bring them back home to the advantage of industry and manufacturing in this land. They are, as it were, taking post-graduate courses in their particular fields.

The success attained by young men and women who have left Canada for important positions elsewhere have for years been an index of their abilities. The fact that a number of them, having enjoyed good jobs and incomes in the United States, are returning to Canada indicates clearly their appreciation of the type of living offered here. Many are coming back to give their children a Canadian upbringing in recognition of what similar training and environment meant to them in their youth. Others, of course, are taking their places in big industries and reaping the rewards big industries are now paying in Canada.

The picture is generally encouraging. Canada is showing more clearly its appreciation of Canadians—men who can do the jobs required of them—and Canadians are replying in kind, showing their appreciation of their homeland and the chances it provides.

Calling Tom, Dick and Harry

IN WHAT IS APPARENTLY THE final appeal of the current campaign, officials of the Community Chest drive are asking residents of this community to donate to the organizations which have lumped their requirements under the Red Feather emblem.

It is small satisfaction to Victoria and district that the drive this year has obtained only 77 per cent of its objective. That means that each group benefitting from the collections will be able to do only three-quarters of the work it would like to do.

It can mean, for instance, unless further help is forthcoming, that one out of four mothers, children and aged folk who might go to the Sunshine Camp next summer will have to stay at home; it can mean that help for the blind may have to be cut by one-quarter; it can mean that the Boy Scouts, the Victorian Order of Nurses, the Esquimalt Friendly Help, the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society and other worthy organizations must reduce their activities in the coming year. Work they would like to do must go undone; help they would like to give must lie dormant.

Thousands of purses that should have snapped open have remained shut; thousands of wallets that should have unfolded to a plea for community welfare have stayed closed. Let all who thought, "Let George do it," reconsider. There weren't enough Georges. Tom, Dick and Harry must do their share.

The Voter's Load

VICTORIANS WHO HAD DIFFICULTY with the triple ballot in the last provincial elections will feel sympathy for the voters in many United States communities today, who will be faced with a ballot the size of this newspaper page, covered with fine type.

A sample ballot from Lane County, Oregon, is colored pink and contains about 40 separate questions on which the voter must make a decision. These run all the way from the presidency of the United States through state officials such as treasurer and attorney-general, to county clerks and constables. There are also numerous referendums, plus state act amendments on hospitalization, lotteries, milk marketing and other matters.

The ballots are so complex samples were sent to voters before election day so they may be studied, to save time in the polling booths. A stranger, seeing one, cannot help but wonder how elderly persons, those not very familiar with the language, near-sighted voters and similar categories can cast their ballots without considerable assistance.

The functioning of democracy is becoming increasingly complicated, demanding a higher and higher level of intelligence and ability from those whose wishes are being determined at the polls.

LOOSE ENDS

Rain

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

NOW, after the long summer drought, comes the first merciful rain and the parched jungles of the coastal shelf drink it like a thirsty man.

Since early spring the great trees, the swarming underbrush, the ferns and tough mosses have been sucking from the earth the moisture deposited last winter, expelling it in unimaginable billions of tons until hardly a drop is left. For weeks now the vegetable horde has panted and withered. At last comes relief, in the nick of time. The atmosphere, long moistened by the damp breath of foliage, begins to repay its debt.

Coastal man also needs rain, now merely to extinguish the forest fires lit by his own prodigal hand, to replenish his reservoirs and to assure next year's crop, but for subtler reasons which the drought dweller of interior regions will not understand. Rain is our friend, our essential nourishment, the great cleanser of body and mind.

The oceans of water descending on the coastal forest sluice off the accumulated dust, the heavy burden of leaf growth and all the garish garments of summer. It also cleans the habitations of man, washes his greasy streets, sweeps away his poisons and microbes, wipes clean the cloudy windupane of his spirit.

TINY LOST SPECK

For half a year he has lived soft and in sunshine like bees and grasshoppers who think that summer has no end. The rain reminds him of his true place in the harsh scheme of things—a tiny speck of life almost lost within the coastal wilderness, a passing incident in the perpetual avalanche of cloud from the ocean and water pouring down from the mountains to return again in drops of rain.

Like the tree when its leaves have fallen, coastal man feels the weight of summer's idleness and folly lifted from him by the first clearly breath of autumn. Whatever the human calendar may say, another year is finished when a rains come, the past is engulfed and carried out into the sea of forgotten time and man is purified again.

This may not be apparent to the peoples of the interior where rain comes in solid form and lies around, white and cold, for six cruel months. They pretend to pity us while they dig their way out of the igloos of Winnipeg and Regina and shiver, with frozen white faces, in the teeth of a gale out of Hudson Bay. They cannot understand rain as we do, the soothing and comfortable touch of healing moisture out of the sky, the original medicine for the sick soul, surfeited too long with sunshine and heat.

ADAPTED TO SURVIVE

In time, no doubt, two separate species of man will evolve in America: a dried and desiccated breed with camel's stomach and the lungs of lizards, able to resist the parched interior climate, and a superior, well-watered species, probably with gills, upon the coast. Meanwhile both kinds of man, coastal and interior, must survive with their present primitive equipment, badly fitted for either place.

An inferior and badly constructed creature physically, ill-suited to his environment, much less durable than the forests of the coast or the stubborn grasses of the plains, man must get along as well as he can for the little time allowed him. In the interior he constructs igloos of a cunning design, steals the better skins of other animals for his own garments and hibernates like them until spring. On the coast he builds flimsy roofs, garbs himself in moisture-proof clothing and establishes tourist bureaus to misrepresent the climate.

But the great facts of Canadian life remain, the greatest of all being the weather, besides which governments, economic systems, war and peace are temporary aberrations. And with us on the coast the alternation of sun and rain is not merely a phenomenon to be measured on the official charts but the very weather of our lives, making us what we are, for better or worse.

We are better for the main. Our spirits drink it up like the thirsty forest roots. From now on we shall be scoured, scrubbed, sluiced and purified, externally and internally, until the spring flowers bloom and, like them, we are judged fit to look upon the sunny half of the year.

MARKED for READING

SELF-INTEREST

The world will always be governed by self-interest. We should not try to stop this, we should try to make the self-interest of each a little more coincident with that of decent people.

—The Notebooks of Samuel Butler.

RECESSIONAL

"The statistician with his plotted graph showing where we will arrive 10 years hence is not as convincing as he was of yore. I have seen too many fine ascending projections dip into the cellar these past few years."

—J. W. Duffie, 1938.

RUSSIAN HUMOR

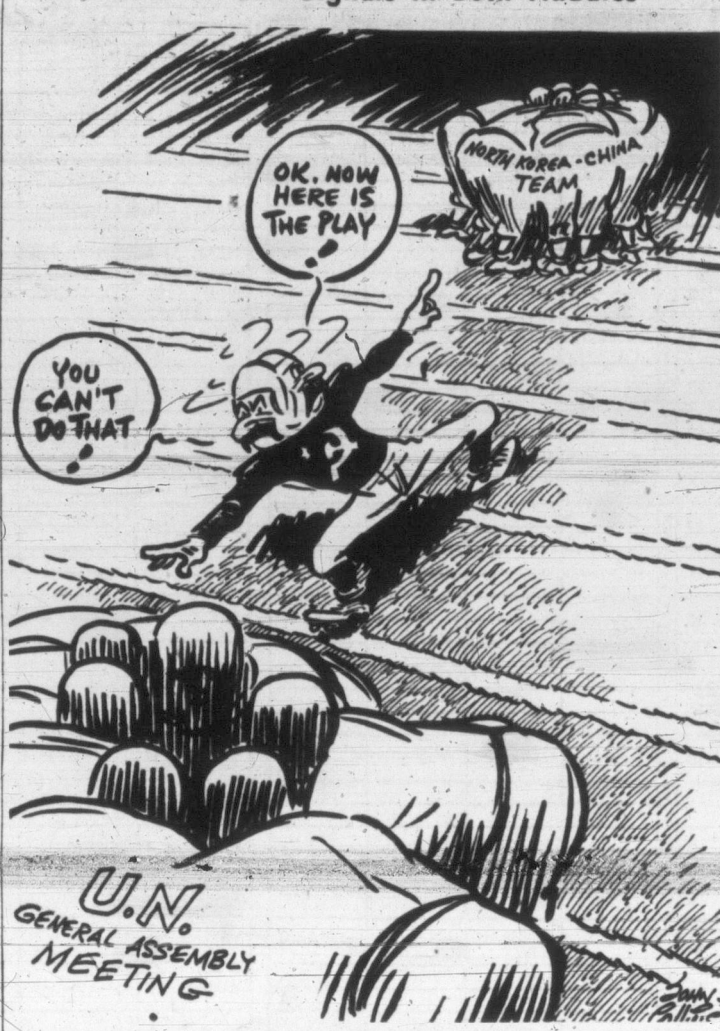

"But we found time for some relaxation. For example, one evening we went dancing, and I found I could dance okay to the Russian band. As a matter of fact, it performed much like a name dance band here, with the bandleader and his boys putting on skits and an M.C. cracking jokes—against inefficiency in government, too, if you please."

"One guy in the band says he wanted to have something or other done. 'Why don't you fill out an official form?' asks his stooge. 'If I wait for my application to go through all the red tape, I'll have a beard down to here,' answers the comic, sweeping his hand across his knees."

"The Russians indulge in plenty of this kind of satire against inefficiency, and the government encourages it; I was told. They call it criticism and self-criticism."

—John Hides, Vancouver trade unionist, quoted on his recent return from Russia by the Pacific Tribune.

Wants to Call Signals in Both Huddles

As Our Readers See It

LETTER TO PREMIER

Herewith is a copy of a letter to Mr. W. A. C. Bennett, premier of B.C., re the proposed increase in rates for our telephone service. I know that you oppose such an increase and thought that you would publish this letter in support of such opposition.

The Honorable W. A. C. Bennett,
Premier of B.C.

May I respectfully urge that our government take a firm stand against any increase in present telephone rates.

If the private companies find it impossible to provide adequate and expanding service at present rates, may I urge that the government study the possibility of provincial ownership of the telephone system of our province, a step found necessary in other provinces if the people were to be supplied with adequate phone service.

The essential service of telephones should not be restricted by the exigencies of earning profit for private shareholders. Telephones, like schools, roads and postal services are essential to the welfare of our people and if private enterprise cannot meet the requirements satisfactorily, then it is the responsibility and duty of the government to take over.

If the government decides to take action along these lines it can be assured of my support in the Legislature.

PEMBERTON WOODS PARK

In drawing attention to the proposed cancellation of Pemberton Woods Park, quite apart from expectation of town planning, preservation of small beauty areas, sanctuaries for old and young, etc., this area was set aside and dedicated as a park on Nov. 20, 1951, under by-law No. 3702 by our municipal council, many members of which are still functioning as our elected civic body.

This by-law came about as a result of many representations to the council, which appellants included P.T.A., dog owners, family men and women, and individual property owners, as well as those who intended to purchase their homesites near to this park.

In our own case, we built adjacent to the park for the specific reason of furthering our interest in "wild birds," and here set up the beginnings of a "sanctuary"—feed trays, suet racks, nesting places, etc., where for the past three years migrations and congregations of countless varieties of birds have descended, lingered and fed ere they winged their way onwards at Nature's compelling urge.

All this the "children" have loved with a deep natural interest. "Progress" comes under many guises, but such a plan as, the one proposed above is "recession" from true values in town planning. Revenue profits can be had elsewhere than in an already dedicated park, especially when that park is the only "free area" of parkland within a radius of several miles. Let the finance committee discover their "heart".

NOTHING AT ALL?

Your issue of Oct. 29, on page 3, carried a report on a talk of Leonard G. Hatcher to the Victoria Chapter of the Architectural Association of Canada. His statement was published as follows: "To the visitor there is nothing to make him happy for having come. For the resident there is nothing to make him feel happy for living here."

The above must be Mr. Hatcher's trend of thought only, and does in no way express the thoughts of the many thousands of Victorians who consider it a privilege and blessing to reside here, and call it home.

The tourists, whom we always welcome, return many, many times.

The natural beauty of Vancouver Island is an attraction in itself. Hence Mr. Hatcher should make an apology through the press.

Will You Remember?

The Remembrance Day poppy campaign is well under way. Several veterans have been canvassing the business houses selling wreaths and poppies for window display purposes. The people of Victoria have always very generously supported the Canadian Legion in the Poppy Day sale of poppies and wreaths and are again doing so this year.

The proceeds from these sales are used to provide assistance for disabled veterans whose cases do not come under any of the usual categories of pension or assistance.

On Poppy Day we not only buy and wear a poppy to assist those who are less fortunate in health, but we wear it for remembrance of those men who in two great wars and now in Korea paid the supreme sacrifice, so that we might maintain our Canadian way of life. We owe it to these men to remember them on this day of the year.

Volunteer workers are needed to sell poppies on Saturday, November 8, to cover every corner of the city and the outlying districts.

The committee office is located at 911 Government Street.

Volunteers may phone E 2014. Any one wishing to purchase a wreath can also phone the above number.

Life's Darkest Moment

By H. T. WEBSTER

From Our Files

Nov. 4, 1892 — The Junction of Belleville and Menzies Streets is in terrible condition and the members of the James Bay Athletic Club have fairly to wade through the mud to reach the club-house.

Nov. 4, 1912 — An advertisement over the name of Thomas Shepherd, municipal clerk, calls for tenders "for the installation of a complete system of street lighting in the Township of Esquimalt."

Nov. 4, 1932 — Eleven youths altogether will be summoned for yandallism on Halloween, police stated today, as two more juveniles, alleged to have caused damage, were located.

Registering A Protest

You have published several letters attacking the recent jury show at the Arts Centre.

As long as the writers of these letters confined themselves to expressing dislike of the pictures exhibited, they were, of course, within their rights; and argument on a question of taste is usually pointless and useless. However, when Mr. Barker, writing as past-president of an arts society, and others recommend on the basis of their preference for traditional forms of painting that civic financial support to the Centre be withheld, it becomes necessary for those holding differing views to register a protest.

'FINANCIAL CLUB'

The suggestion that any municipal body, under pressure from interested persons or groups, use a financial club to control the selection of paintings accepted or rejected for exhibition is surely not to be taken seriously. By a logical extension of such a policy a city council might order a symphony orchestra to play no modern music, or a public library to purge its shelves of all contemporary novels.

I believe there must be many persons like myself, neither painters, art students nor members of the Arts Centre, who attended the jury show in question with interest and pleasure. My impression, although I cannot support it with statistics, is that a fair number of the paintings might have been called "representational." The "abstract" pictures I accepted as honest exploration of a form of expressing experience which was important to the painter.

On the subject, Emily Carr in her autobiography quotes from a letter written to her by Lawren Harris:

'LEARN A LITTLE MORE'

"My present approach is by way of abstraction. I have done quite a number and with each one learn a little more, or increase that particular way of perceiving. Feeling can be as deep, as human, spiritual and resonant in abstract as in representational work; but, because one has less to rely on by way of association, it requires a greater precision. There is no doubt in my mind that abstraction enlarges the scope of painting enormously. It replaces nothing, it adds to the realm of painting, makes possible an incalculable range of ideas that representational painting is closed to, increases the field of experience—enlarges it—that is surely all to the good, but abstraction definitely cannot displace or replace representational painting. If one has not zest, conviction and feeling, one is no better off in abstract, indeed less so."

Surely one may accept that as the statement of an artist of integrity, and put personal likes or dislikes aside sufficiently to be interested in seeing a truly contemporary form of expression.

'IN HIS OWN WAY'

No painter or artist in any other field can claim as a right that the public like or understand his work. But any artist who is honest in his approach to his craft (and it is a bold self-appointed judge who undertakes to assess a fellow painter's artistic honesty) has a right to work in his own way and let his work stand or fall with critics and public according to his success.

Most artists grant that right as a matter of course, respecting the artistic liberty of their colleagues as fundamental to their own liberty, and recognizing any suggestion of a dictatorship of taste as a threat to the freedom and growth of all art.

The Arts Centre has been the means of bringing to Victoria many exhibitions which have been stimulating and enriching to those who saw them. Membership in the Centre is open to all who wish to join, and non-members may attend the exhibitions for less than half the price of a movie.

It would be a loss to many if the work of the Centre should be curtailed or hampered by personal dislikes and bitterness. It might be useful if at least a few who believe in its value were as articulate in support as its detractors are in attack.

Ups and Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"IT'S A GREAT THING," said the Elevator Man, "not to get so wrapped up in the other fellow's fight that you become more earnest than he is. It's all right to be enthusiastic on somebody else's behalf. But always keep just a pace behind the leader. That way you won't get away out in front and suddenly find the rest of the crowd has lost interest and left you there. And you won't ever get in the position of those fellows in a bar in Mexico City who got so excited about the U.S. elections that one got killed and several injured in a knife fight. While Ike and Adlai are sticking to words, that should be good enough for their supporters. Not until the main boys pick up knives should the followers get so hot. Over-enthusiasm, like too much of any stimulant, can be fatal. Lower main!"

"Often," said the Elevator Man, "people would be surprised at the reasons why their followers get enthusiastic. I suppose many a good-looking young professor has been gratified at the sudden interest of the girls in numismatics or calculus, little realizing the enthusiasm was for his curly hair. And teen-aged Willie's increasing concern for the drama could really be based on that little blonde understudy he took home after rehearsal. Lower main!"

"That youngster," said the Elevator Man, "was a good example of what I mean. His teacher had taken the class to a concert to develop their appreciation of music. Afterwards they all went to a restaurant and had a feed of huns and cake and ice cream. As they were getting ready to go home, the teacher asked 'Johnnie, did you enjoy the concert?' 'Oh, yes,' he said happily. 'All except the music.'"

Saanich Hotly Debates Desirability of Race Track Project

A public meeting called by Saanich Council Monday indicated that Saanich residents are sharply divided on whether to allow the construction of a race track in the municipality.

The meeting was called to hear persons for or against an application of the Royal-Portage Parks Ltd. for the rezoning of 527 acres in Saanich to permit the erection of a race track and exhibition grounds in the Burnside Road and Prospect Lake area.

Strong arguments for and against the racing project were expressed by people representing various organizations and their own personal interests. The meeting was attended by nearly 200 persons representing a cross-section of the population of Saanich.

Councillors took no action on the issue at the end of the meeting but adjourned the matter to the next council meeting to be held next Monday.

Councillor A. P. Cummins told the meeting he will press the council to submit the question to referendum.

"The project concerns all the people of Saanich," said Mr. Cummins. "After all, if racing comes to Saanich, the effects of racing will crop up in our law courts, in our social and police departments, business and taxation. The responsibility should be placed in the hands of the people."

Two other councillors, R. H. Wooten and G. S. Eden, indicated they will support a referendum if such a course of action "is considered necessary."

While the meeting was orderly and good humor prevailed for the most part, there were times when opposing factions clashed in bitter dispute.

Lawyer J. G. Rutman, representing the company, told the meeting that the race track was a "business proposition" supported by a group of Victoria businessmen. He said if the area involved is rezoned, the race track will be completed by August, 1954.

GUARANTEE OFFERED

He said the company intended to put up bonds as a guarantee that it will go through with the project.

"I want to make it clear the company does not intend to construct only a race track," he said. "Exhibition buildings will eventually be erected on the proposed property."

Mr. Rutman was asked by Councillor Wooten if as an Oak Bay resident he had supported the continuance of the race track at the former Willows racing grounds.

"I think that is an unfair question," said Mr. Rutman, addressing Reeve Joseph Casey. "I am here acting as legal representative of this company."

Later Mr. Wooten apologized to Mr. Rutman for asking the question.

BRINGS PETITION

R. G. Phillips, Holland Avenue, submitted a petition signed by 70 residents in the Holland Avenue district requesting the council not to allow the construction of a race track. It was the only petition submitted at the meeting.

"We believe that the race track will not be good for our children," said Mr. Phillips. "We could get hundreds of other people to sign this petition."

"I'll fight this to the last," said H. G. Pearson, Gordon Head. "This will only increase gambling and won't do the people any good. The only people who will make money will be the promoters."

He claimed that undesirable people attended horse racing.

"What about the King and Queen," interjected Councillor Leslie Passmore. "They attend horse racing."

Mr. Penman answered that horse racing is different in England.

WOMEN OPPOSED

A representative of the Lake Hill Women's Institute said the organization was against the racing project.

A spokesman for the Thoroughbred Horse Breeders Association said a race track would be beneficial to horse breeders.

"A race track is bad for business," said R. Huntley. "Money goes to the races instead of the shops."

Mrs. J. G. Nordal, representing the Victoria Auto Court Association, said the owners of auto courts felt that a race track is a tourist attraction. She also said that many retired people are in favor of horse racing on South Vancouver Island.

B. G. Gillie took two councillors to task, charging that they had already made up their minds on the issue. He was referring to Councillors H. K. Bate and Leslie Passmore.

Mr. Bate said he saw nothing wrong with horse racing and could not see how it could be injurious to youth.

Mr. Passmore answered that he had not made up his mind yet on the issue but was considering the project. "When I do, I'll tell you plainly," said the councillor. "I never hide anything."

"You can't legislate morals," said another resident. "Horse racing is no different than sweepstakes."

Residents argued back and forth on the effects horse racing has on the morals of youth.

Some persons contended the race track should be built near Sidney or Central Saanich. They felt that the present proposed site was "not good town planning," as numerous roads will have to be constructed to the area.

Gordon Head was thought an appropriate site by two persons.

One person spoke out against the holding of a referendum. He was Capt. James Barr.

"I don't think a referendum will be fair," he said. "You will have people in Gordon Head, for example voting in favor of the project simply because the race track is not being built near their homes."

THE CAINE MUTINY

SYNOPSIS

(Design Willie Seward Keith faced a crisis. Posted to the minesweeper U.S.S. Caine he had arrived at Honolulu to find her gone and had been reported to the office pool on coding duty, a circumstance he owed to his proven as an ensign at the piano with which he had amused an admiral. The opus a letter his father had handed to him before he left New York with instructions not to open it until he was on board the Caine. Willie opened the letter, since apparently he was apparently placed at Honolulu, and was horrified to read his father's dying message. A cable home confirmed his father's death three days earlier. (Shocked) Willie asked to be posted aboard the Caine, and after some weeks he realized his ambition, only to find the ship a slowly home for cynical officers and a crew which appeared to have lost all sense of discipline and traditional navy standards. (Another day aboard ship sees Willie build up an intense hatred for Capt. De Vries and arrive at a decision to never rest until he had gotten himself off the Caine. At sea Willie sees the Caine in action for the first time as a minesweeper on a practice run. He is greatly surprised to learn that De Vries is a graduate from the O.W.I. office. (Failure to decide an action dispatch gets Willie a serious reprimand from Capt. De Vries and confinement to the limits of the ship for three days.) (There is great excitement aboard ship with the arrival of Capt. Queeg, new commanding officer.)

Fifteenth installment from the book THE CAINE MUTINY, copyright, 1951, by Herman Wouk. Distributed by Doubleday Syndicate.

At 4:30 the next afternoon the officers of the Caine were all seated around the wardroom table.

Queeg laid a fresh pack of cigarettes and a packet of matches in front of him, and looked around with a smile as his officers took their seats. He tore open the pack deliberately, lit a cigarette, and took two steel balls out of his pocket. Rubbing them softly back and forth in his fingers, he began to speak.

"Well, gentlemen, I just thought we ought to get acquainted. We're going to be shipmates for a long time. You're probably wondering about me, and I confess I'm a little curious about you, though I've formed some pretty good first impressions. I think this is a fine ship with a splendid wardroom of officers. I think we're going to have a good cruise and, I hope, as Captain de Vries put it, some good hunting. I intend to give you every co-operation, and I expect the same in return. There is such a thing as loyalty upward, and such a thing as loyalty downward. I desire and expect to get absolute loyalty upwards. If I do, you'll get loyalty downward. If I don't, well, I'll find out why, and I'll see to it that I do." He laughed, indicating that this was a joke, and the officers nearest him smiled.

"I want you to remember one thing," Queeg went on. "Aboard my ship excellent performance is standard. Standard performance is sub-standard. Sub-standard performance is not permitted to exist. Now Rome wasn't built in a day, and this ship has been sailing a hell of a long time without me and, as I say, I regard you as a splendid wardroom of officers. If there's anything that I want changed in anybody's department you'll find out about it fast enough. Meantime you will go on with your duties as before, remembering, as I say, that on my ship excellent performance is standard."

Queeg dropped the shred of the cigarette slowly into his coffee cup.

"Well, now that I've shot my face off," said Queeg, "I'll give anyone else who wants to the chance to do the same. . . . Nobody? Okay."

He rose, picking up his cigarettes. The officers stood. "Don't get up," he said. "Thank you all." He went into his cabin.

The officers looked around at each other. After a moment's stillness Gorton inquired, "Anybody got anything on his mind?"

"When is the gig showing off for the beach?" said Keefe.

"At 1800," said Gorton. "I'm glad you asked, because you'll have the gangway then."

"In a pig's eye," said Keefe genially. "I'll be in the gig. I've got me a date with a college graduate from the O.W.I. office."

She knows words of two syllables. It promises to be a highly intellectual evening, after life on the Caine."

"Well, in words of one syllable, you're a dead duck," said Gorton.

New watch-stander orders. Four officers aboard at all times in port. Me or the captain, and all three—repeat, all three—officers of the duty section. I believe your section has the duty?"

Ten minutes later Gorton poked his head into the room.

"Skipper wants to see you. Put on your saddle and report to the sawdust ring."

"With pleasure," growled Keefe, leaping out of his bed.

Captain Queeg was standing at the washbasin in his room, shaving. "Tell me, Tom," he began, "what do you think of your assistant, Keith?"

"Willie? He's a good kid."

"I mean, as an officer?"

"Well, he has a lot to learn, like any ensign. He'll be fine."

"I'm not interested in what he'll be. As of now, I agree with you that he's a nice kid—and also extremely immature. Particularly for a custodian of registered publications."

Keefe said hastily, "Sir, I'm certain Keith can handle that assignment to perfection."

"The boy obviously knows nothing about classified stowage, Tom. Why, secret pubs are jammed and flopped around in the safe-like garbage. And he has pubs in the radio shack, pubs on the bridge—not a single custody receipt to show for them, either. Is that your idea of registered stowage, boy?"

It was exactly Keefe's idea, as a matter of fact. Willie had inherited an appalling mess, but the novelist had airily laughed, saying, "This isn't a battleship, Willie. Forget about the custody-receipt malarkey. We're all pals together on the Caine." The ensign had innocently believed him.

Keefe said, "Well, of course, sir, things could be a bit more shipshape—I'll get on his tail..."

"Nothing doing. You relieve him."

"Sir, pardon me, there isn't a ship in this squadron with a full custodian as custodian—it's an ensign's collateral duty—always."

"Well, I don't want to be unreasonable about it," said Queeg. "How long do you think it would take you to train up Keith as a custodian?"

"A few days, a week at most,

and Willie can know that manual by heart."

"Fine. We'll let it go at that."

"Aye-aye, sir. Thank you."

"Don't get me wrong," said Queeg. "Meantime I want you to relieve him. This evening."

"What! And go through an inventory and transfer report? And then, again, in reverse, three days from now?"

"We have lot of time and transfer forms."

"Sir, a department head who's a top watch-stander doesn't have an infinite amount of time. If you expect efficient performance of my main duties..."

"I expect efficient performance of all your duties. This business may cut into your novel-writing."

"Fine," said Keefe. (To Be Continued)

little. But of course, none of us is aboard to write novels." In the poisoned silence that followed Queeg opened his drawers. They slid to the deck, and he kicked them into a corner. "Well," he said cheerfully, picking up a towel, "I hope the shower has hot water."

Keefe said in a slow, strangled tone. "Sir, do you object to my working on a novel?"

"No! at all, Tom," said Queeg, taking a faded blue bathrobe out of his narrow closet. "An outside interest of an intellectual kind is recommended for all officers, as a stimulant to clear thinking and alertness."

"Fine," said Keefe. (To Be Continued)

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

The Western Hockey League season is one month down with five to go and the Vancouver Canucks and Saskatoon Quakers, the early season powerhouses (for Vancouver an unfamiliar role), are headed for their first big showdown at Vancouver tonight as last year's champs hit the show for the first time.

And still the Vancouver line-up continues to change as Art Chapman keeps pulling strings attached to which are hockey players who can score goals.

It's a case of the players being required to meet the demands occasioned by a seemingly never-ending supply of talent. So far, it's paying off with the Canucks winging their way out in front. Those who fail, face banishment to the salt mine operated by Murphy "my kind of team" Chamberlain at Sydney.

The same situation holds true on the Cougars to a lesser extent. The Canucks are winning, winning much more than the Cougars, two of whom face extinction within the fortnight.

But what is a knockdown? a count of 10, which a man may take for a rest; and it gives him a chance to come up again and do his particular best. The Cats are down, but far from out, and with four home games on tap, could again ignite that flame that smoldered briefly against Seattle Friday night.

Victoria Kins 65, Vancouver Clover Leafs 59: This was a big one for the Kins and coach Busher Jackson who are off on their yearly crusade of trying to put the "basket" back in city basketball.

Good, better, best; never let it rest until the good is the better and the better, best. And Johnny Clark proved beyond doubt that he is one of the best ramming home 34 points against the Leafs. Why, oh why, was he ever left off the Olympic team last year?

"One of the greatest performances I have ever seen," said Leaf coach Ron Webster.

Victoria United 3, North Shore 0: What is a failure? It's only a spur to the man who receives it right, and it makes the spirit with him stir to do it once more and fight.

You can't figure the game of George Eade. One day they appear headed for obscurity, a tie and a loss at home; the next, with their idle ace Wally Milligan dragging his injured gam behind him, they snap back to look like the champions they were last year.

You can't tell a player without a program and you can't appreciate the game fully if you don't know the rules. Just a tip for the Canadian Footballers who are doing a grand job of re-making a place in sport for an equally grand game. Even a diagrammed placard would help, although it's probably a case of locking the barn door after the horse is stolen at this stage of the season.

The game has regained its popularity to such an extent that the plan to hold the city finals under the floodlights at Athletic Park is offered in all sincerity and the feeling that it would be a success.

Almost lost in the week-end haze was the fact that Wally Yeamans' King Realty women cagers, scored 43 points against the Canadian champion Ellers from Vancouver. Said Wally: "That's what pleases me because I know we can crush up on our scoring." Maybe another light is burning bright on the basketball scene. It was the women who gave Victoria its last Canadian title. Does anybody remember when?

You won't find a more conscientious fellow than Reg Abbott... when someone remarked about his golf prowess. (He plays to a 10 handicap). Reg answered: "Yeh, but this is the hockey season, not golf" ... and what about next year's Shamrocks.

Archie Browning is building airplanes at Brantford, Arnie Ferguson has hidden his shoes and now Darrell Popham leaves for service with the R.C.A.F. ... and last there be those who disagree with the Cougars playing golf (and there are) don't you think it's a far better exercise than other athletes have been known to indulge in at times when time was heavy on their hands?

There was no scoring in the second half.

MOUNT VIEW EDGES ESQUIMALT Bays Still Unbeaten In Prep Soccer Race

Last year's finalists in the Interhigh School Senior Soccer League moved closer to a repeat performance Monday when they both won squeaker victories.

Oak Bay took over the lead and retained their unbeaten streak by winning a tough 1-0 duel with a surprisingly strong Mount Douglas team on the loser's field.

Mount View, defending champions of the league title, stayed two points behind Oak Bay and one point behind Victoria High by slipping past Esquimalt 2-1 in a game abbreviated by darkness.

In the Oak Bay-Mount Douglas match, the teams fought on even terms, neither team being able to take the initiative.

Eddie Out Of Pocket

Eddie Dorohoy's outburst against Western Hockey League referee Scotty Morrison in New Westminster Saturday night has left the Cougar playing coach considerably out of pocket.

For arguing over penalties, Dorohoy was given two misconducts, each carrying an automatic $10 fine.

League president Al Leeder announced Monday that Dorohoy had been fined an additional $50 for using abusive language against the official, making a total of $70.

In addition, the Cougars lost the game, 5-2.

GEORGE HAS TROUBLES—PICKBURN TO HOSPITAL

If troubles came in freight cars, George Eade would own a railroad.

Eade's Victoria United, currently runners-up in the Coast Soccer League, have for the past three weeks been operating with little of an offense, due to a leg injury to Wally Milligan. Centre forward Milligan, before his injury, was the club's top scorer and one of the best goal-producers in the league.

But he is to be joined on the side-lines by John Pickburn, one of the club's steady defensive performers. Pickburn injured his knee in last Saturday's match with North Shore and will enter hospital this week for surgery. It will be the second time this season that the clever halfback has been shelved by injured knees.

Commercial Puck Squads In Four-Way Tie for Lead

Merchants 10, Army 2
Navy 4, Individuals 0

By DENNY BOYD

The Commercial Hockey League's first place is a narrow precipice and as of Monday night there are four clubs clawing and jostling to avoid being elbowed into the dark brink below.

Merchants' 10-2 trampling of Army, and Navy's 4-0 blanking of Individual Cleaners, left all four teams tied for first place, each having one piece of wins, losses and ties.

However, if Monday's game can be taken as any criterion, the situation will not last long as Merchants and Navy were vastly superior to the teams they defeated.

Merchants in particular impressed the crowd with their latent power. Their powerful meat grinder made stewing beef of the Army defense, allowing the Lackie-men to feed at their leisure.

First Penalty Shot in Two Years

Ellis stopped the first penalty shot that Commercial fans have seen in two years. The infraction occurred when Army's hard-working Les Corby broke over centre, split two defensesmen and shot a low liner that Ellis got a skate to. The puck was slowly slithering across the line when Merchants' defenseman Bill Reynolds dove into the net and deflected the puck.

Reynolds was charged with pushing the puck out with his hand and Corby was given the puck at centre. He skated in slowly, made a move to fake Ellis, but then shot directly at the goalie. As the shot was missed, Reynolds was given a minor penalty.

And Then They Forgot to Play Hockey

Joe Wood, in strip for Navy for the first time scored the first goal of the game, a dazzling piece of stick work, at 9:43 of the first period.

Russ McKay, on a screened shot, and Wood, on a close-in move, made it 3-0 in the second period and then the hockey of the hockey game ceased abruptly.

Temperatures that had simmered as a result of hard checks thrown on both sides began to bubble like lava. Referee Leo Ornest and linesman Johnny Ruryk tried to clamp down by calling everything, but by then it was too late.

When Archie McLean, standing perilously near the crease, passed in Navy's fourth goal on bangles from Steve Harris and Al Standley, McPherson became coach Fergie McPherson became

Kilburn Top Cougar In W.H.L. Point Race

Speedy Cougar winger Colin Kilburn was rolling like a freight train in the Western Hockey League scoring race until late fate stepped in and sprained his ankle in New Westminster Saturday night.

At present, Kilburn is the Cougar's leading scorer with nine goals and eight assists which puts him in third spot in the league point race.

Cats' coach Eddie Dorohoy is the only other member of the team to appear in the top five, having five goals and eight assists, earning him a fifth place tie.

Jack McIntyre is in sixth spot with half a dozen goals and the same number of assists, while pint-sized Jim Fairburn has picked up 11 points in the short time he has been with the club.

Ian Mackintosh of Vancouver continues to dominate the scorers, however, with 11 goals and nine assists for 20 points. Saskatoon's George Senick who figured in every Quaker goal except one, Saturday for seven points moved from 15th to a second place tie with Larry Poppen.

The scoring: G. A. T.P.
Ian Macintosh, Van. 11 8 20
Larry Poppen, Van. 10 10 20

DALRAY WINS MELBOURNE CUP

MELBOURNE, Nov. 4 (AP).—Dalray, top-weighted four-year-old from New Zealand, won the two-mile Melbourne Cup, Australia's biggest horse race today.

Dalray, backed by more than $1,125,000, won by a half-length and was timed in 3:23 1/4 for the gruelling grind, over Flemington race course, Welkin Sun, second and another outsider, six-year-old Reford, finished third.

The victory was worth $31,560 for Dalray's owner, C. Neville.

Three Hunting Seasons to Close Sunday

The island hunting fraternity have less than a week to get quotas of buck deer, pheasants and willow grouse.

Open season on these three game targets closes Sunday evening.

From then on, the only open targets will be wild fowl. As yet the shooting in these parts for ducks has not been good. It is expected to pick up when the flights start winging their way from the north seeking warmer climates.

Game wardens on the Island Highway check last Sunday said the bucks they saw were healthy-looking animals and also reported that the dampening-down the woods received from recent rains had improved that hunting picture.

Stan Leonard Changes Mind

VANCOUVER, Nov. 4 (CP).—Stan Leonard, so disgusted with his game three months ago that he said he was quitting big-time golf, Monday accepted an invitation to represent Canada in the $13,000 international four-ball tournament at Miami Beach, Fla., December 18 and 21.

His partner will be Pat Fletcher of Regina, Canadian professional champion. Leonard won the Canadian title in 1951.

Leonard may also compete in the $10,000 pro-amateur at Havana, Cuba, December 3 to 6, in the LaGorce pro-amateur at Miami December 9 and the $10,000 Miami open December 11 to 14.

Skillings Most Torrid Of Red Hot Hoopsters

Racks Up 23 Points; Tiremen Win

Individual scoring antics stole the spotlight in a three-game card of the Victoria and District Basketball Association at Victoria High School Monday night.

Waldo Skillings Jr. of First United racked up 23 points to take top honors as he notched all but 10 of his team's points in their 33-28 victory over St. Louis College in a bantam boys' contest.

Skillings' total was two better than compiled by Jack Shields and Bill Garner of Dickinson and Dunn.

The church boys held a slight margin most of the way, leading 12-7 at the quarter, 20-16 at the half and 26-24 at three-quarter time.

Kolb and Richardson sank field goals to put the losers in front 28-26 early in the final canto but Skillings came through with three baskets and Haneson added a free shot to clinch the verdict for the United.

Free-throw weakness plagued both clubs as St. Louis College converted only six of 22 attempts and First United sank but three of 12 throws.

Dickinson and Dunn trounced Victoria College 66-20 in a senior B game, with Shields and Garner netting 21 points each.

The decision was never in doubt as Tiremen led 19-2 at the quarter, 34-10 at the half and 47-16 at three-quarter time.

COLLEGIANS WIN

St. Louis College romped to a 43-24 victory over Vampires in a juvenile boys' contest. A big first quarter saw the Collegians leading 19-3, but they could only match baskets with the losers for the rest of the game.

Line-ups follow:

Dickinson & Dunn—Hodges 2, Woudlett 5, Garner 21, Watson 8, Jahraus, Shields 21, Cronk 4, Total—66.
Victoria College—Achtem, Page 2, Pritchard, Abbott 7, Smith 1, Dixon 1, Lou Poy 3, Vachon 2, Total—20.
Vampires—Gilbert 11, McKay 5, McMeekin 3, DeMacedo 2, Murry 3, Thompson, Liddons, Total—24.
St. Louis College juveniles—Martin 6, Longpre 8, Butcher, Cassidy 11, McChoe 2, Clarkson 4, O'Neill 10, Dawson, Delaparte, Piro 3, Total—43.
St. Louis College bantams—Kirk 4, Kolb 3, Flynn 3, Bayless 4, Richardson 3, Haneson 2, McCoy 1, Pagan, Wells, Lacroix, Total—34.
First United—Skillings 23, McCulloch 2, Walker 4, Fitzgerald, Haneson 1, McDougall, Taylor, Farquhar 2, Galbraith, Total—33.

Marg Todd Takes Medal

Margaret Todd fired a 78 at Uplands Golf Club Monday to win low gross honors in the medal round for women with handicaps of 15 and under.

Humez Tames Hairston in Dull Bout

PARIS, Nov. 4 (UP)—Charles Humez of France, who has his eye on the world middleweight title, scored a 10-round decision over Eugene Hairston of New York Monday night but gained little prestige in a fight marred by lack of punches and frequent clinches.

Humez won by launching a flurry of blows late in the fight. Hairston showed none of his usual speed and clinched frequently during the last four rounds. The 16,000 fans booed and whistled throughout the match, which was considered the worst seen here this year.

Humez weighed 158½ pounds and Hairston 159½. Both fighters were aiming for an impressive triumph that would bring a chance at the middleweight crown if champion Ray (Sugar) Robinson decided to retire. Humez ranks third behind Randy Turpin of Britain and Carl (Bobo) Olson of Hawaii among the middleweight contenders. Hairston also is ranked high in the division.

Fielder Leads A.H.L. Scorers

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (CP)—One of the few American Hockey League players born in the United States, rookie Guy Fielder of the St. Louis Flyers, this week leads league scorers with a total of 13 points.

Phil McAtee leads the goalkeepers with an average of two goals a game.

State Gridders Still Top Poll

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—In the closest overall balloting of the season, Michigan State held its No. 1 position in the Associated Press football poll Monday although the most first place votes went to Maryland.

Maryland also clung to its No. 2 spot but there was a new tenant in third place as Georgia Tech moved ahead of Oklahoma on the strength of its impressive 28-7 victory over Duke last Saturday at Durham. Duke, sixth last week, dropped to 12th.

Completing the top ten, in order, are: University of California at Los Angeles, Southern California, Kansas, Tennessee, Purdue and Notre Dame.

Boros Named Pro 'Golf of Year'

CHICAGO, Nov. 4 (AP)—The dramatic rise of Julius Boros to fame and fortune in one season today earned him professional golfer's highest award.

The 32-year-old Hungarian-born swinger was selected professional golfer of the year by the Professional Golfers' Association.

He received an overwhelming 314 votes in a poll of P.G.A. members and sports writers. Runner-up Sam Snead got only 26 votes.

Mount Carmel, Pa.—Johnny Lombardo, 13½, Mount Carmel, Pa., knocked out Johnny De Sain, 15½, New York (4).

EDMONTON, Alta.—George Dunn, 134, Edmonton, outpointed Dave Shade, 137, Charlottetown, N.S. (10).

YANKS RELIEVED AS MANTLE REJECTED

No 'GI' Garb for Mickey

COMMERCE, OKLA., Nov. 4 (UP)—Mickey Mantle, young Yankee star, tucked his lunch pail under his arm today and headed for work as usual in a nearby construction company, neither outwardly elated nor dejected over his third official rejection from military service.

"It didn't make any difference either way," shrugged the 21-year-old blond outfielder when he learned that the Surgeon-General's office in Washington had rejected him because of a knee injury aggravated in the 1951 world series with the Giants.

"Whatever they decided was all right with me," declared Mantle, indicating he currently was concentrating more on his newly-gained office job with a Baxter Springs, Kan., construction company, only a few miles from his home here.

Mantle, who had been rejected twice previously because of a past history of osteomyelitis in his left leg, was relieved by the announcement for one reason, anyway. It would, he felt, limit the telephone calls to his home.

"I'm glad they finally let everyone know, so the people will quit calling me," he said. Announcement of Mantle's rejection also came as a distinct relief to the Yankees—who would have been hard-pressed to come up with a 1953 replacement for the switch-hitting center field star who batted .311 and drove in 87 runs the past season.

Following the 1951 world series, Mantle's knee bothered him so much that the Yankees sent him to Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore to learn whether an operation was required.

It was decided to forego surgery but Mantle wore a heavy elastic bandage over his knee throughout the season and during the recent world series with Brooklyn.

Maj. Gen. George Armstrong, the surgeon-general, pointed out that Mantle's disability resulted from a chronic right knee defect resulting from a tumble he took while chasing a fly ball against the Giants in the second game of the 1951 world series.

Mantle's osteomyelitis condition presumably had no bearing on his latest rejection since present military policy permits acceptance of cases with no history of recurrence for a period of two years.

The Yankee outfielder's records were sent to the surgeon-general's office for review after he first was examined at his home draft board and later at Fort Sill. Officially, Mantle's condition was found "serious enough for mandatory rejection under armed forces physical standards."

Mantle's mother, Mrs. Elvin Mantle, who is one of six persons the player helped to support on his $11,500 salary this year, said merely, "Well, I'll be darned." When informed of the army's latest decision.

But her son, reticent and unemotional as usual, said even less and went out to his job as usual.

Montreal Unit Sets Point Pace

MONTREAL, Nov. 4 (CP)—Montreal Canadiens last week slipped from top spot in the National Hockey League standings to a tie for second place with Toronto, but their ace forward line of Maurice Richard, Elmer Lach and Bert Olmstead picked up scoring points wholesale.

Richard, Lach and Olmstead are among the top six scoring leaders as shown in official league statistics issued today.

Richard, still looking for goal No. 325 to break the individual all-time scoring record he holds jointly with Nels Stewart, picked up two goals and an assist to run his point total for this season to 14 and a tie for the leadership with Toronto Leafs' Ted Kennedy who collected one goal and three assists.

Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay of Detroit Red Wings and Olmstead follow with 12 points each with Lach hard on their heels with 11.

Al Rollins of Chicago is the least scored-against goalie. He has allowed 23 pucks past him in 11 games for a 2.09 average while his closest rival, Jim Henry of Boston, has allowed 21 in during 10 games for a 2.10 average.

Ted Lindsay is still top contender for bad-man honors with 39 minutes in the penalty box.

'DESERVES NO CONSIDERATION' Voss Recommends Egan's Suspension

DETROIT, Nov. 4 (AP)—A leading hockey official said Monday that defenseman Pat Egan of Providence Reds should be banned from organized hockey. Carl Voss, chief of officials for the American and National Hockey Leagues, told a reporter Egan had "committed the most serious crime in the business and deserves no consideration."

Egan tangled with two linesmen—Patsy Callaghan and Bobby Carse—during the Red's A.H.L. game with Cleveland Barons at Cleveland Saturday night. He got a match penalty which meant automatic expulsion from that game and a $100 fine.

Voss said he has recommended to Emory Jones, American Hockey League president, that Egan be suspended until the incident is thoroughly investigated. Jones, who has the power to impose an additional penalty, said he would call a meeting early this week to look into the case.

Boxers to Show Here

Four milt slingers from Haney will be featured on a special Remembrance Day card to be held at Britannia Hall, Nov. 11 at 2:30, by the Greater Victoria Boxing Association.

Wayne Robertson, 1951 light-weight champ, and Paul Calvey, Ronnie Joe, 147 pounds, and 175-pound Pete Anderson will supply opposition for the visitors.

Six inter-club bouts featuring boxers from the fire department, Esquimalt, James Bay and St. Louis College boxing clubs, will round out the card.

DEMOCRACY NEEDS WAVERING MOSLEM

British Army Intelligence Officer Tells Canadian Club of Egypt's Problems

Egypt suffers from too many people and not enough land; the mass of Egyptians are undernourished; the reason so many chew hashish is to dull their appetites, as hashish is cheaper than food.

The average Egyptian peasant works 110 days a year, has about 35c a day to support a family of five.

And Egypt's government for 2 1/2 years "robbed Egypt with a thoroughness difficult to believe."

But if you ask any Egyptian under 45 years of age he will tell you that he has been brought up in a democracy. And most Egyptians can find little to recommend the "democracy" they have lived under.

This graphic picture of the difficulties the west labors under in Egypt was painted for the Canadian Club Monday by Brig. Cyril D. Quilliam, former deputy chief of military intelligence in Cairo.

The speaker pointed out that these conditions, plus the Moslem belief that the west is material, the east spiritual, provide a fertile breeding ground for Communist infiltration in Egypt.

ARABS DUBIOUS
The Arabs, too, are doubtful of western justice. They ask what his being done about the 1,000,000 Arab refugees from the Israeli state.

Brig. Quilliam, while painting a gloomy picture of the west's position in the Middle East, be-

Langford Organizes Community Efforts

LANGFORD, Nov. 4—Langford Community Club will be completely reorganized as a nucleus for all community work. To this end every club and organization in the district will be invited to send a delegate to the next meeting.

Committee chosen to arrange the meeting includes Mrs. A. Bewley, chairman; J. S. Yates, J. Petrie and Mrs. A. F. Bayles.

Rotary's Vaudeville Show Opening at Royal Tonight

The Rotary Club of Victoria will raise the curtain at 8.15 tonight on its third annual variety vaudeville show.

To be staged at the Royal Theatre tonight and Wednesday, the show will feature eight professional acts.

Ticket sales have been brisk, but some seats are still available. Headline act of the show is the high bouncing trampolaine team, "The Tuckettes." Bob and Diana Scott, recently with "Song of Norway," are also given star billing.

Johnny Matson, Mr. Versatility, will provide trumpet and accordion selections; the Masconis are scheduled to revive "Echoes of Musical Comedy." Jack McCoy will appear as the "Gentle-

The most sensational awning offer ever made!

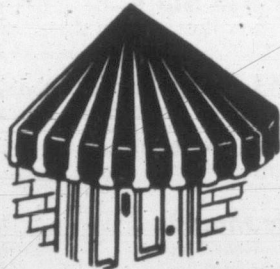

ENJOY
KOOLVENT ALUMINUM AWNINGS
this fall, all winter and next spring...
AT OUR EXPENSE!

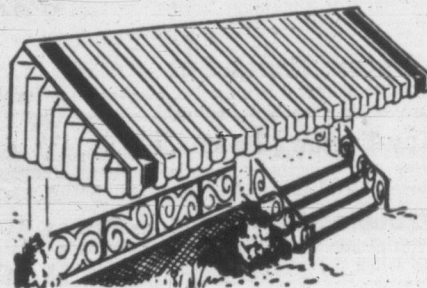

FOR COOL COMFORT. The exclusive, patented ventilated construction prevents the formation of hot air pockets under the awning, permits the cool breezes to circulate, keeps rooms as much as 20 degrees cooler in summer.

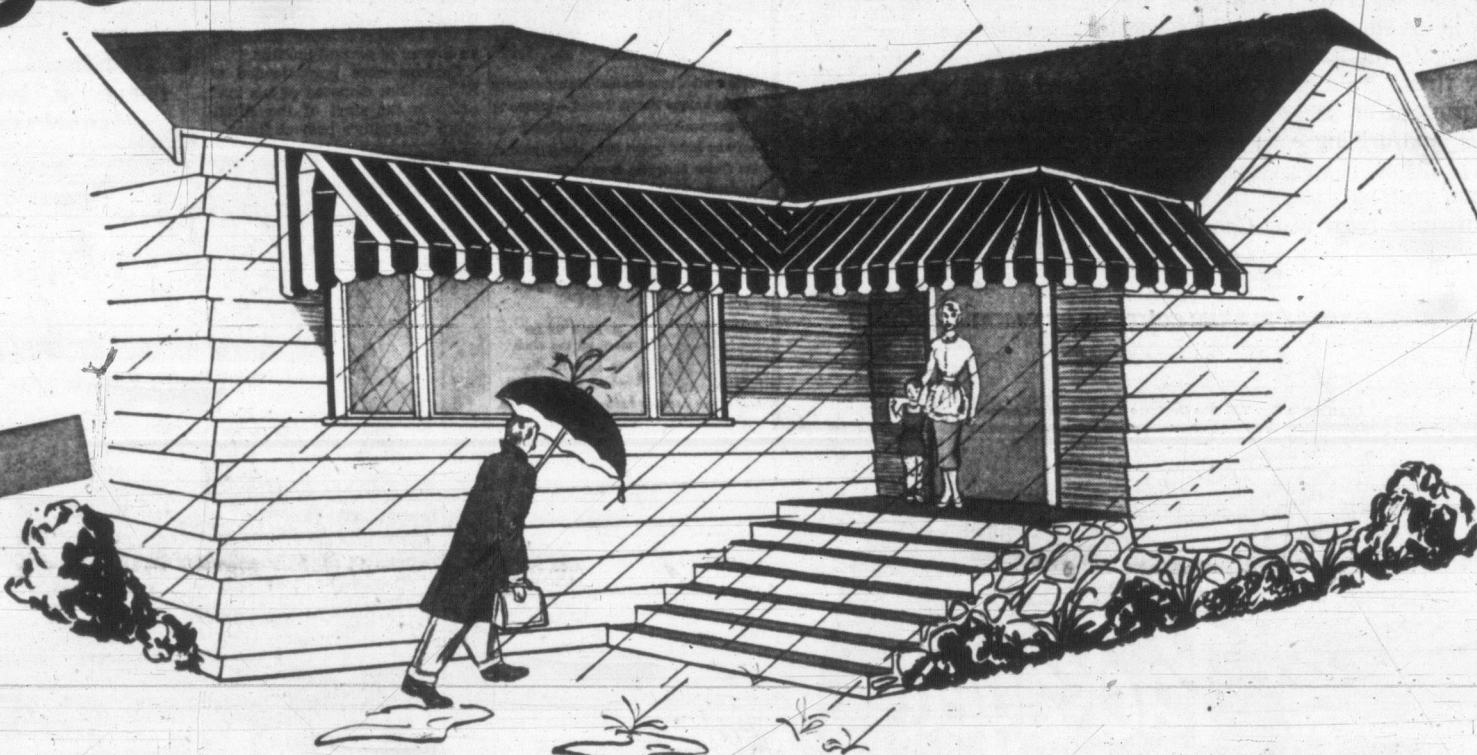

YOUR CHOICE OF COLOURS AND DESIGN. Every KoolVent is custom built to fit your own home. Choose your own design, choose your own colours in solid or striped effect. The baked-on enamel colours will not chip or crack.

KOOLVENT DOORWAY CANOPIES keep entrance-ways free of rain, sleet and snow. They are available in a variety of styles to enhance the beauty of your home.

YEAR-ROUND PROTECTION. All KoolVent coverings are built of lightweight aircraft aluminum, strongly reinforced at all points to outlast your home. They never need replacement. They will not rust, sag, tear or blow down.

For year-round beauty, comfort and protection!

During our first spring and summer of business in Victoria we have had difficulty in keeping up with the tremendous demand created for KoolVent Ventilated Aluminum Awnings. That is why we are now making what is undoubtedly the most sensational awning offer in years. You must act now for prompt delivery is guaranteed only if we receive your order before November 15th.

HERE IS OUR OFFER: We are prepared to let you enjoy the all-season benefits of KoolVent Ventilated Aluminum Awnings for the remainder of this fall and all this winter AT OUR EXPENSE! You can have KoolVent Aluminum Coverings installed on your home right now—pay for them next spring! If you've been thinking about KoolVents this is definitely the time to install them. Telephone or mail coupon for full details.

WHY WE MAKE THIS OFFER

1. We want to prove to you that KoolVents are not seasonal awnings! We want you to see for yourself how KoolVents keep rooms as much as 20 degrees cooler in summer—how they protect against rain, sleet and snow in winter.
2. We want you to prove to your complete satisfaction the year-round durability and convenience of KoolVent Ventilated Aluminum Awnings. They're permanent—never need replacement. KoolVents enhance the beauty of your home, increase its value. They will not sag, rot, rust, burn or blow down. Once up, they stay up—yours for a lifetime.

3. This year orders for KoolVent Aluminum Awnings greatly exceeded even the increased production capacity of our plant. Operating on a round-the-clock basis we still couldn't help falling behind on some deliveries. We don't want this to happen to your order next summer.

More KoolVents are sold than all other metal awnings combined!

THIS OFFER AVAILABLE UNTIL NOV. 15 ONLY—Customary deposit with your order before Nov. 15 makes this offer available to you. Balance payable March 1, 1953

Second Japanese Bride Introduced to Canada

VANCOUVER, Nov. 4 (CP).—A young Montreal soldier and his wife strolled hand in hand down Granville Street's theatre row Monday night and took in the sights.

Every so often he asked her if she was happy and urged: "Don't be nervous."

The shops and theatres, humdrum to many, were Katsuko Hiroto's introduction to her new homeland. Now Mrs. Ken Fraser, she is the second Japanese war bride to arrive in Canada.

They met while L.-Cpl. Fraser was stationed near Okayama and were married March 7 by Protestant Padre H. A. Dolg.

Differences in language didn't bother cupid during their courtship.

Sooke's Education System Expanding

LANGFORD, Nov. 4.—There are now 14 schools in Sooke School District 62, and 48 teachers earning an individual average of $3,000 per year, Trustee Mrs. A. Turner told Langford ratepayers at their annual meeting.

Construction during the year, paid by current funds, included a new school at Bear Creek and two classrooms at Langford. Building has begun on a room at Colwood, and two classrooms at Sooke.

Elected to represent the district were D. Pringle, A. Hull and J. A. Jackson.

ISLAND DIGEST

COBBLE HILL, Nov. 4.—With the opening of the P.G.E. Railway into Prince George, George E. Bonner of the Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association has suggested the C.N.R. now take over the E. & N. Railway and make Victoria its western terminus.

He said the C.N.R. route could be via the P.G.E. track from Prince George to Williams Lake, thence to Knight Inlet and to Vancouver Island through a five-mile tunnel. On the island the suggested route is through Campbell River, Port Alberni, Cowichan Lake and Sooke to Victoria.

DUNCAN, Nov. 4.—Constable Wilfred George Lambert, R.C.M.P. officer at Shawigan Lake for the last two years, has been posted to Alberni to head the four-man detachment there.

A popular figure with lake residents, he served previously in Duncan. His replacement at Shawigan Lake is Constable Stuart McIlroy, from Alberni.

NANAIMO, Nov. 4.—Second trial of Albert Fairweather on a charge of murdering Raymond Hoy's house caught fire early Monday morning while he was away. Neighbors didn't see the fire for some time so that the alarm was late going in and firemen couldn't save it. They watered down the charred ruins, though, and then went back to the station.

PORT ALBERNI, Nov. 4.—Go Hoy apparently wasn't satisfied with the initial result of the firemen's work so he called them back.

It didn't do much good, though. Hoy's house caught fire early Monday morning while he was away. Neighbors didn't see the fire for some time so that the alarm was late going in and firemen couldn't save it. They watered down the charred ruins, though, and then went back to the station.

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., Nov. 4 (BUP).—Charles Carlson, 75-year-old Prince Rupert pioneer, died in the hospital Monday following an illness of several months.

Carlson once homesteaded at Kitimat, but disposed of his land prior to the start of the Aluminum Company's project there.

Three Saskatoon Police Officers Before Commission

SASKATOON, Nov. 4 (BUP).—The three-man Saskatoon police commission met for more than three hours Monday to rule on the case of three constables who recently were suspended for "conduct detrimental to the force and insubordination."

One of the three constables—31-year-old William Burke, testified at the hearing, but the other two—J. W. Chadney and G. Holtzman—were not called upon.

The constables are accused of attacking three men in an automobile.

The hearing was adjourned until next Monday afternoon when the remainder of the witnesses will be heard.

LIQUOR ENQUIRY BOARD HOLDS ONE-NIGHT STANDS IN NORTH

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C., Nov. 4 (BUP).—The three-man B.C. liquor inquiry commission holds a one-night stand tonight at Prince George on its swing through north-central B.C.

The commission heard briefs Monday night at Prince Rupert and moves to Kamloops Wednesday and returns to Vancouver Thursday. The commission will hold hearings next week at Nanaimo, Penticton and Nelson.

NOTICE TO VICTORIA MOTORISTS

City and suburban car owners are warned that snow and ice will create winter driving hazards. You will be wise to investigate the new Suburbanite by Goodyear before buying snow tires. This new tire is so far ahead of all others in performance on packed snow and ice, it means a new era of safety and driving ease in winter. Working on an entirely new principle, it surpasses any other snow tire made today. Before you buy snow tires, get the whole story of the Suburbanite from your Goodyear Dealer.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

Mrs. J. C. Nimmo, of 261 Leigh Road, Langford, is in a high state of consternation.

"I'm upset," she writes, "because, until quite recently, I believed almost everything I read in The Times."

The reason for her consternation is evidenced in two clippings from the newspaper.

One refers to an event planned for Nov. 31, the other to one arranged for Sept. 31.

Mrs. Nimmo asks if we on The Times have forgotten the old rhyme about "30 days hath September."

Indeed we have not, Mrs. Nimmo. But we DO have a slightly revised version:

"Thirty days hath September,
April, June and November.
A pox on all such schoolboy rhymes,
We're INDEPENDENT on The Times."

As a matter of fact, I have a good use for the two dates mentioned.

We should pass a law, compelling Tim Buck to keep all his speeches on Sept. 31, and J. G. Endicott all HIS on Nov. 31.

A New York department store advertises a "bull-horn" for automobiles. "The horn was designed as a cattle caller for stockmen," the store explains, "and its gentle moo or full-throated bawl are a polite relief from usual car signals."

That may be all very well for New York, but the first time a car moos at me around these parts, I am going to make it produce its certificate of buttermilk content.

While we are on the bovine front, I have to report the shocking news that some Ontario cows have been staggering home to the barn at all hours, obviously under the influence of alcohol.

Do not jump to the conclusion that they are being plied with strong drink by some curly-haired handsome smooth-tongued but with evil intentions.

The scientific explanation is that the cows have been munching fallen apples.

The apples have to work their way through the cow's four stomachs, and at about stomach No. 2, they begin to ferment.

And in 48 hours, Bossie has worked up a self-brewed jag.

At last reports, provincial and federal government tax experts were working in 24-hour shifts, trying to figure how to collect the taxes on the alcohol generated.

If you are reading this late enough in the evening, you should have a good idea who is going to win the presidential election in the U.S.A.

But in case you wish to go to bed early, here are the official predictions from the Between Times family:

Me: Stevenson.
My Favorite Wife: Eisenhower.
Punch: Truman.

I fearlessly predict that one of us will be right.

And, to follow the example of U.S. columnists, four years from now I will say I was right in '52.

One thing for sure. The defeated candidate will admit he has learned from experience, the best teacher.

But it's unlikely he'll have any great affection for the professor.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Frank Doherty, general convener of Rotary's all-star vaudeville show, said at press time today that there were "about 75" seats left for tonight's opening performance, as well as Wednesday's.

The tickets are on sale at Fletcher's until 5 p.m., after which they move to the box office of the Royal Theatre. Net proceeds of the show are for Rotary's boys' work and allied charities.

Driver of a car that was in collision with a motorcyclist Oct. 28 at Yates and Government, John B. Ticknor, 585 John, was fined a total of $70 on two traffic charges in city police court today.

He pleaded guilty to careless driving and was fined $40 and got another $30 added to it for driving a vehicle without a current year's driver's license. Terry V. Smith, 350 Dallas, the motorcyclist, was injured.

A 60-year-old Victoria woman has a case of "sticky fingers" when she saw cakes displayed in a Victoria downtown store Monday.

She didn't have the money to pay for them—40 cents each—so she took two of them.

An observant clerk, however, saw the action and relieved the woman of the stolen goods at the door.

The proprietor did not wish police to take action but officers cautioned the woman.

Annual meeting of the Saanich Progressive Association at 8 p.m. Friday at Lake Hill Hall will be addressed by Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., M.P. for Nanaimo.

Miss Lottie Bowron, a native daughter of the Cariboo, will address the monthly meeting of the B.C. Retired Civil Servants Thursday at 2:30 p.m. in the Nell Edwards club room, 1203 Broad Street.

She will give her impressions on a recent visit to the Cariboo.

A report also will be given on the group's latest interview with the provincial cabinet.

The usual November production slowdown is making itself felt in the henhouse.

Shoppers are feeling the effect, too.

Egg prices increased again Monday for the second time in two weeks. Grade A large went up one cent a dozen, while grade A medium and grade A small climbed three cents.

Archie McKinnon, Y.M.C.A. swimming coach, announced today he now has entry forms for the Vancouver swimming meet which takes place in the first week of December.

Anyone wishing to make the trip should contact him at the "Y" immediately.

Victoria baritone, John Dunbar, will be heard on "Today's Guest" on CBU, Thursday at 2:30 p.m.

Dunbar will be remembered as the Victoria singer who did so well on John Adaskin's "Singing Stars of Tomorrow" program which originates in Toronto.

B.C. Farmer Pays Disproportionate School Tax, Claim

Farmers are paying more than their share of education costs, a B.C. Federation of Agriculture delegation told the provincial cabinet today.

"Under the present system, paying for the cost of education by means of a land tax, farmers claim that proportionately to their income they pay more towards education costs than their fellow citizens working in other lines of endeavor," a spokesman said.

By asking for removal of the education tax from the land, the delegation made it clear that farmers do not wish to escape paying for education, "but only that they be asked to pay their fair share."

Members of the delegation were: Lyle Currie, of Cloverdale; Arthur Swenson, Ladner; J. B. Kidston, Vernon; T. P. Wilson, Kamloops; and Charles Walls, Victoria, secretary-manager of the B.C.F.A.

Victoria 'Straw Vote' Picks Ike to Top U.S. Presidential Poll

Ike or Adlai?

This question was popped at a long list of prominent Victorians by The Times today.

Ike emerged on top by a substantial margin.

The well-known Victorians were asked: "Whom do you think (not hope) is going to be the next president of the United States, and do you think that person will be good for Canada-U.S. relations?"

Here are some of the replies from those persons who were willing to go out on the proverbial limb:

Mayor Claude L. Harrison: "I think Ike. I think he'd be satisfactory to Canadians, too. He has the interests of the whole of America at heart."

Businessman Russel Ker: "Stevenson will take it, but I'm hoping Eisenhower will. Ike's past record, and what he has done for the whole world, shows he can get on with other nations. That is most important in this day and age. We in Canada are most interested in the American foreign policy, not its domestic policy."

Realtor Major H. C. Holmes: "I think Ike will win, but it's going to be very close. The beauty of it is, of course, that both candidates are of such high calibre that the nation will benefit either way—and Canada too."

Ex-Premier John Hart: "I think Adlai will win, and I think he's a better man for the job. Eisenhower is not sufficiently versed in the economic conditions of the country. He has been trained by the military mind. Stevenson has a grasp on the economic situation. Also, I think the Democrats can get along better with Canada."

Lawyers Jack Rutan: "I'm betting on Ike, and I hope he makes it. This talk that Stevenson is a more cultured chap and would be better for relations with Ottawa is a lot of nonsense. Ike has what it takes."

Ex-Premier Boss Johnson: "Too close to say, but I'm hoping Stevenson wins."

Ex-Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb: "Ike will get it, but it'll be close. I'm just back from California and I judge it will be a photo-finish."

Transportation company executive Walter Miles: "I think the sentiment has swung to Ike. His election, though, may not be good for Canada. He might be a protectionist and raise tariffs. But the U.S. is overdue for a change."

Chamber of Commerce president Tom Denny: "Anybody's guess. I can't decide which man would be best for relations with Canada. There has been so much mud-slinging I can't see through it."

Ald. Waldo Skilling: "Ike by a landslide."

Saanich Reeve Joseph Casey: "Ike will win, but Adlai would be a better man as far as Canada is concerned. There's no doubt about that."

Labor union organizer Thomas Gooderham: "I'm betting on Stevenson. He has the labor vote and that will make the difference."

CAR PLUNGES 100 FEET INTO GOLDSTREAM, DRIVER UNHURT

The driver was apparently unhurt, but a car was badly smashed Monday night when it crashed through a railing and plunged 100 feet into Goldstream, R.C.M.P. Highway Patrol reported today.

Police said the car was owned by Key Furniture Co., Guelph, Ont. They reported that the driver was not on the scene at the bottom of Goldstream Hill when they arrived.

Infant's Death Cause 'Unknown'

Jury Refuses Coroner's Written Verdict Probing Fatal Accident at Motor Court

A verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury which sat today to consider circumstances surrounding the death last Saturday of 15-month-old Errol Warner Williams.

The jury returned its verdict after 13 minutes' deliberation.

In drafting a formal verdict for jurymen to sign, Dr. E. C. Hart, coroner, wrote that the child had died through an accident involving a motor vehicle. The jury, however, refused to sign this on grounds that its six members were not convinced a motor vehicle was to blame.

Finally, jurymen signed a verdict of accidental death which attributed death to "a blow on the head from unknown origin."

The child was found dead on the driveway of the Belmont Motel and Trailer Court moments after a Northwestern Creamery milk truck pulled away, evidence showed. There was no direct evidence submitted at the inquest to establish the truck hit the child.

John R. Massey, Burnside Road, driver of the truck, testified he sold a quart of milk to Errol's older brother, Wayne, but saw no other child while in the motor court. He said he told Wayne to be careful carrying the milk to his mother's trailer, and then drove slowly around the circular driveway through the camp looking to see who wanted milk.

"There was no bump or indication of anything. Afterward, when I found a child had been killed, I couldn't believe it."

Cabinet Approves Big Housing Scheme

Vancouver's long-awaited $2,000,000 Little Mountain housing scheme today was given the go-ahead signal by the provincial government.

Approval was announced by Premier W. A. C. Bennett and Finance Minister Einar Gunderson. The plan calls for construction of 224 units of subsidized low-rental housing, in a four-square block area.

The "economic rent" is estimated at $70 a month, but it is expected subsidies will reduce this by $20 to $30 a month.

Navy's Gift Piano Only Lacking Seat

The women's auxiliary to the Veterans' Hospital has announced receipt of a gift of a grand piano from the Navy.

Now the auxiliary is in need of a seat to go with the piano which will be used to entertain patients.

The members have renewed and polished the piano and are willing to similarly refinish any used seat that might be forthcoming. They especially require the type which provides a place to keep sheet music. It is impossible to purchase such an item without the piano it goes with, so they are asking the people of Victoria to help them in the matter.

Arrangements for picking up any seat offered may be made by telephoning Mrs. J. R. Kingham at E.9255.

Hit-Run Driver Leaves Victim Helpless on Saanich Highway

District Police Mobilized in Widespread Hunt

Police of the Greater Victoria area were searching today for a hit-and-run driver who left an elderly man unconscious in the middle of the intersection at Quadra and Union Streets Monday night with serious injuries.

In Royal Jubilee Hospital today in only "fair" condition is 80-year-old John W. Buckler, 1015 Collinson Street.

He was struck while crossing the intersection at about 10:30 p.m.

Mr. Buckler, a well-known insurance man and church choir conductor, received severe head injuries. His body was badly bruised.

He had not regained full consciousness at a late hour this morning.

He told his wife, Gertrude, a partner in the firm of J. W. Buckler Insurance Agency: "I don't know what hit me."

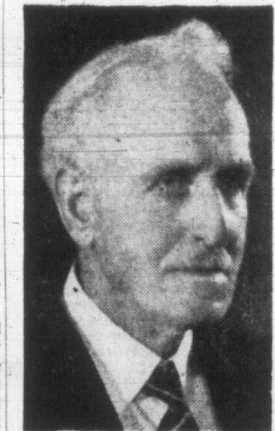

IN TRAFFIC PATH
Saanich policeman reported finding the unconscious man nine feet into the traveled portion of Quadra in a pool of blood when called to the scene by a passing motorist.

"Contrary to other reports, we have no leads on the car responsible in this case and would appreciate it if anyone who has any knowledge of the accident whatsoever would contact us at the Saanich police office," said Sgt. Jack Hamilton.

He has asked help in tracing the hit-run driver from other police forces in Victoria and district.

It is not known how long the injured man lay in the roadway. Jack Craig, Townsend Drive, was driving out of town when he saw the injured man lying on the other side of the road. He first moved the body well off the highway and then telephoned Saanich police.

Constables Leslie Ledson, Walter Mycock and Robin Stewart attended the investigation.

Mr. Buckler had been visiting his daughter, Mrs. Frank Tupper, 3912 Winton, and was going to catch his bus home when the accident occurred.

Mr. Buckler, a Victoria resident for 30 years, has been conductor of the Centennial Church and Lutheran Church choirs here over a long period.

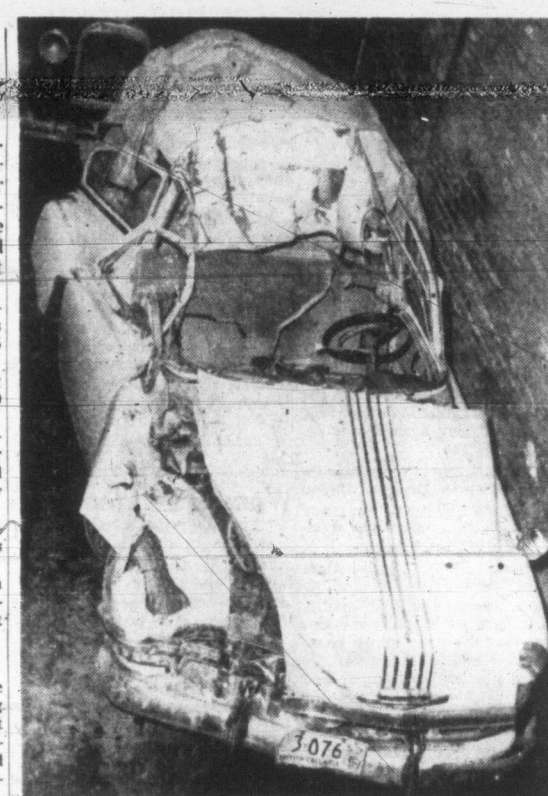

Ritter's Charges To Be Answered by Victoria Officer

A city police sergeant will go to Vancouver Nov. 17 to appear as a witness in a civil suit between Lloyd Charles Ritter, of Prince Rupert, and Duque Chevrolet Olds Ltd., a Vancouver auto firm.

Ritter is suing the auto company for alleged malicious prosecution. The firm brought charges against him in May, 1951, for issuing bad cheques. He was arrested in Victoria.

Last week, Ritter testified in court that he was "thrown in with drug addicts and drunks" at the Victoria lock-up.

In an attempt to refute this evidence, the defense is going to call Sgt. Walter Andrews to the witness stand.

Teachers Seek Big Pay Boost

Boosts Range From $300 to $1,000 a Year As School Board Studies $250,000 Brief

Salary increases ranging from $300 to approximately $1,000 a year were requested for 453 Greater Victoria school teachers at a school board meeting Monday night.

Greater Victoria Teachers' Association presented a brief which asked for approximately a 20-per-cent wage boost, Richard R. Reeve, school board chairman stated today.

"If granted in full, their requests would cost the board about $250,000," he said.

Average increase requested based on the $250,000 overall cost would be roughly about $550 a year or $55 a month for the 10-month school year.

"The teachers asked that all minima be increased and the number of years for reaching the maxima be decreased," Trustee Reeve stated.

The brief presented to the board meeting did not contain the percentage increase sought. Nor did it contain the actual costs in so many dollars and cents.

The brief asked the minima in the various categories be raised to a stated point.

While the meeting was open to the press and public, the figures presented meant nothing to either group without a comparison of the existing salary schedule. No copy of the brief was presented by the teachers' salary negotiation committee to the press.

The teachers requested approximately the same wage boost as last year but accepted a 12 per cent increase following negotiations. The increase-cost the board approximately $192,000.

Wage increases granted at that time ranged from $300 to $545 a year.

Neil Swanson, chairman of the committee, said the B.C. Teachers' Federation's basic wage scale was being used as a basis of its requests.

The brief asked that the teachers' schedule be shortened until it was more in line with length with other schedules in B.C.

On the committee with Mr. Swanson were: Mrs. Hazel Hodson, Miss Christine McNab, R. Temple, H. Dawson and H. Downard.

Further negotiation meetings will be held.

The board did not consider a brief from a committee representing faculty of Victoria College, stating it should be presented first to Victoria College Council.

Further negotiation meetings will be held.

Number of births for the first nine months of the year in Victoria-Esquamalt is the highest ever recorded, Dr. J. L. Gayton, medical health officer, reported today.

Policeman Hurt As Patrol Car Wrecked in Crash

A city police patrol car was almost totally destroyed today when it smashed into a sawdust truck parked on the north side of Dallas Road, near Menzies, at 1:55 a.m.

And when Police Chief John Blackstock surveyed the wreckage, he remarked: "It must have been the driver's lucky night."

Victoria Police Constable Frank Colli, 2022 Richmond Road, driver, miraculously escaped serious injury.

X-rays were taken at Royal Jubilee Hospital this morning, but his only surface hurt was a gash on the forehead requiring five stitches.

According to police officials, the patrol car was proceeding west on Dallas near Menzies when it crashed into the truck, property of William Walker, 739 Pandora.

The front end of the police car went completely under the back deck of the truck. The force of impact smashed back the front upper section of the sedan to the rear seats.

Police officials were going to interview Constable Colli later today, if his physician permits, to learn the cause of the accident.

New Book Will Help You to Enjoy Ballet

By PENNY SAVER

Victorians, like people the world over, love the ballet. Last week we were privileged in seeing a film on glorious ballet teamed with opera and this week we are looking forward to the visit of the National Ballet Company.

It is not very often that we have the chance to see ballet and possibly there are quite a few of us who have not had the opportunity to learn all we would like about the art.

If you feel that you are not getting all you should from the ballet, through lack of knowledge, you may be interested in a new book now out, "World Book of Modern Ballet."

It's a self-help publication. It will give you the history of the art as well as enlighten you on the choreography involved.

The book sells for $3 and contains priceless information. Another book which would be ideal for anyone learning ballet themselves is entitled, "Beginning Ballet."

This, too, contains a lot of information and is priced at $1.25. If you know the program ahead of time you will appreciate reading one of the little books which tells the story of each ballet. It will add immensely to your enjoyment.

At present there is a book on "Tales From Hoffman," which is selling at $4. Another book is expected to arrive soon which will tell the story as it was in the movie.

The ballet is also the theme for very attractive personal notes I saw this morning.

The notes which sell for $1.25 a box have graceful ballerinas on them.

Here is an item which I haven't seen in the stores for a long time. Bet your little girl would be interested in a toy sewing machine.

Besides being the pride and joy of your little daughter, it will come in handy for you when you have a small seam to catch to gether.

Marks 40th Anniversary

Alliance Francaise, which celebrated its 40th anniversary in Victoria last month, has for its primary object the spread of interest in the people of France, the French language and culture.

From its headquarters in Paris are sent each year representatives to leading centres of the world to organize libraries, schools and new branches of Alliance Francaise.

In Canada, the group has its headquarters in Ottawa. President of the Alliance, Monsieur Gagnon, works with cultural attaché of French Embassy.

Members of local branch are looking forward to lecture by Father Jean Omer this month. He is a member of the Dominican Order and lived for many years in Russia and will talk on the contrast between eastern and western worlds. Another lecturer will be the curator of the museum in Palais de Versailles, who will speak on "A Day at Versailles at Time of Louis XIV." Lecturer will also show a film on Versailles.

Remarriage Is Not Easy; Love Must Be the Motive

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph.D.

It is possible to love two people but these loves are never the same. Because all people are different, the love of a woman feels for one man can never be duplicated in her love for another man. That is what this widow must understand and accept if she wants to remarry.

(Q) "I am 47 years old. Two years ago, I lost my husband whom I loved very dearly. I have a 14-year-old son. I hold two jobs, from 7.30 a.m. to 11 p.m. in order to support us. I am very tired but can see no other way out. My parents tell me to go out more but I don't have time as I have my own work to do. Some advise me to marry again to ease my burden but every time I go out with men I freeze up. It seems wrong somehow, for I still love my husband, and I don't feel I should remarry."

(A) You should not consider remarriage until you are sure you love the man you marry. It would be unfair to him and to yourself to marry for any reason other than love.

Certainly you should not marry just to have someone help you with your financial burdens. That would not be fair to a man who wants more from a wife than to pay her bills.

I don't understand why you need two jobs to support yourself and your son. Why can't he take after-school and week-end work to help you?

If the work you now have pays so poorly that you must carry two jobs, try to get something that will pay better so you will need only one job. That will not only enable you to have more time for your home but it will give you a chance to go out with people.

In time, as you get a better perspective on things, you may be able to see this matter of remarriage in a different light. Of course you could never feel about another man as you do about your first husband. But that does not mean that you cannot love him, even if it is a different kind of love.

Dr. Hurlock will help you with family problems. Write her in care of this newspaper.

Women's Benefit Association Sponsors Successful Bazaar

Alderman Margaret Christie, introduced by Mrs. Elsie Roberts, president and general convener, officially opened the annual bazaar and tea, arranged by Women's Benefit Association, Review No. 1, in K. of P. WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Hats That Are Too Flat Are Not for Tall Girls

For a few days I have been bringing you sound ideas about how the tall woman should dress. These are based on an interview I had recently with Peg Newton in New York, whose "Tall Girl's Haven" is just that to many tall girls.

Today let us consider hats. Miss Newton feels that the tall woman can wear almost any kind of a hat if it has a little width. She warned, "It should not be too flat." I suppose this is the same principle which makes the too short skirt bad. If your attempt at decreasing the illusion of height is too obvious, it defeats its purpose. Draped or asymmetrical lines are good. A large hat is fine but do not have it too flat on top. Veils are becoming.

Your hair styling should, of course, take into consideration your facial contour, but as a general rule it should not be extreme; not too short or too long or too high or too low.

Next we will think of collars. Stylish full collars and dramatic ones are attractive. Avoid the plunging V neckline. A square, lowcut neckline is good. A collar in the back is flattering because the tall woman usually has a long neck.

I asked Miss Newton if she thinks tall girls should wear high heels. She replied, "If they like them and they go with the costume, they should wear them." Then she looked quite mischievous when she added, "You cannot measure romance with a yardstick."

I have some ideas about this which were reinforced by my talk with Peg. I have often noticed that attractive self-confident short men often marry beautiful tall women. It all depends on the individual.

If it makes you feel uncomfortable to be taller than your date then wear low heels. If it makes him uncomfortable and he is that important to you, wear low heels. Otherwise forget it.

Before closing this column I want to add one suggestion. If you are tall you can wear big checked material and big flamboyant prints. Some of the latter are very stunning. Let the small prints and checks strictly alone.

While giving three days of this week's copy to the tall women I have "hot" neglected the short ones because the rules given for "tall" are good advice for "short" in reverse.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Planning Clothes to Suit Figure and Personality," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 54 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

New 'Mikado' Production In Final Polishing Phase

Rehearsals of the Victoria Gilbert and Sullivan Operatic Society for its forthcoming production of "The Mikado" have rolled into high gear with show-time just three and one-half weeks away.

Eleven principals and 50 choristers have been practicing twice weekly since the beginning of September. When the cast takes to the stage of the Royal Theatre Thursday, November 27, for a three-day run, it will be backed up by a full 18-piece orchestra.

Lieut.-Col. Victor Mills is producer and stage director of show, and Melvin Knudsen, first conductor of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, is musical director. Telford Alan White has been assigned the leading role of Nanki.

Poo, and Ruth Champion, a new-comer to the city from Toronto, will play opposite in the role of Yum Yum.

Jim Mead-Robbins, a veteran member of the G. and S. Society, will take the main comic part of Ko-Ko, Lord High Executioner of Titipu. Catherine Denison, contralto, will portray the wicked Katisha, and Alan Robertson will play the title character, the Mikado.

Pretty maids are Angela Clarke, who is to play Pitti Sing, and Helena Williams, Peep Bo.

Concert baritone artist John Bray is Pish Tush, and William Fahey, the stuffy Pooch Bah.

Death Valley in California, lowest point in the United States, is 276 feet below sea level.

Rare Skills Displayed By Organ Master

Portland Artist Plays for Fund

The art of the organist, like the art of any other musical performer, is a composite of tradition and individualism, of mechanical skill, science and temperament.

Some artists—and Lauren B. Sykes is one—have these qualities in unusually well-balanced proportions. The visiting Portland organist gave a brilliant recital before a capacity audience at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Monday. He was assisted by the church choir. Proceeds were in aid of the Jesse Longfield Memorial organ.

The fact that Mr. Sykes is of English stock may explain the fact that his playing embodies the finest English tradition with the versatility of the best American playing.

In presenting a program broadly representative of the concert organist's repertoire, he selected shrewdly all the orchestral colorings which could most effectively be drawn from his instrument.

His playing was a caressing quality in delicate pianissimos.

Possibly the finest example of his virtuosity came with the playing of the Franck, "Finale." It is a work which makes tremendous demands on the musician's technical resources of the most experienced recitalist.

Sykes' sheer competence and mastery in this number brought to mind the performance of the great Belgian organist, Cournon, who performed the "Finale" in this city a number of years ago.

The rapid stop changes, with-out loss of rhythm, in the virtuosic "Comes Autumn Time" (Sowerby), were little short of miraculous. Breath-taking climaxes in the Bach D minor Toccata and Fugue, the playful scherzo-like quality injected into the Widor "Pastorale," and the brilliant military style and extraordinary echo effects of the Allegro Maestoso from Handel's "Water Music" were other highlights of a distinguished concert.

The choir, conducted by C. C. Warren and accompanied by Sykes, sang two groups. The singing was marked by sweetness of tone, firm chording and shapely phrases.

(BB) THE NARROW MARGIN (Dominion)—This is strictly for the suspense and whodunit fan and, as such, is to be commended.

Although the locale—a streamer running from Chicago to Los Angeles—is only one more murder-on-a-train gag, "The Narrow Margin" has enough new spice and gimmicks to give it life and a sharp twist.

Based on the magazine serial by Martin Goldsmith and Jack Leonard, the story of the adventures of detective Charles McGraw while trying to safely escort a gangster's widow to Los Angeles so she can testify before the grand jury is cleverly wrought so the theatre onlooker is nicely deceived. Object of the search by underworld thugs is a pay-off list the widow has which, if delivered into the hands of justice would incriminate police officials.

In addition to McGraw also well cast are Marie Windsor and Jacqueline White.

(B) RANCHO NOTORIOUS, the second half of the Dominion's bill, is a gaudy western that made me mad. I like my westerns stark and grim. I don't like them sweet with songs and shiny settings. Most of all I hate the "B" variety and I like 'em reasonably young. And although I'm a great admirer of "grandma" Marlene Dietrich as a "Merry Widow" playing alongside her contemporaries, my imagination simply isn't tuned to watching her make love with gentlemen of comparatively tender years.

Now that I have disposed of my pet hates I would admit, however, that the plot isn't too bad, that is if it were cut considerably and tightened up generally. Briefly, it is this: Following the brutal killing of his fiancée Arthur Ken-

Police Close Huge Still

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (CP)—One of the biggest illegal liquor stills ever discovered here was raided Monday two blocks east of Brooklyn police headquarters where it was running at full blast—1,000 gallons of 180-proof alcohol a day.

The five operators, including the owner, David Littman, were charged with maintaining an unregistered still and possession of untaxed alcohol.

VACCINE TAKEN BY MOUTH PRAISED BY EX-SUFFERERS FOR RELIEF FROM PAIN AND DISCOMFORT OF GERM CAUSED

SINUS, BRONCHITIS, NASAL CATARRH

Sinus headaches relieved... Stuffed-up noses eased... Bronchial coughing soothed by simple treatment!

Many ex-sufferers have said that they tried numerous other treatments before getting relief from Lantigen 'B'. Not only did Lantigen 'B' relieve the pain and discomfort, but, in many cases months and even years passed before the symptoms returned.

No matter what else has failed, try this different, modern way

CONSCIENTIOUS PERSISTENT TREATMENT NEEDED

In many cases these disorders have caused trouble for years. It should not be expected that they will clear up overnight. However, if you use Lantigen 'B' as directed, you may expect fairly prompt and progressive relief in the same way as other ex-sufferers.

WHAT YOU CAN DO!

The evidence shows that you stand a very good chance of gaining real relief from the pain and discomfort of sinus or bronchial infection and perhaps have the benefit maintained over a long period. The cost of using Lantigen 'B' is small compared to the benefits it brings. Go to your druggist today and start the treatment which may at last get you on the road to real good health. Lantigen 'B' is perfectly safe for young or old and does not interfere with any other treatment. All you have to do is take it by mouth, a few drops in water, as explained in the easy-to-follow directions. 814-52

READ THESE PERSONALLY WRITTEN TESTIMONIALS!

SINUS
Each was written freely and thankfully by a man or a woman who once suffered just as you are doing now.

"I had tried other remedies for sinus for five years but none of them helped me like Lantigen 'B'. I feel like a different person since taking Lantigen."
Mrs. O. Hanson, Fonthill, Ont.

BRONCHITIS
"I would like at this time to say I have taken Lantigen 'B' with very good results. I would like to recommend it to anybody who has bronchial trouble."
Mr. A. Phillips, Montreal, Que.

NASAL CATARRH
"I have taken Lantigen 'B' for Catarrh with splendid results."
R. D. Malcolm, Montreal, Que.

WHAT A THRILL TO BE FIT AND WELL AGAIN!
Do as thousands of others have done. For relief from the distress and discomfort of Sinus Infection, Bronchitis and Nasal Catarrh take Lantigen 'B' as directed.

Revolutionary New Lamp...
bright all over... lessens shadows, glare and eyestrain

A revolutionary new inside coating in completely diffuses light in the White Lamp (right) that it glows evenly all over. There are no bright glare spots as at the centre of the old-style fringed lamp (left). Such diffusion does away with harsh glare and shadows are reduced to a minimum.

GENERAL ELECTRIC WHITE LAMP

The G-E White Lamp — bright all over — is designed to reduce the risk of eyestrain when you're studying, reading or doing any "close" work. This new kind of lamp bulb is four ways better. It softens shadows so they're hardly visible... reduces reflected glare... spreads light evenly over the entire surface of the bulb... keeps its cleaner, whiter beauty for life.

This remarkable new lamp — the result of years of unceasing research and development — is typical of the persistent efforts of this Company to make G-E Lamps stay brighter—longer. Ask for G-E Lamps by name.

All radio and TV lovers who are planning a quiet evening at home might just as well abandon the hope and take in a movie—unless you are interested in politics.

For those who are interested, however, it will be an exciting evening. Adlai Stevenson and Ike Eisenhower are keeping American bookmakers quiet, while British bettors say it's 5-4 take your pick.

It will be men vs. machines on American stations tonight to see who can pick out trends and forecast the winners most closely on the basis of early returns.

The machines will include two electronic brains. The Columbia Broadcasting System is employing "Univac," and the National Broadcasting Company has "Monrobot," both of course.

Radio time and programs are furnished by stations and networks and are subject to last minute changes. The Times assumes no responsibility for inaccurate listings.

WEDNESDAY PROGRAMS

Table with 2 columns: Station and Program. Includes stations like CKDA, CJVI, CBU, etc.

TUNE WITH THE TIMES

backed up by batteries of less complex calculators and adding machines.

The human contingent will include such old names as H. V. Kaltenborn, Morgan Beatty, George Hicks, Merrill Mueller and John Cameron Swayze for N.B.C.; Lowell Thomas, Edward R. Morrow, Walter Cronkite, Larry Laseur, Eric Sevareid and Doug Edwards for C.B.S.; Walter Winchell, Drew Pearson, John Daly, Elmer Davis and Martin Agronsky for A.B.C.; and Gabriel Heatter, Fulton Lewis Jr., Cedric Foster and H. R. Baukhage of Mutual, plus many others.

Starting at 8 p.m. there'll be very little else on the air until it's known for sure whether it's Ike or Adlai in the White House for the next four years.

The comic strip version of "Dragnet," police documentary series, is now being carried in the Tokyo edition of "Stars and Stripes."

This is the first time that an armed forces newspaper, which has its pick of every newspaper feature, has bought a strip only three months old.

The jackpot spirals to $2,500 plus the usual torrent of zany Grouchoisms on Wednesday's edition of "You Bet Your Life." The big money went up $500 when the jackpot question was unanswered on last week's show.

On that program a contestant told Groucho he was from Passaic, N.J. "I know it very well," said Groucho. "That's only a hop, skip and a jump from Trenton isn't it?"

"No," was the answer. "It's about 60 miles."

"Well," snapped back the Grouch. "It was a hop, skip and jump for me. I hopped a train, skipped town, and jumped ball."

In repartee with Bill Bridgeman, a test pilot who flew 1,238 miles per hour, the mad Marx learned that at that speed you could leave New York at 9 a.m. and arrive in Los Angeles at 8:30 a.m. of the same day. "I don't think I'd care for that," he said. "I'd be in a fine snafu in Los Angeles even before I kissed a girl in New York," the low-slung Groucho quipped.

SOLDIER SEEMS BULLET-PROOF

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4 (AP)—In the Second World War the U.S. War Department reported Sgt. Omer Willette killed in action. He turned up alive in a hospital.

Two weeks ago, the Defense Department reported Willette killed in Korea.

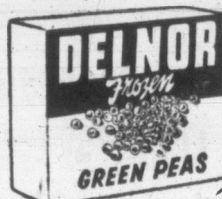

Monday night, his wife received a telephone call from Tokyo.

"I'm all right," said Willette, who was startled to hear he'd been reported dead. "I'm wounded but I'll be home soon."

Their seven-year-old son, George, piped up:

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

Many people have difficulty in repotting immediately after flowering, usually during February, or two applications of a complete fertilizer in the early spring period.

Perfect drainage is necessary, and ample watering is essential during spring and summer to encourage new growth. Shading from continuous sunshine is beneficial since the plant comes to us from the jungles of Brazil where it grows in the crotches of the trees.

As the cooler weather of September approaches, taper off the water supply. By the middle of the month the plant will become somewhat hardened, and able to do without any water for one month. This treatment sets the flower buds on the tips of the leaves. In less than two weeks after resuming moderate watering, the buds may be seen. That is before Nov. 1.

Now, to ensure that your plant will actually be in flower for Christmas, commence a feeding program. Weak liquid manure water may be given once a week. Or a quarter of a measuring teaspoon of a balanced commercial fertilizer in dry form may be scattered on the surface soil of a plant in a three or four-inch pot. Correspondingly more for larger plants. Water well to dissolve the powder.

Place the cactus in a sunny window, and continue this feeding and watering program until the buds show their pink color, then discontinue feeding. Water only when the top soil is definitely dry. Bud drop is sometimes caused by lack of care in these two details.

The Zygocactus gives so much bloom over a long winter period, that it is certainly worth while keeping the plants in good condition, so that they maintain their reputation for abundance.

Hilda, for instance, the Zygocactus truncatus, commonly called Christmas cactus. Obviously, unless the plant is in full bloom over the holiday season the common name is not applicable, so we must find out the best way to handle it.

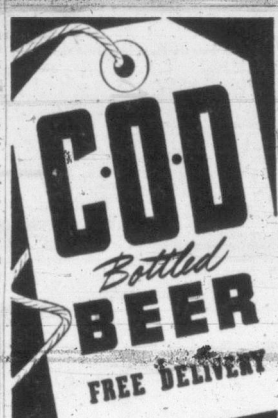

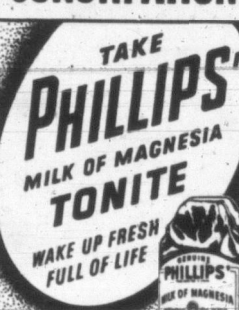

An old plant will require either

7 Aboard Plane Down Off North B.C.

VANCOUVER, Nov. 4 (CP)—A Norseman plane with seven persons aboard is reported down in fog-shrouded Matheson Channel, 350 miles north of here.

The plane, operated by Associated Air Taxi of Vancouver, had aboard a pilot and six passengers. It was en route from the north to Vancouver.

Boilermakers Accepted Offer

VANCOUVER, Nov. 4 (CP)—Members of the Marine Workers and Boilermakers' Union (C.C.L.), have voted to accept the 7½-cent wage increase offered by Vancouver shipyards, it was announced today.

The union is the largest of 10 unions that negotiated with Burrard and Pacific Drydock Companies. Six hundred men are affected.

Canadian Casualties Total 1,223

OTTAWA, Nov. 4 (CP)—The army's 151st Korean casualty list, issued today, included five men wounded in action, one for the second time. The last previous list was issued Oct. 31.

Today's list brought to 1,223 the total number of casualties so far suffered by Canadian troops in Korean action, including 226 dead, 883 wounded, 29 missing, 84 injured and one captured.

Hawaii Alerted for Tidal Wave

HONOLULU, Nov. 4 (AP)—Pacific Fleet headquarters today issued an official tidal wave alert for Hawaii after an intense earthquake believed centred south of the Kamchatka Peninsula in Siberia.

A U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey spokesman, Ronald Viets, said there were no immediate reports that a wave had actually formed.

2 U.S. Soldiers in Germany to Die

MUNICH, Nov. 4 (AP)—Two United States soldiers were sentenced to death today for attacking a German doctor and raping his wife and their house maid, Pte. German Emerson Jr. and Pte. Edward B. Freeman were convicted by a U.S. Army court-martial.

Fireworks Ban Recommended

Police Commission Will Ask Council To Act 'Before Someone Gets Killed'

Victoria Police Commission will ask City Council to ban sale of fireworks except under "special permit," Police Commissioner Brent Murdoch said today.

"We must ask council to take action before someone gets killed," he said.

The three-man commission, comprising Mayor Claude Harrison, Ald. Murdoch and Bill Hamilton all agreed Halloween "fun" has gotten out of control.

"It has gotten to the hooligan stage," declared Commissioner Hamilton.

Ald. Murdoch said the "true significance of Halloween is gone."

"Now it's a case of trying to build the biggest bomb or do the most damage," he added. "We dislike to curtail children's activities but there should be more park and bonfire celebrations by organized groups."

Permits would be obtained from the chief of police and would be issued to persons representing organized groups, who were staging a community celebration, Ald. Murdoch felt.

Earthquake Rocks Siberia

OTTAWA, Nov. 4 (CP)—The Dominion seismologist today said an earthquake of major proportions has struck northeastern Siberia.

Dr. John Hodgson said that more than two hours after the first shocks were recorded at the Dominion observatory here, instruments still were recording tremors.

Mystery surrounds the location of a "terrible" earthquake which was recorded at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory in Saanich today at 9:07 a.m.

Observatory officials said they have not yet been able to determine the direction of the earthquake which would have caused considerable damage if it had occurred in a populated area.

U.K. Tories Will Denationalize Steel Industry

Queen Opens Her First Session Of Parliament With Throne Speech

LONDON, Nov. 4 (UP)—Queen Elizabeth II opened her first session of Parliament today with the announcement Britain will turn back toward capitalism in 1953 by denationalizing the steel and trucking industries.

The 26-year-old Queen, resplendent in a robe once worn by Queen Victoria, and with her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, seated to her left, told assembled peers of the realm, diplomats and members of Commons she earnestly prays for an early armistice in Korea.

But until a truce is concluded, she said, her forces would continue to fight in Korea as clear proof of Britain's attachment to the ideals of the United Nations.

She promised Britain would follow a foreign policy based on the "closest and most friendly" relations with the United States.

The Queen outlined the Conservative government's program for 1953-54 in a speech written for her by Prime Minister Winston Churchill's cabinet. It was the traditional "speech from the throne" which opens each new session of parliament.

The colorful ceremony in the red and gold House of Lords was the first in a series of ceremonies for the young Queen, to be climaxed next June with her coronation.

The Queen's disclosure that the Churchill government will take the first formal step of turning Britain from the path of socialism laid down by the postwar Labor governments came in these words:

"Bills will be laid before you for the reorganization of the iron and steel industry and to provide changes in the transport industry."

This means legislation will be pushed through the Houses of Lords during the next 12 months to return both industries to private ownership.

They were nationalized during the Socialist regime of Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee, and the Labor party has vowed to nationalize them again if returned to power.

The government will press on with its rearmament program and the development of civil defense "with due regard to the need for maintaining economic strength and stability."

5. All necessary measures will be taken to place Britain's economy on a sound footing.

6. Britain will "work for the conclusion of an Austrian state treaty and for a fair and equitable settlement of the problem of German unity."

7. The government will "promote ever closer co-operation with Commonwealth and Empire members and to that end has called a Commonwealth prime ministers' conference on economic questions at the end of this month."

8. The government will "forge closer links with one another."

Maiden Parliamentary Speech

Amid all the glamour and pomp associated with the opening of British Parliament Queen Elizabeth today read the Speech From The Throne for the first time since ascending to the throne. It was one of the first major events of the new Elizabethan era. (Story of the opening on Page 2.)

EXTRA TONIGHT

Phone B3131 for Voting

The Victoria Times election extra, giving the latest trends in the U.S. presidential voting, will be on the street shortly after 9 p.m. tonight.

By that time there should be a fair indication of how the vote is going in the big eastern states and a trend established toward the eventual winner.

The extra editions will be available to people in the residential districts from sellers posted at strategic corners. Phone Times circulation tonight to find out where you can get them near your home.

Throughout the evening the Times will maintain an election phone service at the editorial offices, Beacon 3131, where the nation's press wires will provide the latest up-to-the-minute information.

Drew Said West-Bound To Heal Tory Breach

Rumor Offers Pearkes Defense Portfolio For Pledge of Support to Davie Fulton

By BRIAN O'LEARY, Times Ottawa Representative. OTTAWA, Nov. 4—One of Conservative leader George Drew's main jobs in his coming visit to British Columbia will be to try to restore harmony among B.C. Tories, allegedly squabbling among themselves.

While B.C.'s Tories are not exactly battling among themselves in the open, it is no secret here that all is not well among their ranks and file.

It is said Col. Drew is prepared, for the sake of harmony, to make a hard-and-fast offer of the defense post to Gen. George Pearkes should the Tories be victorious at the next general election.

In return, Gen. Pearkes would give his unqualified support to Davie Fulton, federal Tory M.P. in the Commons for Kamloops, in the coming race for the B.C. Tory leadership.

Col. Drew will visit Premier W. A. C. Bennett shortly after his arrival in Victoria, Nov. 14. It will be the first meeting of the two since Mr. Bennett left Conservative ranks.

He will be in B.C. between Nov. 6 and 15.

Col. Drew will address the Vancouver Island United Services Institute at a luncheon the day he arrives.

A reception for the former Ontario premier will be held at the Club Strozzi in the afternoon of Nov. 6 where he will speak briefly.

A private dinner will be held later either at the Union Club or the home of Gen. Pearkes.

The next morning he leaves for Nanaimo and Alberni.

Record Balloting as Eastern Votes Roll In

Compiled From C.P., U.P. and A.P. Dispatches

Americans, exercising their right to vote as never before, were rolling up a record pile of ballots today in choosing Stevenson for president.

And the first-fragments returns shot Eisenhower into the lead in Kansas, his home state and the only state to report any sizeable figures before actual closing of the polls.

The incomplete count from 247 of 2,851 precincts in normally Republican Kansas was Eisenhower 16,409; Stevenson 10,239.

There were scattered reports also from 15 precincts in 13 states—chiefly New England and the south—and these added up to 209 votes for Eisenhower and 126 for Stevenson.

Most of these were the "little" polling places which always report early—places with only a handful of registered voters and which count their ballots once all have been cast.

Some forecasters predicted 55,000,000 to 60,000,000 ballots. The biggest vote cast in the past was 49,820,312 in 1940 when Democrat Franklin D. Roosevelt defeated Republican Wendell Willkie.

The big mystery was what was going on behind the curtains of the voting booth—did the big vote mean "a landslide for Ike" as Republicans hoped, or "a sweep for Stevenson" as Democrats wished?

The result may be known around 8 tonight or, if the voting is close, perhaps not until sometime Wednesday. The last of the polls to close, some on the West Coast, will be open until 8 p.m.

As usual, several small precincts got in all their votes and made a count soon after the opening hour—a freak of the U.S. voting system.

Sharon, N.H., had its votes in by seven minutes after midnight. The count: Eisenhower 32, Stevenson 14.

Brown's Farm, Fla., gave Eisenhower four and Stevenson four.

Rutland, another small Florida precinct, reported 14 for Stevenson and 10 for Eisenhower.

From Cataloochee, a mountain cove in North Carolina's Great Smokies, the returns were seven to none for Stevenson.

Pointe Aux Barques, Mich., announced 15 to none for Eisenhower.

Truman's Final 12 Weeks Ahead

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Nov. 4 (UP)—President Truman voted early today and boarded his special train to return to Washington for his final 12 weeks in the White House.

Mr. Truman's wife and daughter Margaret also were voting in their home town and going back to Washington with him.

Although he expressed confidence of victory for the Democratic ticket, the president didn't make any prediction of the number of electoral votes Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate would get.

The president made his last bid for votes for the Democratic ticket Monday night in an appeal carried on nationwide radio and television networks.

He spoke from nearby Kansas City, preceding Stevenson and Sen. John Sparkman, the Democratic vice-presidential candidate, who made a final pre-election rally address to a national audience from other places.

Mr. Truman said his party had given the nation its "greatest prosperity" and had stopped Communist aggression without throwing the world into an "all-out atomic war."

He said that Stevenson and Sparkman are the "only men" who could lead the nation in achieving world peace and maintaining prosperity at home.

The rioters, who broke out of control in the prison dining room on Halloween, were not given an opportunity to make any stipulations on their surrender, the warden said. Nor, he added, did they make any requests.

Allies Hurl Back Assaults

SEOUL, Nov. 4 (AP)—Dug-in Allied soldiers today hurled back pre-dawn Red assaults on the Korean eastern and central fronts.

North Korean Communists launched six attacks in the Heartbreak Ridge sector. Each was stopped cold despite unusually heavy Red artillery and mortar fire.

Vancouver Stocks Closing Prices

Stocks closed strong at Vancouver Exchange in the late session today.

Moderate advances were scored in the base metals group. Oil, too, attracted support for small gains. Industrial issues were firm.

Active in the mines was Pacific Nickel closing at 99c. Quasino finished at 60c.

Vancouver Soldier 'Saved Many Lives'

OTTAWA, Nov. 4 (CP)—Sgt. George William Elliott, of Vancouver, a stretcher-bearer with the 1st Battalion, P.C.L.L., has won the British Empire Medal, according to the latest awards list for the Korean war released by the army today.

Elliott won his medal because he never left a wounded man without care, repeatedly took risks to go to the aid of his fellows and "undoubtedly saved the lives of many wounded."

Awards of the D.S.O. went to Lt.-Col. N. G. Wilson-Smith of Winnipeg, and to Maj. V. W. Jewkes, M.C., of St. John's, Que.

Dr. George Gallup, the poll expert, said in a national radio interview at 8 p.m., P.S.T., that his analysis of votes up to that time indicated Eisenhower might be heading for "one of the greatest landslides" in U.S. history.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 4 (AP).—An administrative assistant to Governor Adlai Stevenson said shortly before 10 p.m. E.S.T. tonight:

"The news is not good and it looks pretty grim." Richard Nelson made the statement to reporters waiting outside the governor's mansion—but a few moments later Wilson Wyatt, Stevenson's campaign manager, emerged from the mansion and declared that returns by that time were "too fragmentary" to give any indication of the final election result.

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 4 (AP).—Maine gave its five electoral votes to Republican Dwight Eisenhower in abnormally heavy balloting today.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 4 (AP).—Virginia gave its 12 electoral votes to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. It was the first time the traditionally Democratic state had gone Republican since the bitter Smith-Hoover campaign of 1928.

ORLANDO, Fla., Nov. 4 (AP).—The Orlando Sentinel-Star tonight claimed Florida's 10 electoral votes for Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower on the basis of returns from more than a third of the state's precincts.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 4 (AP).—The Baltimore Sun declared just before 10 p.m. tonight—three hours after the polls closed—that Dwight D. Eisenhower had carried Maryland in the presidential race.

BOSTON, Nov. 4 (AP).—The Boston Post, which describes itself as independent with a long Democratic tradition and which endorsed Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, predicted tonight the general would carry Massachusetts.

The paper said its prediction was based on returns up to 9.45 p.m., E.S.T.

MONTPELIER, Vermont, Nov. 4 (BUP).—Vermont—as usual—went Republican tonight, favoring Dwight Eisenhower for president by almost a 3-1 margin over Democrat Adlai Stevenson. No Democratic presidential candidate has ever carried the state.

PORTLAND, Ore. (BUP).—The first 10 of Oregon's 2,269 precincts reporting gave Eisenhower 979, Stevenson 521.

SAN FRANCISCO (BUP).—Returns from 1,020 of California's 20,773 precincts gave Eisenhower 115,844 and Stevenson 105,145.

BOISE (BUP).—With the first 10 of Idaho's 866 precincts reporting, Eisenhower has 1,758, Stevenson 423.

SEATTLE (BUP).—With three out of 4,381 Washington state precincts reporting, Stevenson leads Eisenhower 418 to 231.

Democrats Concede New York State

NEW YORK (BUP).—Democratic State Chairman Paul Fitzpatrick conceded at 11.05 p.m., E.S.T., tonight that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower would carry New York state.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP).—The New York Daily News predicted at 10.47 p.m. E.S.T. tonight that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower would capture New York State's important 45 electoral votes. The News has supported Eisenhower editorially.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP).—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower led Governor Adlai Stevenson by a 6-to-5 margin in the battle for New York's 45 electoral votes tonight.

Fireworks Ban Recommended

Victoria Police Commission will ask City Council to ban sale of fireworks except under "special permit," Police Commissioner Brent Murdoch said today.

"We must ask council to take action before someone gets killed," he said.

The three-man commission, comprising Mayor Claude Harrison, Ald. Murdoch and Bill Hamilton all agreed Halloween "fun" has gotten out of control.

"It has gotten to the hooligan stage," declared Commissioner Hamilton.

Ald. Murdoch said the "true significance of Halloween is gone."

"Now it's a case of trying to build the biggest bomb or do the most damage," he added. "We dislike to curtail children's activities but there should be more park and bonfire celebrations by organized groups."

Permits would be obtained from the chief of police and would be issued to persons representing organized groups, who were staging a community celebration, Ald. Murdoch felt.

"For a Better America"

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower told 1,500 followers tonight that his campaign, regardless of the outcome, has "irrevocably removed complacency from government" and said that "win, lose or draw," the main job facing America is to "try to produce a better America for the coming years." Steering away from any claim of victory while speaking in the main ballroom of the Hotel Commodore at 10 p.m., E.S.T., Eisenhower said he had guided himself in his campaign by the advice of "an old commander, a teacher and friend," who said, "always take your job seriously, never yourself."

B.C. Coast Safe From Tide Wave

A tidal wave which, it was reported, might threaten the coast of British Columbia at 4.30 p.m. today, has dissipated itself on the "continental shelf."

Precautionary warnings were broadcast from Victoria to coast shipping by the Department of Transport at 3.30 p.m. The Times learned tonight.

The tidal wave, originating in the Kamchatka Peninsula area of the North Pacific, resulted from earthquake disturbances. Royal Canadian Navy's operations branch here was warned by the U.S. Navy of possible danger. Canadian Government weather ship, St. Catharines, at Station Peter, about 800 miles at sea, reported no unusual disturbance.

At Attu, in Alaska, a ten-foot tidal wave struck early in the afternoon. Honolulu reported a five-foot wave.

No report has been received from any point on the B.C. coast of unusual tidal effects.

Cougars Acquire Winger

Victoria Cougars today acquired another hockey player. Bob Goodacre, a rightwinger who played for Calgary Stampers last year, has agreed to terms, club general manager Fred Hutchinson reported. He is expected to join the club in time for Friday's game against Saskatoon Quakers at Memorial Arena.

Goodacre scored 23 goals and 26 assists for Calgary last year, 16 goals and 21 assists for Milwaukee in the United States Hockey League in the 1950-51 season, and 21 goals and 21 assists for Kansas City in the U.S.H.L. in 1949-50.

He is 24 years of age and weighs 175 pounds. He has been playing with Kamloops Elks of the Okanagan League this season.

G.O.P. Leads In Early Senate Returns

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 4 (CP).—Democratic Senator Harry H. Byrd was re-elected to the Senate tonight. Byrd had come out against Democratic presidential nominee Adlai Stevenson, over the civil-rights issue.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (UP).—G.O.P. candidates William Purtell and Prescott Bush of Connecticut have been elected to Senate seats.

LOS ANGELES—Senator William F. Knowland, Republican, was re-elected in California.

Ohio Prison Riot Ended

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 4 (AP).—The four-day riot of 1,600 prisoners at Ohio Penitentiary ended today with complete surrender, Warden Ralph Alvis announced this afternoon.

Alvis said after a six-minute meeting with spokesmen for the rioters: "They have agreed to peaceful surrender. The men will be fed shortly."

The rioters, who broke out of control in the prison dining room on Halloween, were not given an opportunity to make any stipulations on their surrender, the warden said. Nor, he added, did they make any requests.

Trend Now Shows Landslide in Making

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (CP).—The United States today elected a new president and a Republican landslide appeared in the making.

Though the counting of a record number of votes was far from complete, it looked late tonight as though the country, as it has several times in the past, had turned again to an army general to lead it in a troubled era.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was making no immediate claims of victory over Adlai E. Stevenson, his Democrat opponent, but the returns showed a clear trend to the Republican.

Stevenson's camp was not conceding defeat but an aide to the Illinois Governor, who received the returns in Springfield, said: "It looks grim."

The biggest electoral-vote plum of all, New York, which has 45 votes, went to Eisenhower. The Democrats conceded the state shortly after 11 p.m.

At 11.13, E.S.T., the British United Press gave the popular vote as: Eisenhower, 8,544,438; Stevenson, 7,734,792.

SUMMARY

Washington, Nov. 4 (CP).—At 11 p.m. E.S.T., with returns far from complete, Eisenhower was leading in 30 states having a total electoral vote of 399 as follows (state electoral vote in brackets):

Arizona (4), Colorado (6), Connecticut (5), Florida (10), Indiana (13), Iowa (10), Kansas (8), Kentucky (10), Louisiana (10), Maine (5), Maryland (10), Minnesota (11), Nebraska (6), New Hampshire (4), New Jersey (16), New Mexico (4), New York (45), North Dakota (4), Ohio (25), Oklahoma (8), Oregon (6), Rhode Island (4), South Dakota (4), Tennessee (11), Texas (24), Utah (4), Vermont (3), Virginia (12), Wisconsin (12).

Stevenson was leading in 15 states with an electoral vote of 206 as follows: Alabama (11), Arkansas (8), California (32), Delaware (3), Georgia (12), Illinois (27), Massachusetts (16), Michigan (20), Mississippi (8), Montana (4), North Carolina (14), Pennsylvania (32), South Carolina (8), West Virginia (8), Wyoming (3).

No returns had been received from the remaining states with a total of 16 electoral votes. The electoral vote required to elect a candidate is 266.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP).—Republican National Chairman Arthur E. Summerfield at 10.47 p.m., E.S.T., tonight claimed victory for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in the presidential election.

"Dwight D. Eisenhower has been elected president of the United States," Summerfield told a crowd at the general's headquarters in the Commodore Hotel.

"It is a landslide," Summerfield declared. "It is obviously a sweep from coast to coast despite the fact that we do not have returns from the far west."

Summerfield said Eisenhower had carried New York, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Kansas.

He went on to say that Eisenhower was running ahead in Virginia, West Virginia, Florida, Colorado and Idaho.

"In fact," Summerfield said, "he has even carried Florida. The checks of Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota make it appear certain that Ike will carry those states."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (CP).—A flood of votes in record volume shot Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower into the lead tonight over Adlai Stevenson in their ballot-box battle for the presidency of the United States.

At 10 p.m., E.S.T., with the vote counting barely well started in the east and just begun in the west, the Republican candidate had captured Maine's five electoral votes and was leading Stevenson, the Democrats' nominee, in 21 other states. Some were in the south, once thought solidly Democrat.

Stevenson was ahead in 14 states. He was behind in first, fragmentary returns from New York, whose 45 electoral votes may be decisive, but was staging a comeback in Pennsylvania and Indiana where he trailed earlier. He gained, too, in Missouri where Eisenhower had taken an early lead.

But despite those recoveries, the outlook was not promising for Stevenson. At Springfield, Ill., an aide of the governor said: "The news . . . looks grim."

Riding on the swelling tide of votes were Republican hopes for a full measure of political power, prestige—and even patronage—denied the party for 20 years. Riding on it, too, were Democratic aspirations to extend their unbroken victory string to six straight.

The stampede to the ballot boxes began with the rising sun and even before. People queued up in long lines, in unprecedented fashion in state after state, long before the polls were open for business.

Politicians predicted that the anticipated massive turnout of 55,000,000 or more voters, would be exceeded. The previous high was 49,901,835 in the Roosevelt-Willkie race in 1940.

New Yorkers turned out in such numbers that an all-time record of 7,000,000 ballots appeared to be on tap.

Californians figured perhaps 5,000,000 voters would cash in on their chance to exercise the great American privilege of the ballot. At 9 p.m. Eisenhower and Stevenson were running almost neck and neck in popular-vote figures. But Eisenhower was ahead in the vital, electoral-vote category.

Republican hopes for their first victory since 1932 brightened early as mounting returns put their candidate ahead in such states as Ohio, with its big bloc of 25 electoral votes, and Virginia, South Carolina, and Florida, normally Democratic.

Popular Vote

The unofficial popular vote for President at 11.13 p.m. E.S.T., as tabulated by the British United Press: Eisenhower, 8,544,438; Stevenson, 7,734,792. Eisenhower leads by 809,646 votes. Returns were from 37,036 of the 145,738 polling places.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

MEDIEVAL MEAD

THERE WAS SOMETHING of an anachronistic note in the introduction at the Canadian Beekeepers' Council convention here last week of a sample of mead. And, incidentally, I wonder how many of those present, including the American visitors, realized that its appearance there was helping to bring another "bit of Old England" to Victoria.

For mead is as medieval in origin as the suits of armor in which knights of old went forth to war, and in the mythology of the ancient Greeks and Romans it occupied a privileged, almost a sacred position. So I learned while in England last year for the Festival of Britain, where this potable was among the many ancient traditions revived for the occasion.

FLEET STREET TOAST

AT THE Suffolk County Show, held at Bury St. Edmunds during our visit, a Stowmarket bee-master won a cup and prize for an exhibit of the ingredients of mead—and instructions for making it. It was shown in the honey tent, but while visitors were invited to taste various varieties of honey, the mead was not for sampling.

A week or so later, 50 bee-masters—as they call apiarists over there—stood on a roof in Fleet Street and drank a toast to the success of the first hive in that home of the newspaper fraternity, right in the heart of London. The hive stood nearby, draped with a Union Jack. And I have since wondered if the bees from that particular hive had much luck in finding the makings of honey in that congested area of narrow streets.

ANCIENT TRADITION

MEAD, ACCORDING to the experts, is probably the earliest alcoholic drink made by man and is produced from honey, blended with herbs and aged to vintage maturity. Nectar, the fabulous drink of the Greek gods, familiar to ever reader of Homer, was a form of mead.

The Romans also set great store by it, while an old Gothic custom which required newlyweds to drink mead for the first month after their marriage is recalled in the English word "honeymoon" and the French term "lune de miel."

PRAISED BY CHAUCER

LATER, meads became the national, traditional liquors of Anglo-Saxon, and medieval England. Chaucer, the great poet, who died in the year 1400, is said to have held them in the highest estimation. Most of the meads were made by the monks in the great abbeys and other religious houses, but their popularity declined rapidly with the Reformation, following the introduction of cheap foreign wines into England and the end of the industry associated with the monks.

By the end of the 17th century, the industry had collapsed commercially and meads became practically unknown, except in a few corners of rural England, where for centuries some farmhouses and hamlets have made mead, along with cownslip and parsnip wine, elderberry and dandelion cordials.

CORNISH REVIVAL

A FEW years ago this once-flourishing craft of mead-making was revived in the little village of Gulval, in Cornwall, in the pretty vale of Trevayler, which flows into Mount's Bay about a mile from St. Michael's Mount.

In that lovely setting, an ancient mill has been reconstructed. Here they are turning out English meads under their ancient names: Sack Mead, Metheglin, Bochet, Cyser, Pymet, Hippocras and Melomel. And, to add to the medieval touch, church dignitaries take part in "The Blessing of the Mead" in the courtyard each August 24—as they did in olden days.

BRILLIANT OPENING FOR BRITISH HOUSE

Queen Wears Robe Used by Victoria; Falts Once in First Throne Speech

LONDON, Nov. 4 (CP)—The Queen today drove in state to the House of Lords and personally opened the first Parliament of the new Elizabethan age.

In a clear, calm voice which faltered only once, the poised young Queen read the speech from the throne to her assembled peers and commoners, diplomats and great officers of state, pledging herself to serve Britain and the Commonwealth with the same devotion shown by her late father, King George VI.

The Queen took her place on the raised throne in the House of Lords wearing the parliamentary robe used on similar occasions by Queen Victoria. It was the first time parliament has been formally addressed by an uncrowned Queen, since Victoria did so in 1837.

SPECIAL CHAIR FOR DUKE

From her seat on the throne, with the Duke of Edinburgh in a special chair to her left, the Queen looked out over one of the familiar scenes of English pageantry—directly before the bowgigged law lords and peers of the realm in their scarlet and ermine robes, flanked on either side by ambassadors in service and morning dress and by peeresses in evening dress.

The Queen drove from Buckingham Palace down the mall in a black-and-gilt Irish state coach, drawn by four Windsor greys. She entered the chamber in a great state procession headed by

IF IT RAINS LET IT POUR

DUNCAN, Nov. 4—If it's going to rain, it might just as well rain hard.

That's the opinion of the Cowichan Exhibition committee which has just received a cheque for $1024.15 because it rained .11 of an inch when it staged its big show last Sept. 5. The cheque represents settlement of a rain insurance policy which the committee purchased just in case the show might be washed out. The policy was for $1,200, and the insurance company made up the difference between that figure and the actual receipts.

The policy called for payment if it rained more than one-tenth of an inch in three hours.

Three Polio Cases At Dawson Creek

DAWSON CREEK, B.C., Nov. 4 (CP)—Three polio cases were reported Tuesday in Dawson Creek, raising British Columbia's 1952 total to 490 cases.

The new cases include a 13-year-old girl and a 25-year-old man. The other is a previously unreported case from which the patient has recovered.

City Clerk Maintains Use of Ballot Is Theft

City Clerk Frank Hunter still labels Toronto's proposed new ballot system as "theft" of the Hunter system, despite a letter received today from George A. Weale, Toronto city clerk.

Mr. Weale wrote that Toronto did not propose to change its voting system but added:

"Committee on legislation has recommended that the required authority be obtained to give a composite ballot a trial at future civic elections. . . . It is understood a single ballot is in use in other municipalities."

According to a story in the Toronto Globe and Mail, Toronto's legislative committee had approved a new composite ballot, which Mr. Hunter maintained is his copyright ballot.

"Toronto will not acknowledge they have taken my ballot," he complained.

Mr. Weale's letter contained no word of thanks for the extensive information sent him on the ballot system by Mr. Hunter.

Urges New Grade Cold Storage Egg

MATSQUI, B.C., Nov. 4 (CP)—

A development of a new grade of guaranteed fresh eggs is urged by E. A. Lloyd, professor emeritus in poultry science at the University of British Columbia.

Speaking at a meeting here, he said the new grade would be "B.C. Fancy," and that it would be equivalent to the "Washington AA" quality recently introduced south of the border. This grade is commanding a premium price of three to five cents a dozen.

Prof. Lloyd said the plan would be for eggs to be gathered three to five times daily, held in cold storage rooms at the farm, shipped to the city twice a week, and kept in cold storage in the retail shop.

ELIGIBLE—Frank W. Stokes, 94, who participated in four polar expeditions and has lived in New York's Greenwich village for the last 50 years, will cast his first presidential ballot today.

Stokes, a painter, became eligible to vote in 1879. He said he will vote for Eisenhower.

BRAVO—In Kenton, O. Henry W. Gramlich, 106, said he would walk to the polls today to cast his vote for Dwight Eisenhower. Gramlich, the oldest man in these parts, has voted in more presidential elections than anyone else. His first presidential ballot went to Horace Greeley in 1872.

CHEERED—Dr. Gottfried Krummacker was cheered at a meeting in Kassel, Germany, when he demanded that the Allies pay Nazi party members $2 for each day spent in internment camps after the war and an additional 50 cents for each hour of work done by order of camp commanders.

SPORTS—Deer hunting is easy if you have the necessary equipment—like a cabin cruiser. Maynard Hernas, Charles Kunz and Clarence Gies were stalking deer in their cabin cruiser on Lake Roosevelt, Wash., Monday.

When they spotted one, they simply eased their cruiser into shore and made the kill.

BOYSTERIOUS—In San Antonio, Tex., an attractive, red-haired girl of 15 became angry when her parents refused to let her go out with boys.

As a result she set a grocery store on fire, smashed a plate-glass window with a hammer and confessed to police.

She has a date pending with the judge.

'SPIRITS'—In Boston the Massachusetts Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission has warned the liquor industry to stop using Santa Claus as a whisky salesman.

The commission made public Monday a letter to manufacturers, wholesalers and importers pointing out that Santa Claus, or St. Nicholas, "has since time immemorial, been associated with children, and it is for the best interests of the industry that its advertisements should in no way associate the children's saint with alcoholic beverages."

$130 Per Week For Newsmen On N.Y. Mirror

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (UP)—Negotiators for the New York Daily Mirror and the American Newspaper Guild (C.I.O.) reached agreement early today on a new contract covering more than 300 editorial and commercial employees.

The agreement, which must be approved by members of the Mirror unit of the guild, averted a strike.

The guild negotiating committee accepted a management proposal for a general wage increase ranging from $4 to $6 a week, with new minimums running from $45 for copy boys and messengers to $130 for experienced newsmen. Previous minimums were from $42.50 to $126.

The guild also won a 35-hour work week, four weeks' vacation after 12 years' service, and severance pay up to 56 weeks' salary.

Labor-Tory Fight in U.K. By-Election

LONDON, Nov. 4 (CP)—Britain had a "little" election today, a vote in Buckingham's parliamentary constituency of Wycombe to replace a Conservative member of parliament.

Today's vote, the result of which will be announced Wednesday, pits Labor, candidate John Haire against Conservative John Hall in what is considered a test of the popularity of Prime Minister Churchill's Conservative government.

The by-election was made necessary when William Waldorf Astor, Conservative victor in the last general election, entered the House of Lords. Astor stepped up to the higher chamber on the death of his father, Viscount Astor.

The Conservatives won the seat in 1951 by a margin of 1,753. The previous year Haire won it for the Conservatives by 476 votes. Churchill's effective majority in the House of Commons is 16 seats.

Red Jet Bombers Reported in China

TAIPEH, Formosa, Nov. 4 (AP)—Russian-made jet bombers are in Manchuria, being prepared for use in the Korean war, a Chinese Nationalist agency has reported. The China Union Press said 40 or 50 Ilyushin jet bombers have flown over Manchurian territory near the Korean border. The agency is reputed to have underground informants in Red China.

Guards Had Standing Offer to Aid Jackson Escape, Inquiry Hears

TORONTO, Nov. 4 (BUP)—Guards at the Don Jail used to talk about a standing offer by Leonard Jackson to give money to any guard who would help him escape.

Guard John K. Hopper Monday started the royal commission inquiry into the escape of four Boyd gang members September 8 by stating that he and several other guards had been offered bribes by Jackson after Guard James Morrison had been convicted of trying to help Jackson escape.

Commission Counsel George Walsh asked: "You mean it was general talk among the guards that Jackson had a proposition for anybody who wanted to make some money?"

Hopper answered: "Yes, sir. We also knew he would try to get out the first chance he had. He even told us that."

Hopper said when Jackson asked him if he wanted to make some money, he replied: "Yes, but not your way."

Guard William Starkey, employed at the jail since 1927, said one of his jobs was to listen to the amplifier in the governor's office for noises coming from the Boyd gang cellblock. A few hours before the escape, he said, a sergeant of detectives had telephoned him and asked if he had heard any noises from the Boyd cell. The sergeant added:

"If you hear anything let me know."

While Starkey was having lunch, his relief guard heard "banging noises" coming from the cell and reported them to Deputy Governor Alexander

Noble, who was in charge of the jail's night shift.

Guard John Arthur Thompson said he and Noble went to the Boyd gang cells and that Noble flashed a light on the bars and into the cells, but apparently noticed nothing wrong.

This was just a few hours before Edwin Boyd, Leonard Jackson, Steve Suchan and William Jackson escaped. Captured eight days later, Leonard Jackson and Suchan were sentenced to be hanged Dec. 16 for the murder of Sergeant of Detectives Edmund Tong here last March; Boyd was sentenced to life imprisonment for bank robbery and William Jackson to 20 years.

Meanwhile former guard James Morrison, now serving a two-year prison term for attempting to help Leonard Jackson escape, testified Monday in the trial of Frank Watson, 34, accused of possessing counterfeit money and with bribing a peace officer. Morrison said Watson gave him $70 and counterfeit bills totalling $100 after Jackson had arranged a meeting. Morrison said he had delivered six hacksaw blades from Watson to Jackson's wife, Anne, and some chocolate bars from Watson to Jackson.

Asked whether the guards often talked to Jackson Morrison said: "Most guards had contact with Jackson. Most of them passed the time of day with him."

In answer to a question by his counsel, Watson admitted a long prison record, including sentences for car theft, housebreaking, armed robbery and possession of narcotics.

Canada at London

THE CANADIAN GOVERNMENT'S policy at the forthcoming Commonwealth conference in London is now pretty clear—a policy on which the government obviously is willing to stand in next year's general election.

On the negative side the Government rejects any plan to have the trade of the Commonwealth off from the general trade of the world. It will not join any kind of exclusive trading bloc, as long proposed by some elements in British politics and lately suggested by the Council of Europe. Whether this bloc included only the Commonwealth and sterling area, or whether it was extended to cover western Europe as well, Canada would not enter it.

This has not been announced in so many words but it is indicated beyond doubt by Mr. Abbott's recent speeches. In Montreal not long ago, for example, he said:

"A great many countries, many of them traditional markets for Canadian products, are still attempting to solve their balance of payments difficulties by maintaining and increasing import restrictions, exchange controls and the like. We believe—and experience has shown—that measures of this kind hold out no hope of a permanent solution of these difficulties. We shall do everything in our power to further objectives which we have had constantly before us since the end of the war. These are to do everything possible in our power to keep the channels of world commerce as free as possible."

That attitude automatically rules out the old theory of an exclusive trade zone since it could be erected only by the exclusion, so far as possible, of goods from all areas outside its own boundaries. The essence of such a scheme, of course, is to hold down to the barest minimum all imports from the United States and thus to solve the dollar shortage of the sterling and European countries.

The United States would retaliate

immediately by cutting down its imports from the countries which had injured its trade. If Canada joined the project it would diminish and in great measure lose its American market. Since the Canadian economy lives very largely on that market it will not be swapped for the much smaller markets of a restricted area conducting a kind of economic war against the United States with political consequences more serious than the economic.

No Canadian government in its senses could adopt any other policy. It is notable that, despite all his criticism of the government, Mr. Drew has never proposed that Canada should put all its eggs in a narrow sterling basket.

On the positive side, however, the Canadian delegates are going to London with constructive proposals. They will argue that the solution of Europe's problem can be found only in the expansion of world trade, the removal of trade restrictions and in the larger sale of European goods, directly or indirectly, in the dollar countries of North America.

To this end, in the Canadian view, Europe must cure its internal inflation, as Britain is now beginning to do, hold down its export prices and compete vigorously in all world markets.

If this policy is accepted in London—and it has strong support in the British government—a real and permanent cure for the sterling nations' problem can be foreseen. And if they are ready to expand instead of restricting trade, if they are willing to strengthen the Geneva agreements instead of retreating from them into the barren storm cellars of protectionism, then the sterling nations may expect and would be entitled to substantial monetary aid from the United States and Canada during their period of readjustment. No such aid need be expected and none would be of any permanent use if the sterling countries propose to maintain the opposite policy of restriction and discrimination against North American goods.

Canadians for Canada

MR. RENÉ B. PERRAULT OF Montreal, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, believes that the flow of people from this country to the United States is abating. Recently he quoted interesting figures to show that about 10,000 Americans are moving into Canada each year and 5,000 former Canadians are returning.

Those figures are significant in spite of the number of new immigrants to Canada who continue to cross the 49th parallel into the U.S. We are losing many of the people who reach this land from European and other countries, but we are drawing in a large number of North Americans, including our own who have strayed away.

The vast postwar industrial development of Canada is, obviously, one of the strongest magnets pulling people to this country and holding young Canadians here. Opportunities are opening in this nation as they have never done before. Higher salaries and other considerations are attracting the university graduates into our national fabric where they once left to be woven into the pattern of the United States.

This is apparent over and above the influence that the draft laws of the United States might have in discouraging Canadians from taking up American residence and citizenship.

As conditions exist today, there is little cause for Canadians to bring out their crying towels and weep over the export of brains to more lucrative fields south of the border.

Canada is enriched by Canadians who go to the United States, learn new techniques and methods and bring them back home to the advantage of industry and manufacturing in this land. They are, as it were, taking post-graduate courses in their particular fields.

The success attained by young men and women who have left Canada for important positions elsewhere have for years been an index of their abilities. The fact that a number of them, having enjoyed good jobs and incomes in the United States, are returning to Canada indicates clearly their appreciation of the type of living offered here. Many are coming back to give their children a Canadian upbringing in recognition of what similar training and environment meant to them in their youth. Others, of course, are taking their places in big industries and reaping the rewards big industries are now paying in Canada.

The picture is generally encouraging. Canada is showing more clearly its appreciation of Canadians—men who can do the jobs required of them—and Canadians are replying in kind, showing their appreciation of their homeland and the chances it provides.

Calling Tom, Dick and Harry

IN WHAT IS APPARENTLY THE final appeal of the current campaign, officials of the Community Chest drive are asking residents of this community to donate to the organizations which have lumped their requirements under the Red Feather emblem.

It is small satisfaction to Victoria and district that the drive this year has obtained only 77 per cent of its objective. That means that each group benefiting from the collections will be able to do only three-quarters of the work it would like to do.

It can mean, for instance, that one out of four mothers, children and aged folk who might go to the Sunshine Camp next summer will have to stay at home; it can mean that help for the blind may have to be cut by one-quarter; it can mean that the Boy Scouts, the Victorian Order of Nurses, the Esquimalt Friendly Help, the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society and other worthy organizations must reduce their activities in the coming year. Work they would like to do must go undone; help they would like to give must lie dormant.

Thousands of purses that should have snapped open have remained shut; thousands of wallets that should have unfolded to a plea for community welfare have stayed closed. Let all who thought, "Let George do it," reconsider. There weren't enough Georges. Tom, Dick and Harry must do their share.

The Voter's Load

VICTORIANS WHO HAD DIFFICULTY with the triple ballot in the last provincial elections will feel sympathy for the voters in many United States communities today, who will be faced with a ballot the size of this newspaper page, covered with fine type.

A sample ballot from Lane County, Oregon, is colored pink and contains about 40 separate questions on which the voter must make a decision. These run all the way from the presidency of the United States through state officials such as treasurer and attorney-general, to county clerks and constables. There are also numerous referendums plus state act amendments on hospitalization, lotteries, milk marketing and other matters.

The ballots are so complex samples were sent to voters before election day so they may be studied, to save time in the polling booths. A stranger, seeing one, cannot help but wonder how elderly persons, those not very familiar with the language, near-sighted voters and similar categories can cast their ballots without considerable assistance.

The functioning of democracy is becoming increasingly complicated, demanding a higher and higher level of intelligence and ability from those whose wishes are being determined at the polls.

LOOSE ENDS

Rain

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

NOW, after the long summer drought, comes the first merciful rain and the parched jungles of the coastal shelf drink it like a thirsty man.

Since early spring the great trees, the swarming underbrush, the ferns and the moisture deposited last winter, expelling it in unimaginable billions of tons until hardly a drop is left. For weeks now the vegetable horde has panted and withered. At last comes relief, in the sick of time. The atmosphere, long moistened by the damp breath of foliage, begins to repay its debt.

Coastal man also needs rain, not merely to extinguish the forest fires lit by his own prodigal hand, to replenish his reservoirs and to assure next year's crop, but for subtler reasons which the drought dweller of interior regions will not understand. Rain is our friend, our essential nourishment, the great cleanser of body and mind.

The oceans of water descending on the coastal forest sluice off the accumulated dust, the heavy burden of leaf growth and all the garish garments of summer. It also cleans the habitations of man, washes his greasy streets, sweeps away his poisons and microbes, wipes clean the cloudy windowpane of his spirit.

TINY, LOST SPECKS

For half a year he has lived soft and in sunshine-like bees and grasshoppers who think that summer has no end. The rain reminds him of his true place in the harsh scheme of things—a tiny speck of life almost lost within the coastal wilderness, a passing incident in the perpetual avalanche of cloud from the ocean and water pouring down from the mountains to return again in drops of rain.

Like the tree when its leaves have fallen, coastal man feels the weight of summer's idleness and folly lifted from him by the first clean breath of autumn. Whatever the human calendar may say, another year is finished when the rains come, the past is engulfed and carried out into the sea of forgotten time and man is purified again.

This may not be apparent to the peoples of the interior where rain comes in solid form and lies around, white and cold, for six cruel months. They pretend to pity us while they dig their way out of the igloos of Winnipeg and Regina and shiver, with frozen white faces, in the teeth of a gale out of Hudson Bay. They cannot understand rain as we do, the soothing and comfortable touch of healing moisture out of the sky, the original medicine for the sick soul, sufficed too long with sunshine and heat.

ADAPTED TO SURVIVE

In time, no doubt, two separate species of man will evolve in America, a dried and desiccated breed with camel's stomach and the lungs of lizards, able to resist the parched interior climate, and a superior, well-watered species, probably with gills, upon the coast. Meanwhile both kinds of man, coastal and interior, must survive with their present primitive equipment, badly fitted for either place.

An inferior and badly constructed creature physically, ill-suited to his environment, much less durable than the forests of the coast or the stubborn grasses of the plains, man must get along as well as he can for the little time allowed him. In the interior he constructs igloos of a cunning design, steals the better skins of other animals for his own garments and hibernates like them until spring. On the coast he builds flimsy roofs, garbs himself in moisture-proof clothing and establishes tourist bureaus to misrepresent the climate.

But the great facts of Canadian life remain, the greatest of all being the weather, besides which governments, economic systems, war and peace are temporary aberrations. And with us on the coast the alternation of sun and rain is not merely a phenomenon to be measured on the official charts but the very weather of our lives, making us what we are, for better or worse.

We are better for the main. Our spirits drink it up like the thirsty forest roots. From now on we shall be scoured, scrubbed, sluiced and purified, externally and internally, until the spring flowers bloom and, like them, we are judged fit to look upon the sunny half of the year.

SELF-INTEREST

The world will always be governed by self-interest. We should not try to stop this, we should try to make the self-interest of each a little more coincident with that of decent people.

RECESSIONAL

"The statistician with his plotted graph showing where we will arrive 10 years hence is not as convincing as he was of yore. I have seen too many time ascending projections dip into the cellar these past few years."

RUSSIAN HUMOR

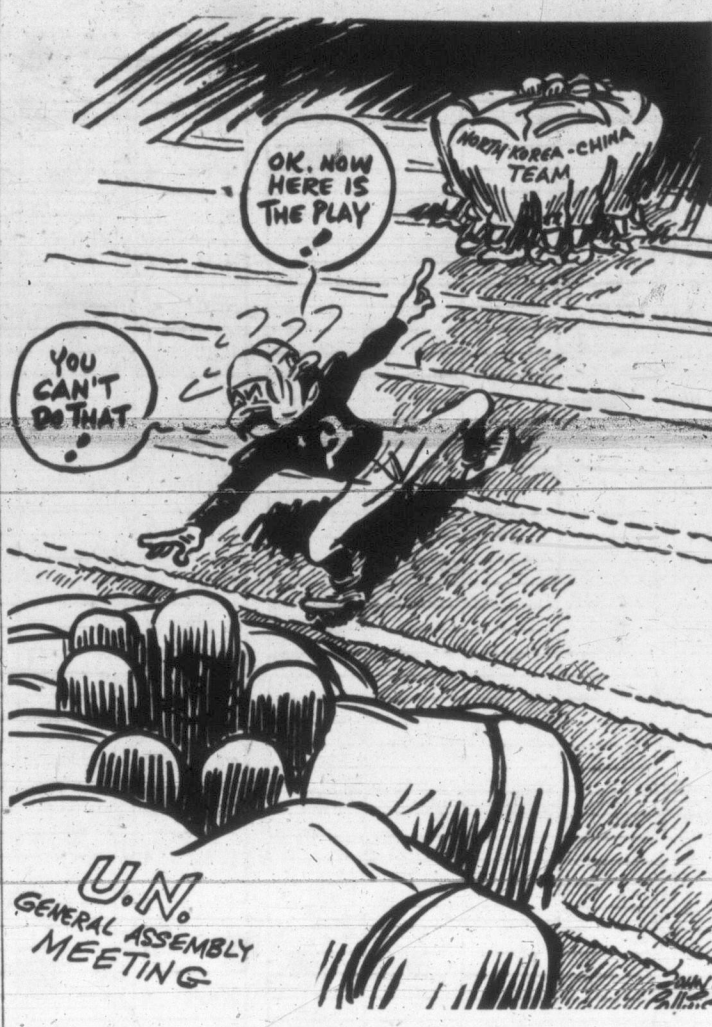

"But we found time for some relaxation. For example, one evening we went dancing, and I found I could dance okay to the Russian band. As a matter of fact, it performed much like a name dance band here, with the bandleader and his boys putting on skits and an M.C. cracking jokes—against inefficiency in government, too, if you please."

"One guy in the band says he wanted to have something or other done. 'Why don't you fill out an official form?' asks his stooge. 'If I wait for my application to go through all the red tape, I'll have a beard down to here,' answers the comic, sweeping his hand across his knees."

"The Russians indulge in plenty of this kind of satire against inefficiency, and the government encourages it, I was told. They call it criticism and self-criticism."

As Our Readers See It

LETTER TO PREMIER

Herewith is a copy of a letter to Mr. W. A. C. Bennett, premier of B.C., re the proposed increase in rates for our telephone service. I know that you oppose such an increase and thought that you would publish this letter in support of such opposition.

The Honorable W. A. C. Bennett,
Premier of B.C.

May I respectfully urge that our government take a firm stand against any increase in present telephone rates.

If the private companies find it impossible to provide adequate and expanding service at present rates, may I urge that the government study the possibility of provincial ownership of the telephone system of our province, a step found necessary in other provinces if the people were to be supplied with adequate phone service.

The essential service of telephones should not be restricted by the exigencies of earning profit for private shareholders. Telephones, like schools, roads and postal services are essential to the welfare of our people and if private enterprise cannot meet the requirements satisfactorily, then it is the responsibility and duty of the government to take over.

If the government decides to take action along these lines it can be assured of my support in the Legislature.

PENBERTON WOODS PARK

In drawing attention to the proposed cancellation of Penberton Woods Park, quite apart from expectation of town planning, preservation of small beauty areas, sanctuaries for old and young, etc., this area was set aside and dedicated as a park on Nov. 20, 1951, under by-law No. 3792 by our municipal council, many members of which are still functioning as our elected civic body.

This by-law came about as a result of many representations to the council, which appellants included P.T.A., dog owners, family men and women, and individual property owners, as well as those who intended to purchase their homesites near to this park.

In our own case, we built adjacent to the park for the specific reason of furthering our interest in "wild birds," and here set up the beginnings of a "sanctuary"—feed trays, suet racks, nesting places, etc., where for the past three years migrations and congregations of countless varieties of birds have descended, lingered and fed ere they winged their way onwards at Nature's compelling urge.

All this the "children" have loved with a deep natural interest. "Progress" comes under many guises, but such a plan as the one proposed above is "recession" from true values in town-planning. Revenue profits can be had elsewhere than in an already dedicated park, especially when that park is the only "free area" of parkland within a radius of several miles. Let the finance committee discover their "heart!"

NOTHING AT ALL?

Your issue of Oct. 29, on page 3, carried a report on a talk of Leonard G. Hatcher to the Victoria Chapter of the Architectural Association of Canada. His statement was published as follows: "To the visitor there is nothing to make him happy for having come. For the resident there is nothing to make him feel happy for living here."

The above must be Mr. Hatcher's trend of thought only, and does in no way express the thoughts of the many thousands of Victorians who consider it a privilege and blessing to reside here, and call it home.

The tourists, whom we always welcome, return many, many times.

The natural beauty of Vancouver Island is an attraction in itself. Hence Mr. Hatcher should make an apology through the press.

Life's Darkest Moment

BY H. T. WEBSTER

From Our Files

Nov. 4, 1892 — The Junction of Belleville and Menzies Streets is in terrible condition and the members of the James Bay Athletic Club have fairly to wade through the mud to reach the clubhouse.

Nov. 4, 1912 — An advertisement over the name of Thomas Shepherd, municipal clerk, calls for tenders "for the installation of a complete system of street lighting in the Township of Esquimalt."

Nov. 4, 1932 — Eleven youths altogether will be summoned for vandalism on Halloween, police stated today, as two juveniles, alleged to have caused damage, were located.

Registering A Protest

You have published several letters attacking the recent jury show at the Arts Centre.

As long as the writers of these letters confined themselves to expressing dislike of the pictures exhibited, they were, of course, within their rights; and argument on a question of taste is usually pointless and useless. However, when Mr. Barker, writing as past-president of an arts society, and others recommend on the basis of their preference for traditional forms of painting that civic financial support to the Centre be withheld, it becomes necessary for those holding differing views to register a protest.

'FINANCIAL CLUB'

The suggestion that any municipal body, under pressure from interested persons or groups, use a financial club to control the selection of paintings accepted or rejected for exhibition is surely not to be taken seriously. By a logical extension of such a policy a city council might order a symphony orchestra to play no modern music, or a public library to purge its shelves of all contemporary novels.

I believe there must be many persons like myself, neither painters, art students nor members of the Arts Centre, who attended the jury show in question with interest and pleasure. My impression, although I cannot support it with statistics, is that a fair number of the paintings might have been called "representational." The "abstract" pictures I accepted as honest exploration of a form of expressing experience which was important to the painter.

On the subject, Emily Carr in her autobiography quotes from a letter written to her by Lauren Harris:

'LEARN A LITTLE MORE'

"My present approach is by way of abstraction. I have done quite a number and with each one learn a little more, or increase that particular way of perceiving. Feeling can be as deep, as human, spiritual and resonant in abstract as in representational work; but, because one has less to rely on by way of association, it requires a greater precision. . . There is no doubt in my mind that abstraction enlarges the scope of painting enormously. It replaces nothing, it adds to the realm of painting, makes possible an incalculable range of ideas that representational painting is closed to, increases the field of experience—enlarges it—that is surely all to the good, but abstraction definitely cannot displace or replace representational painting. . . If one has not zest, conviction and feeling, one is no better off in abstract, indeed less so."

Surely one may accept that as the statement of an artist of integrity, and put personal likes or dislikes aside sufficiently to be interested in seeing a truly contemporary form of expression.

'IN HIS OWN WAY'

No painter or artist in any other field can claim as a right that the public like or understand his work. But any artist who is honest in his approach to his craft (and it is a bold self-appointed judge who undertakes to assess a fellow painter's artistic honesty) has a right to work in his own way and let his work stand or fall with critics and public according to his success.

Most artists grant that right as a matter of course, respecting the artistic liberty of their colleagues as fundamental to their own liberty, and recognizing any suggestion of a dictatorship of taste as a threat to the freedom and growth of all art.

The Arts Centre has been the means of bringing to Victoria many exhibitions which have been stimulating and enriching to those who saw them. Membership in the Centre is open to all who wish to join, and non-members may attend the exhibitions for less than half the price of a movie.

It would be a loss to many if the work of the Centre should be curtailed or hampered by personal dislikes and bitterness. It might be useful if at least a few who believe in its value were as articulate in support as its detractors are in attack.

Ups and Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"IT'S A GREAT THING," said the Elevator Man, "not to get so wrapped up in the other fellow's fight that you become more earnest than he is. It's all right to be enthusiastic on somebody else's behalf. But always keep just a pace behind the leader. That way you won't get away out in front and suddenly find the rest of the crowd has lost interest and left you there. And you won't ever get in the position of those fellows in a bar in Mexico City who got so excited about the U.S. elections that one got killed and several injured in a knife fight. While Ike and Adlai are sticking to words, that should be good enough for their supporters. Not until the main boys pick up knives should the followers get so hot. Over-enthusiasm, like too much of any stimulant, can be fatal. Lower main!

"Often," said the Elevator Man, "people would be surprised at the reasons why their followers get enthusiastic. I suppose many a good-looking young professor has been gratified at the sudden interest of the girls in numismatics or calculus, 'little realizing the enthusiasm was for his curly hair. And teen-aged Willie's increasing concern for the drama could really be based on that little blonde understudy he took home after rehearsal. Lower main!"

"That youngster," said the Elevator Man, "was a good example of what I mean. His teacher had taken the class to a concert to develop their appreciation of music. Afterwards they all went to a restaurant and had a feed of buns and cake and ice cream. As they were getting ready to go home, the teacher asked Johnnie, 'Did you enjoy the concert?' 'Oh, yes,' he said happily. 'All except the music.'"

Saanich Hotly Debates Desirability of Race Track Project

A public meeting called by Saanich Council Monday indicated that Saanich residents are sharply divided on whether to allow the construction of a race track in the municipality.

The meeting was called to hear persons for or against an application of the Royal Portage Parks Ltd. for the rezoning of 527 acres in Saanich to permit the erection of a race track and exhibition grounds in the Burnside Road and Prospect Lake area.

Britain's Choice Since 1887

Strong arguments for and against the racing project were expressed by people representing various organizations and their own personal interests. The meeting was attended by nearly 200 persons representing a cross-section of the population of Saanich.

Councillors took no action on the issue at the end of the meeting but adjourned the matter to the next council meeting to be held next Monday.

Councillor A. P. Cummins told the meeting he will press the council to submit the question to referendum.

"The project concerns all the people of Saanich," said Mr. Cummins. "After all, if racing comes to Saanich, the effects of racing will crop up in our law courts, in our social and police departments, business and taxation. The responsibility should be placed in the hands of the people."

Two other councillors, R. H. Wooten and G. S. Eden, indicated they will support a referendum if such a course of action "is considered necessary."

While the meeting was orderly and good humor prevailed for the most part, there were times when opposing factions clashed in bitter dispute.

Lawyer J. G. Rutan, representing the company, told the meeting that the race track was a "business proposition" supported by a group of Victoria businessmen. He said if the area involved is rezoned, the race track will be completed by August, 1954.

GUARANTEE OFFERED

He said the company intended to put up bonds as a guarantee that it will go through with the project.

"I want to make it clear the company does not intend to construct only a race track," he said. "Exhibition buildings will eventually be erected on the proposed property."

Mr. Rutan was asked by Councillor Wooten if as an Oak Bay resident he had supported the continuance of the race track at the former Willows racing grounds.

"I think that is an unfair question," said Mr. Rutan, addressing Reeve Joseph Casey. "I am here acting as legal representative of this company."

Later Mr. Wooten apologized to Mr. Rutan for asking the question.

BRINGS PETITION

R. G. Phillips, Holland Avenue, submitted a petition signed by 70 residents in the Holland Avenue district requesting the council not to allow the construction of a race track. It was the only petition submitted at the meeting.

"We believe that the race track will not be good for our children," said Mr. Phillips. "We could get hundreds of other people to sign this petition."

"I'll fight this to the last ditch," said H. G. Penman, Gordon Head. "This will only increase gambling and won't do the people any good. The only people who will make money will be the promoters."

He claimed that undesirable people attended horse racing. "What about the King and Queen," interjected Councillor Leslie Passmore. "They attend horse racing."

Mr. Penman answered that horse racing is different in England.

WOMEN OPPOSED

A representative of the Lake HSR Women's Institute said the organization was against the racing project.

A spokesman for the Thoroughbred Horse Breeders Association said a race track would be beneficial to horse breeders.

"A race track is bad for business," said R. Huntley. "Money goes to the races instead of the shops."

Mrs. J. G. Nardal, representing the Victoria Auto Court Association, said the owners of auto courts felt that a race track is a tourist attraction. She also said that many retired people are in favor of horse racing on South Vancouver Island.

B. G. Gillie took two councillors to task, charging that they had already made up their minds on the issue. He was referring to Councillors H. K. Bate and Leslie Passmore.

Mr. Bate said he saw nothing wrong with horse racing and could not see how it could be injurious to youth.

Mr. Passmore answered that he had not made up his mind yet on the issue but was considering the project. "When I do, I'll tell you plainly," said the councillor. "I never hide anything."

"You can't legislate morals," said another resident. "Horse racing is no different than sweepstakes."

Residents argued back and forth on the effects horse racing has on the morals of youth.

Some persons contended the race track should be built near Sidney or Central Saanich. They felt that the present proposed site was "not good town planning," as numerous roads will have to be constructed to the area.

Gordon Head was thought an appropriate site by two persons.

One person spoke out against the holding of a referendum. He was Capt. James Barr.

"I don't think a referendum will be fair," he said. "You will have people in Gordon Head, for (Ensign Willie Seward Keith faced a crisis. Fettered to the minutest U.S. Caine he had arrived at Honolulu to find her gone and had been reported to the officer post on coffee duty. A circumstance he owed to his previous as an entertainer at the piano with which he had amused an admiral.

SYNOPSIS

(Another day aboard ship sees Willie and the Caine. Willie, who had been on board the Caine, and after some weeks he realized his ambition, only to find the ship a shabby home for cynical officers and a crew which appeared to have lost all sense of discipline and traditional navy manners.

(There is great excitement aboard ship with the arrival of Capt. Queeg, new commanding officer.)

(Fifteenth installment from the book THE CAINE MUTINY, copyright, 1951, by Herman Wouk. Distributed by Doubleday Syndicate.)

At 4.30 the next afternoon the officers of the Caine were all seated around the wardroom table. Queeg laid a fresh pack of cigarettes and a packet of matches in front of him, and looked around with a smile as his officers took their seats. He tore open the pack deliberately, lit a cigarette, and took two steel balls out of his pocket. Rubbing them softly back and forth in his fingers, he began to speak.

"Well, gentlemen, I just thought we ought to get acquainted. We're going to be shipmates for a long time. You're probably wondering about me, and I confess I'm a little curious about you, though I've formed some pretty good first impressions. I think this is a fine ship with a splendid wardroom of officers. I think we're going to have a good cruise and, I hope, as Captain de Vries put it, some good hunting. I intend to give you every co-operation, and I expect the same in return. There is such a thing as loyalty upward, and such a thing as loyalty downward. I desire and expect to get absolute loyalty upwards. If I do, you'll get loyalty downward. If I don't, well, I'll find out why, and I'll see to it that I do." He laughed, indicating that this was a joke, and the officers nearest him smiled.

"I want you to remember one thing," Queeg went on. "Aboard my ship excellent performance is standard. Standard performance is sub-standard. Sub-standard performance is not permitted to exist. Now, Rome wasn't built in a day, and this ship has been sailing a hell of a long time without me, and as I say, I regard you as a splendid wardroom of officers. If there's anything that I want changed in anybody's department you'll find out about it fast enough. Meantime you will go on with your duties as before, remembering, as I say, that on my ship excellent performance is standard."

Queeg dropped the shred of the cigarette slowly into his coffee cup.

"Well, now that I've shot my face off," said Queeg, "I'll give anyone else who wants to the chance to do the same. . . . Nobody? Okay."

He rose, picking up his cigarettes. The officers stood. "Don't get up," he said. "Thank you all." He went into his cabin.

The officers looked around at each other. After a moment's stillness Gorton inquired, "Anybody got anything on his mind?"

"When is the gig shoving off for the beach?" said Keefe.

"At 1800," said Gorton. "I'm glad you asked, because you'll have the gangway then."

"In a pig's eye," said Keefe genially. "I'll be in the gig. I've got me a date with a college graduate from the O.W.I. office. She knows words of two syllables. It promises to be a highly intellectual evening, after life on the Caine."

"Well, in words of one syllable, you're a dead duck, said Gorton. "New watch-standing orders. Four officers aboard at all times in port. Me or the captain, and all three—repeat, all three—of officers of the duty section. I believe your section has the duty?"

Ten minutes later Gorton poked his head into the room. "Skipper wants to see you. Put on your saddle and report to the sawdust ring."

"With pleasure," growled Keefe, leaping out of his bed.

Captain Queeg was standing at the washbasin in his room, shaving. "Tell me, Tom," he began, "what do you think of your assistant, Keith?"

"Willie? He's a good kid."

"I mean, as an officer?"

"Well, he has a lot to learn, like any ensign. He'll be fine."

"I'm not interested in what he'll be. As of now, I agree with you that he's a nice kid—and also extremely immature. Particularly for a custodian of registered publications."

Keefe said hastily, "Sir, I'm certain Keith can handle that assignment to perfection. . . ."

"The boy obviously knows nothing about classified stowage, Tom. Why, secret pubs are jammed and flopped around in that safe like garbage. And he has pubs in the radio shack, pubs on the bridge—not a single custody receipt to show for them, either. Is that your idea of registered stowage, boy?"

It was exactly Keefe's idea, as a matter of fact. Willie had inherited an appalling mess, but the novelist had airily laughed, saying, "This isn't a battleship, Willie. Forget about the custody-receipt malarky. We're all pals together on the Caine." The ensign had innocently believed him. Keefe said, "Well of course, sir, things could be a bit more shipshape—I'll get on his tail. . . ."

"Nothing doing. You relieve him."

"Sir, pardon me, there isn't a ship in this squadron with a full lieutenant as custodian—it's an ensign's collateral duty—always is."

"Well, I don't want to be unreasonable about it," said Queeg. "How long do you think it would take you to train up Keith as a custodian?"

"A few days, a week at most."

and Willie can know that manual by heart."

"Fine. We'll let it go at that."

"Aye aye, sir. Thank you."

"Don't get me wrong," said Queeg. "Meantime I want you to relieve him. This evening."

"What! And go through an inventory and transfer report?"

"And then, again, in reverse, three days from now?"

"We have lot of time and transfer forms."

"Sir, a department head who's a top watch-stander doesn't have an infinite amount of time. If you expect efficient performance of my main duties. . . ."

"I expect efficient performance of all your duties. This business may cut into your novel-writing."

"Fine," said Keefe.

a little. But of course, none of us is aboard to write novels." In the poisoned silence that followed Queeg opened his drawers. They slid to the deck, and he kicked them into a corner. "Well," he said cheerfully, picking up a towel, "I hope the shower has hot water."

Keefe said in a slow, strangled tone. "Sir, do you object to my working on a novel?"

"Not at all, Tom," said Queeg, taking a faded blue bathrobe out of his narrow closet. "An outside interest of an intellectual kind is recommended for all officers, as a stimulant to clear thinking and alertness."

"Fine," said Keefe.

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

The Western Hockey League season is one month down with five to go and the Vancouver Canucks and Saskatoon Quakers, the early season powerhouses (for Vancouver an unfamiliar role), are headed for their first big showdown at Vancouver tonight as last year's champs hit the west for the first time.

And still the Vancouver line-up continues to change as Art Chapman keeps pulling strings attached to which are hockey players who can score goals.

It's a case of the players being required to meet the demands occasioned by a seemingly never-ending supply of talent. So far, its paying off with the Canucks winging their way out in front. Those who fall, face banishment to the salt mine operated by Murph "my kind of team" Chamberlain at Sydney.

The same situation holds true, on the Cougars to a lesser extent. The Canucks are winning, winning much more than the Cougars, two of whom face extinction within the fortnight.

But what is a knockdown? a count of 10, which a man may take for a rest; and it gives him a chance to come up again and do his particular best. The Cats are down, but far from that, and with four home games on tap, could again ignite that flame that smoldered briefly against Seattle Friday night.

Victoria Kins 65, Vancouver Clover Leafs 59: This was a big one for the Kins and coach Busher Jackson who are off on their yearly crusade of trying to put the "basket" back in city basketball.

Good, better, best: never let it rest until the good is the better and the better, best. And Johnny Clark proved beyond doubt that he is one of the best ramming home 34 points against the Leafs. Why, oh why, was he ever left off the Olympic team last year?

"One of the greatest performances I have ever seen," said Leaf coach Ron Webber.

Victoria United 3, North Shore 0: What is a failure? It's only a spur to the man who receives it right, and it makes the spirit within him stir to go on once more and fight.

You can't figure the men of George Eade. One day they appear headed for obscurity, a tie and a loss at home; the next, with their idle ace Wally Milligan dragging his injured arm behind him, they snap back to look like the champions they were last year.

You can't tell a player without a program and you can't appreciate the game fully if you don't know the rules. Just a tip for the Canadian Footballers who are doing a grand job of re-making a place in sport for an equally grand game. Even a diagrammed placard would help, although it's probably a case of locking the barn door after the horse is stolen at this stage of the season.

The game has regained its popularity to such an extent that the plan to hold the city finals under the floodlights at Athletic Park is offered in all sincerity and the feeling that it would be a success.

Almost lost in the weekend haze was the fact that Wally Yeamans' King Realty women cagers scored 43 points against the Canadian champion Eilers from Vancouver. Said Wally: "That's what pleases me because I know we can crush up on our scoring." Maybe another light is burning bright on the basketball scene. It was the women who gave Victoria its last Canadian title. Does anybody remember when?

You won't find a more conscientious fellow than Reg Abbott... when someone remarked about his golf prowess. (He plays to a 10 handicap). Reg answered: "Yeah, but this is the hockey season, not golf"... and what about next year's Shamrocks... Archie Browning is building airplanes at Brantford, Arnie Ferguson has hidden his shoes and now Darrell Popham leaves for service with the R.C.A.F... and last year he was those who disagree with the Cougars playing golf, (and there are) don't you think it's a far better exercise than other athletes have been known to indulge in at times when time was heavy on their hands...?

MOUNT VIEW EDGES ESQUIMALT

Bays Still Unbeaten In Prep Soccer Race

Last year's finalists in the Inter-high School Senior Soccer League moved closer to a repeat performance Monday when they both won squeaker victories.

Oak Bay took over the lead and retained their unbeaten streak by winning a tough 1-0 duel with a surprisingly strong Mount Douglas team on the loser's field.

Mount View, defending champions of the league title, stayed two points behind Oak Bay and one point behind Victoria High by slipping past Esquimalt 2-1 in a game abbreviated by darkness.

In the Oak Bay-Mount Douglas match, the teams fought on even terms, neither team being able to take the initiative.

With just two minutes left to play, Oak Bay was awarded a penalty kick and Dave Edgar capitalized on the opportunity to win the game.

At Mount View, Abtar Singh booted in two first-half goals at

Eddie Out Of Pocket

Eddie Dorohoy's outburst against Western Hockey League referee Scotty Morrison in New Westminster Saturday night has left the Cougar playing coach considerably out of pocket.

For arguing over penalties, Dorohoy was given two misconducts, each carrying an automatic $10 fine.

League president Al Leader announced Monday that Dorohoy had been fined an additional $50 for using abusive language against the official, making a total of $70.

In addition, the Cougars lost the game, 5-2.

GEORGE HAS TROUBLES—PICKBURN TO HOSPITAL

If troubles came in freight cars, George Eade would own a railroad.

Eade's Victoria United, currently runners-up in the Coast Soccer League, have for the past three weeks been operating with little of an offense, due to a leg injury to Wally Milligan. Centre forward Milligan, before his injury, was the club's top scorer and one of the best goal-producers in the league.

But he is to be joined on the side-lines by John Pickburn, one of the club's steadiest defensive performers. Pickburn injured his knee in last Saturday's match with North Shore and will enter hospital this week for surgery. It will be the second time this season that the clever halfback has been slowed by injured knees.

Commercial Puck Squads In Four-Way Tie for Lead

Merchants 10, Army 2 Navy 4, Individuals 0

By DENNY BOYD

The Commercial Hockey League's first place is a narrow precipice and as of Monday night there are four clubs clawing and jostling to avoid being elbowed into the dark brink below.

Merchants' 10-2 tramping of Army, and Navy's 4-0 blanking of Individual Cleaners, left all four teams tied for first place, each having one piece of wins, losses and ties.

However, if Monday's game can be taken as any criterion, the situation will not last long as Merchants and Navy were vastly superior to the teams they defeated.

Merchants in particular impressed the crowd with their latent power. Their powerful meat grinder made chewing beef of the Army defense, allowing the Lackie-men to feed at their leisure.

First Penalty Shot in Two Years

Ellis stopped the first penalty shot that Commercial fans have seen in two years. The infraction occurred when Army's hard-working Les Corby broke even centre, split two defences and shot a low liner that Ellis got to a skate to. The puck was slowly skidding across the line when Merchants' defenseman Bill Reynolds dove into the net and deflected the puck.

Reynolds was charged with pushing the puck out with his hand and Corby was given the puck at centre. He skated in slowly, made a move to fake Ellis, but then shot directly at the goal. As the shot was missed, Reynolds was given a minor penalty.

And Then They Forgot to Play Hockey

Joe Wood, in strip for Navy for the first time, scored the first goal of the game, a dazzling piece of stick work, at 9:43 of the first period.

Russ McKay, on a screened shot, and Wood, on a close-in move, made it 3-0 in the second period, and then the hockey of the hockey game ceased abruptly.

Temperatures that simmered as a result of hard checks thrown on both sides began to bubble like lava. Referee Leo Ornest and linesman Johnny Ruryk tried to clamp down by calling everything, but then it was too late.

When Archie McLean, standing perilously near the crease, banged in Navy's fourth goal on passes from Steve Harris and Al Standley, Individuals' playing coach Fergie McPherson became annoyed and talked himself first into a 10-minute misconduct and then continued the palaver until he was tossed out of the game.

His protest was that McLean had been in the crease. Bob Seens and Archie McLean fell to the ice, pawing at each other and Seens received two minutes for high-sticking and McLean five for fighting. Something Seens said was good for an additional 10 minutes incarceration.

One man who kept out of trouble and came up with a combi-ble job was Navy goalie Norm Jones who picked up his old habit of scoring shutouts.

Although Navy looked sharp on offense, their defense was nothing to rave about and Jones had to work for his goose egg. He stopped 31 shots, many of them of the incredible nature.

Kilburn Top Cougar In W.H.L. Point Race

Speedy Cougar winger Colin Kilburn was rolling like a freight train in the Western Hockey League scoring race until lady fate stepped in and sprained his ankle in New Westminster, Saturday night.

At present, Kilburn is the Cougar's leading scorer with nine goals and eight assists which puts him in third spot in the league point race.

Cats' coach Eddie Dorohoy is the only other member of the team to appear in the top five, having five goals and eight assists, earning him a fifth place tie.

Jack McIntyre is in sixth spot with half a dozen goals and the same number of assists, while pint sized Jim Fairburn has picked up 11 points in the short time he has been with the club.

Ian Mackintosh of Vancouver continues to dominate the scorers, however, with 11 goals and nine assists for 20 points. Saskatoon's George Senick who figured in every Quaker goal except one, Saturday for seven points moved from 15th to a second place tie with Larry Popen.

The scoring: G. A. T.P. Ian Mackintosh, Van. 11 9 20. Larry Popen, Van. 5 13 18. George Senick, Sask. 9 8 17. Colin Kilburn, Van. 9 8 17. Gordy Kerr, Tac. 4 10 14.

DALRAY WINS MELBOURNE CUP

MELBOURNE, Nov. 4 (AP).—Dalray, top-weighted four-year-old from New Zealand, won the two-mile Melbourne Cup, Australia's biggest horse race today.

Dalray, backed by more than $1,125,000, won by a half-length and was timed in 3:23.7 for the gruelling grind, over Flemington race course, Wodden Sun, second and another outsider six-year-old Reford, finished third.

The victory was worth $31,500 for Dalray's owner, C. Neville.

Three Hunting Seasons to Close Sunday

The island hunting fraternity have less than a week to get quotas of buck deer, pheasants and willow grouse.

Open season on these three game targets close Sunday evening.

From then on, the only open targets will be wild fowl. As yet the shooting in these parts for ducks has not been good. It is expected to pick up when the flights start winging their way from the north seeking warmer climates.

Game wardens on the Island Highway check last Sunday said the bucks they saw were healthy looking animals and also reported that the dampening-down the woods received from recent rains had improved that hunting picture.

Skillings Most Torrid Of Red Hot Hoopsters

Racks Up 23 Points; Tiremen Win

Individual scoring antics stole the spotlight in a three-game card of the Victoria and District Basketball Association at Victoria High School Monday night.

Waldo Skillings Jr. of First United racked up 23 points to take top honors as he notched all but 10 of his team's points in their 33-28 victory over St. Louis College in a bantam boys' contest.

Skillings' total was two better than compiled by Jack Shields and Bill Garner of Dickinson and Dunn.

The church boys held a slight margin most of the way, leading 12-7 at the quarter, 20-16 at the half and 24-14 at three-quarter time.

Kolb and Richardson sank field goals to put the losers in front 28-26 early in the final canto but Skillings came through with three baskets and Haneson added a free shot to clinch the verdict for the United.

Free-throw weakness plagued both clubs as St. Louis College converted only six of 22 attempts and First United sank but three of 12 throws.

Dickinson and Dunn trounced Victoria College 66-20 in a senior B game, with Shields and Garner netting 21 points each.

The decision was never in doubt as Tiremen led 19-2 at the quarter, 34-10 at the half and 47-16 at three-quarter time.

COLLEGIANS WIN St. Louis College romped to a 43-24 victory over Vampires in a juvenile boys' contest. A big first quarter saw the Collegians leading 19-3, but they could only match baskets with the losers for the rest of the game.

Line-ups follow: Dickinson & Dunn—Hodges 2, Woollett 5, Walker 8, Wadsworth 2, Johnson 2, Shields 21, Cronk 2, Total—48.

Victoria College—Achen, Page 2, Pritchard 4, Smith 1, Dunn 1, Lou Poy 1, Varough, Total—20.

Vampires—Gibbs 15, McKay 5, Meekin 3, Delgado 2, Murry 2, Thompson, Liddell, Total—34.

St. Louis College—Juvéniles—Martin 6, Longpre 8, Ritchie 11, McOhee 2, Clarkson 4, O'Neil 16, Dawson, Delmarie, Flynn 2, Total—43.

St. Louis College—Juniors—Kirk 4, Kolb 5, Flynn 3, Bayless 4, Richardson 2, Houston 4, McCoy 1, Pagan, Wells, Lacroix, Total—31.

First United—Skillings 23, McCulloch 3, Walker 4, Fitzgerald, Haneson 1, McDougall, Taylor, Parquhar 2, Galbraith, Total—33.

Marg Todd Takes Medal

Margaret Todd filed a 78 at Uplands Golf Club Monday to win low gross honors in the medal round for women with handicaps of 15 and under.

Low net winner was Mrs. W. S. Smith with 78, while Mrs. Todd, with a plus one handicap, tied with Mrs. V. S. Godfrey for low net runner-up, both scoring 79's.

Noted Sports Editor Honored on Retirement

MONTREAL, Nov. 4 (BUP).—Red Wings, and Tommy Gorman of Ottawa.

About 850 athletes, sports writers, sponsors, executives and business men gathered in the ballroom of the Windsor Hotel Monday night to salute Elmer Ferguson, retiring sports editor of the Montreal Herald and one of Canada's most prominent sports chroniclers.

"Fergie" joined the Herald in 1910 and became an internationally-known columnist with his daily "The Gist and Jest of It." Although stepping down as sports editor of the tabloid newspaper, he will continue to contribute his column.

Head-table guests included Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League (Ferguson handled publicity for the league during the presidency of the late Frank Calder); Art Ross of the Boston Bruins; "Buzz" Bava of the Brooklyn Dodgers and formerly of the Montreal Royals of the International League; Jack Dempsey; Frank Selke, general manager of the Forum and Les Canadiens; Jack Adams, general manager of the Detroit

Grid Final Postponed; Cadets Travel

Victoria's Canadian Football fans will be missing their Saturday pleasure this week but it is all for a good cause.

Royal Roads, who were scheduled to meet Vampires Saturday in the first game of a two-game total-point series for the city junior championship, will be playing in Vancouver, and the first game of the local finals has been set back to Armistice Day, one week from today. Second game of the series will be played Nov. 15.

Royal Roads will be meeting Meralomas in their Vancouver junket, the game being part of a monster sports rally and program to raise funds for the British Empire Games which are being held in Vancouver next year.

Humez Tames Hairston in Dull Bout

PARIS, Nov. 4 (UP)—Charles Humez of France, who has his eye on the world middleweight title, scored a 10-round decision over Eugene Hairston of New York Monday night but gained little prestige in a fight marred by lack of punches and frequent clinches.

Humez won by launching a flurry of blows late in the fight. Hairston showed none of his usual speed and clinched frequently during the last four rounds. The 16,000 fans who watched the match, which was considered the worst seen here this year, Humez weighed 158½ pounds and Hairston 159½.

Fielder Leads A.H.L. Scorers

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (CP)—One of the few American Hockey League players born in the United States, rookie Guyie Fielder of the St. Louis Flyers, this week leads league scorers with a total of 13 points.

Phil McAtee leads the goal-keepers with an average of two goals a game.

State Gridders Still Top Poll

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—In the closest overall balloting of the season, Michigan State held its No. 1 position in the Associated Press football poll Monday although the most first-place votes went to Maryland.

Maryland also clung to its No. 2 spot but there was a new tenant in third place as Georgia Tech moved ahead of Oklahoma on the strength of its impressive 28-7 victory over Duke last Saturday at Durham. Duke, sixth last week, dropped to 12th.

Boros Named Pro 'Golfer of Year'

CHICAGO, Nov. 4 (AP)—The dramatic rise of Julius Boros to fame and fortune in one season today earned him professional golf's highest award.

The 32-year-old Hungarian-born swinger was selected professional golfer of the year by the Professional Golfers' Association.

Mount Carmel, Pa.—Johnny Lombardo, 13½, Mount Carmel, Pa., knocked out Johnny De Baine, 15½, New York (4).

EDMONTON, Alta.—George Dunn, 13½, Edmonton, outpointed Dave Shade, 13½, Charleston, W.Va. (10).

YANKS RELIEVED AS MANTLE REJECTED

No 'GI' Garb for Mickey

COMMERCE, OKLA., Nov. 4 (UP)—Mickey Mantle, young Yankee star, tucked his lunch pail under his arm today and headed for work as usual in a nearby construction company, neither outwardly elated nor dejected over his third official rejection from military service.

"It didn't make any difference either way," shrugged the 21-year-old blond outfielder when he learned that the Surgeon-General's office in Washington had rejected him because of a knee injury aggravated in the 1951 world series with the Giants.

"Whatever they decided was all right with me," declared Mantle, indicating he currently was concentrating more on his newly-gained office job with a Baxter Springs, Kan., construction company, only a few miles from his home here. Mantle, who had been rejected twice previously because of a past history of osteomyelitis in his left leg, was relieved by the announcement for one reason, anyway. It would, he felt, limit the telephone calls to his home.

"I'm glad they finally let everyone know, so the people will quit calling me," he said. Announcement of Mantle's rejection also came as a distinct relief to the Yankees who would have been hard-pressed to come up with a 1953 replacement for the switch-hitting center fielder who batted .311 and drove in 87 runs the past season.

Following the 1951 world series, Mantle's knee bothered

him so much that the Yankees sent him to Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore to learn whether an operation was required. It was decided to forego surgery but Mantle wore a heavy elastic bandage over his knee throughout the season and during the recent world series with Brooklyn.

Major Gen. George Armstrong, the surgeon-general, pointed out that Mantle's disability resulted from a chronic right knee defect resulting from a tumble he took while chasing a fly ball against the Giants in the second game of the 1951 world series.

Mantle's osteomyelitis condition presumably had no bearing on his latest rejection since present military policy permits acceptance of cases with no history of recurrence for a period of two years.

The Yankee outfielder's records were sent to the surgeon-general's office for review after he first was examined at his home draft board and later at Fort Sill. Officially, Mantle's condition was found "serious enough for mandatory rejection under armed forces physical standards."

Mantle's mother, Mrs. Elvin Mantle, who is one of six persons the player helped to support on his $11,500 salary this year, said merely, "Well, I'll be darned," when informed of the army's latest decision.

But her son, reticent and unemotional as usual, said even less and went out to his job as usual.

Montreal Unit Sets Point Pace

MONTREAL, Nov. 4 (CP)—Montreal Canadiens last week slipped from top spot in the National Hockey League standings to a tie for second place with Toronto, but their ace forward line of Maurice Richard, Elmer Lach and Bert Olmstead picked up scoring.

Richard, Lach and Olmstead are among the top-six scoring leaders as shown in official league statistics issued today.

Richard, still looking for goal No. 325 to break the individual all-time scoring record he holds jointly with Neil Stewart, picked up two goals and an assist to run his point total for this season to 14 and a tie for the leadership with Toronto Leafs' Ted Kennedy who collected one goal and three assists.

Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay of Detroit Red Wings and Olmstead follow with 12 points each with Lach hard on their heels with 11.

Al Rollins of Chicago is the least scored-against goalie. He has allowed 23 pucks past him in 11 games for a 2.09 average while his closest rival, Jim Henry of Boston, has allowed 21 in during 10 games for a 2.10 average.

Ted Lindsay is still top contender for lead-man honors with 39 minutes in the penalty box. The leaders follow:

'DESERVES NO CONSIDERATION'

Voss Recommends Egan's Suspension

DETROIT, Nov. 4 (AP)—A leading hockey official said Monday that defenseman Pat Egan of Providence Reds should be banned from organized hockey.

Carl Voss, chief of officials for the American and National Hockey Leagues, told a reporter Egan had "committed the most serious crime in the business and deserves no consideration."

Egan tangled with two linemen—Patsy Callaghan and Bobby Carse—during the Reds' A.H.L. game with Cleveland Barons at Cleveland Saturday night. He got a match penalty which meant automatic expulsion from that game and a $100 fine.

Voss said he has recommended to Emory Jones, American Hockey League president, that Egan be suspended until the incident is thoroughly investigated. Jones, who has the power to impose an additional penalty, said he would call a meeting early this week to look into the case.

Bedtime Snack solves laxative problem

"Constipation made me mullen all day. What a change since I started to use ALL-BRAN regularly! Even my wife notices it!" writes man from Ville Montmorency, Que. If you suffer from irregularity due to lack of bulk, try a bowlful of this toast cereal every night before bed. It may bring back the youthful regularity you thought long lost. ALL-BRAN is the only type ready-to-eat cereal that supplies all the bulk you need. It's high in protein and iron. Not habit-forming. Kellogg's is so sure you'll like ALL-BRAN that if you're not completely satisfied after 10 days, send empty carton to Kellogg's, London, Ont., and get DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK!

DEMOCRACY NEEDS WAVERING MOSLEM

Canadian Club of Egypt's Problems

Egypt suffers from too many people and not enough land; the mass of Egyptians are undernourished; the reason so many chew hashish is to dull their appetites, as hashish is cheaper than food.

The average Egyptian peasant works 110 days a year, has about 35c a day to support a family of five.

And Egypt's government for 2½ years "robbed Egypt with a thoroughness difficult to believe."

But if you ask any Egyptian under 45 years of age he will tell you that he has been brought up in a democracy. And most Egyptians can find little to recommend the "democracy" they have lived under.

This graphic picture of the difficulties the west labors under in Egypt was painted for the Canadian Club Monday by Brig. Cyril D. Quilliam, former deputy chief of military intelligence in Cairo.

The speaker pointed out that these conditions, plus the Moslem belief that the west is material, the east spiritual, provide a fertile breeding ground for Communist infiltration in Egypt.

ARABS DUBIOUS
The Arabs, too, are doubtful of western justice. They ask what his being done about the 1,000,000 Arab refugees from the Israel state.

Brig. Quilliam, while painting a gloomy picture of the west's position in the Middle East, believes there is a "breathing space," because the Arabs are not yet actively antagonistic.

"We must try to prove to the Middle East that democracy is not just something to talk about," he said. "We must show that it will benefit them. And we must be sure in our public dealings with the Arabs that justice is done, and is seen to be done."

Brig. Quilliam called Egypt "a land bridge, a sea gateway, and an air communications centre."

"If we do fight a war with Russia in defense of our ideals, the Middle East will be very important," he warned.

The most sensational awning offer ever made!

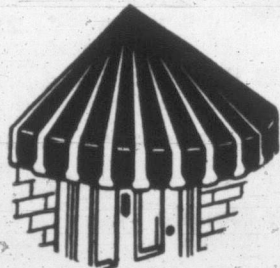

ENJOY
this fall, all winter and next spring...
AT OUR EXPENSE!

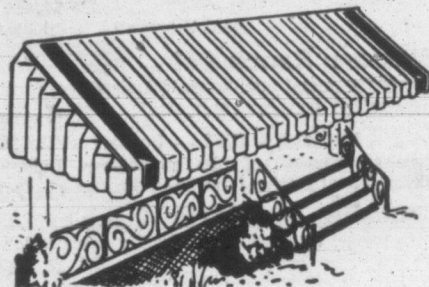

FOR COOL COMFORT. The exclusive, patented ventilated construction prevents the formation of hot air pockets under the awning, permits the cool breezes to circulate, keeps rooms as much as 20 degrees cooler in summer.

YOUR CHOICE OF COLOURS AND DESIGN. Every KoolVent is custom built to fit your own home. Choose your own design, choose your own colours in solid or striped effect. The baked-on enamel colours will not chip or crack.

KOOLVENT DOORWAY CANOPIES keep entrance-ways free of rain, sleet and snow. They are available in a variety of styles to enhance the beauty of your home.

YEAR-ROUND PROTECTION. All KoolVent coverings are built of light-weight aircraft aluminum, strongly reinforced at all points to outlast your home. They never need replacement. They will not rust, sag, tear or blow down.

For year-round beauty, comfort and protection!

During our first spring and summer of business in Victoria we have had difficulty in keeping up with the tremendous demand created for KoolVent Ventilated Aluminum Awnings. That is why we are now making what is undoubtedly the most sensational awning offer in years. You must act now for prompt delivery is guaranteed only if we receive your order before November 15th.

HERE IS OUR OFFER: We are prepared to let you enjoy the all-season benefits of KoolVent Ventilated Aluminum Awnings for the remainder of this fall and all this winter AT OUR EXPENSE! You can have KoolVent Aluminum Coverings installed on your home right now—pay for them next spring! If you've been thinking about KoolVents this is definitely the time to install them. Telephone or mail coupon for full details.

WHY WE MAKE THIS OFFER

1. We want to prove to you that KoolVents are not seasonal awnings! We want you to see for yourself how KoolVents keep rooms as much as 20 degrees cooler in summer—how they protect against rain, sleet and snow in winter.
2. We want you to prove to your complete satisfaction the year-round durability and convenience of KoolVent Ventilated Aluminum Awnings. They're permanent—never need replacement. KoolVents enhance the beauty of your home, increase its value. They will not sag, rot, rust, burn or blow down. Once up, they stay up—yours for a lifetime.

3. This year orders for KoolVent Aluminum Awnings greatly exceeded even the increased production capacity of our plant. Operating on a round-the-clock basis we still couldn't help falling behind on some deliveries. We don't want this to happen to your order next summer.

More KoolVents are sold than all other metal awnings combined!

THIS OFFER AVAILABLE UNTIL NOV. 15 ONLY—Customary deposit with your order before Nov. 15 makes this offer available to you. Balance payable March 1, 1953

Second Japanese Bride Introduced to Canada

VANCOUVER, Nov. 4 (CP)—A young Montreal soldier and his wife strolled hand in hand down Granville Street's theatre row Monday night and took in the sights.

Every so often he asked her if she was happy and urged: "Don't be nervous."

The shops and theatres, humdrum to many, were Katsuko Hiroto's introduction to her new homeland. Now Mrs. Ken Fraser, she is the second Japanese war bride to arrive in Canada.

They met while L.-Cpl. Fraser was stationed near Okayama and were married March 7 by Protestant Padre H. A. Doig.

Differences in language didn't bother cupid during their courtship.

Sooke's Education System Expanding

LANGFORD, Nov. 4.—There are now 14 schools in Sooke School District 62, and 48 teachers earning an individual average of $3,000 per year, Trustee Mrs. A. Turner told Langford ratepayers at their annual meeting.

Construction during the year, paid by current funds, included a new school at Bear Creek and two classrooms at Langford. Building has begun on a room at Colwood, and two classrooms at Sooke.

Elected to represent the district were D. Pringle, A. Hull and J. A. Jackson.

ISLAND DIGEST

COBBLE HILL, Nov. 4.—With the opening of the P.G.E. Railway into Prince George, George E. Bonner of the Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association has suggested the C.V.R. now take over the E. & N. Railway and make Victoria its western terminus.

He said the C.N.R. route could be via the P.G.E. track from Prince George to Williams Lake, thence to Knight Inlet and to Vancouver Island through a five-mile tunnel. On the island the suggested route is through Campbell River, Port Alberni, Cowichan Lake and Sooke to Victoria.

DUNCAN, Nov. 4.—Constable Wilfred George Lambert, R.C.M.P. officer at Shawnigan Lake for the last two years, has been posted to Alberni to head the four-man detachment there.

A popular figure with lake residents, he served previously in Duncan. His replacement at Shawnigan Lake is Constable Stuart McIlroy, from Alberni.

Ike, Adlai Vote, Quietly Await Outcome of 'Biggest' Day

NEW YORK, N.Y., Nov. 4 (UP)—DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, feeling he had done all he could to win the presidency, settled down today on Manhattan's Morningside Heights to await the verdict of the American people.

It was a weary but optimistic Ike who returned with his wife early this morning to his residence on the Columbia University campus from a star-studded election eve rally at Boston. Like other citizens, their first business of the day was voting—at the nearby precinct on 119th Street.

As the bitter campaign for the nation's highest office drew to a close Monday night, Eisenhower pulled off his topcoat. He later told advisers he didn't have the strength to wave his arms under the coat's added weight.

Behind the 62-year-old Republican candidate was a 52,000-mile campaign that ended on a peaceful but painful note before 17,000 cheering supporters in Boston Garden.

It was peaceful because Eisenhower decided to wind up his campaign on a non-argumentative theme. He said he wanted to end his bid for the presidency with something less than "the lusty language of a booming rally."

And it was painful because, during a radio-television show in a studio following the Garden Rally, a 14-inch studio clock which was being moved at the request of photographers fell on Eisenhower's head.

Mrs. Eisenhower and Sen. Richard M. Nixon, G.O.P. vice-presidential candidate, rushed to Eisenhower's side and studio personnel covered a large lump and laceration on his head with mercurochrome.

"I'm glad the campaign is over," Eisenhower said with a wry smile.

Eisenhower's Garden speech was couched in such grave language that the audience, which had given him a wild, five-minute ovation when he appeared on the speaker's stand, became quiet and applauded infrequently.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 4 (UP)—ADLAI STEVENSON, happy and confident that he has told "the truth as I see it," voted today at Half Day, Ill., and then settled back to await the nation's decision on his battle for the presidency.

Win or lose, Adlai said, he is ready to accept the voters' decision with "traditional American sportsmanship."

Stevenson voted at Half Day, a little crossroads hamlet near his 70-acre northern Illinois farm. Shortly thereafter, the Democratic nominee flew to Springfield to receive the election returns at the governor's mansion there.

He spent the night before the fateful balloting at the home of an old friend, Hermon Dunlap Smith, in suburban Lake Forest.

After voting, he was to talk briefly to school children of the town and attend a reception given him by his neighbors.

Outwardly, at least, Stevenson was calm and confident, taking an almost fatalistic view of the events now to unfold.

In a hectic, election eve broadcast, one in which he was cut off the air before completing his address, Stevenson declared he was satisfied that in campaigning for the presidency he had talked "sensibly and honestly." He admitted it meant "saying things that sometimes people don't like to hear," and that in doing so he risked losing votes.

But, he said, if he had not spoken frankly he would not "feel so good" as he did as he sat before the television cameras and summarized 32,000 miles of campaigning.

Stevenson said he was proud he had taken dangerous stands on tidelands oil before Texas crowds, civil rights before southerners, and had warned veterans they could expect no special benefits.

At the same time, Stevenson promised that if elected president he will seek a "fresh" approach toward gaining an armistice in the Korean fighting, thus ending what he called the "miserable stalemate" there.

For Stevenson, election day meant the end of a trail which has led from political obscurity to his nomination for the presidency last July, a nomination which he did not seek but which he accepted with the promise to "fight to win with all my heart and soul."

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

Mrs. J. C. Nimmo, of 261 Leigh Road, Langford, is in a high state of consternation.

"I'm upset," she writes, "because, until quite recently, I believed almost everything I read in The Times."

The reason for her consternation is evidenced in two clippings from this newspaper.

One refers to an event planned for Nov. 31, the other to one arranged for Sept. 31.

Mrs. Nimmo asks if we on The Times have forgotten the old rhyme about "30 days hath September."

Indeed we have not, Mrs. Nimmo. But we DO have a slightly revised version:

"Thirty days hath September,
April, June and November.

A pos on all such schoolboy rhymes,
We're INDEPENDENT on The Times."

As a matter of fact, I have a good use for the two dates mentioned.

We should pass a law, compelling Tim Buck to make all his speeches on Sept. 31, and J. G. Endicott all HIS on Nov. 31.

A New York department store advertises a "bull horn" for automobiles. "The horn was designed as a cattle call for stockmen," the store explains, "and its gentle moo or full-throated bawl are a polite relief from usual car signals."

That may be all very well for New York, but the first time a car moos at ME around these parts, I am going to make it produce its certificate of butterfat content.

If you are reading this late enough in the evening, you should have a good idea who is going to win the presidential election in the U.S.A.

But in case you wish to go to bed early, here are the official predictions from the Between Times family:

Me: Stevenson.
My Favorite Wife: Eisenhower.

Punch: Truman.
I fearlessly predict that one of us will be right.

And, to follow the example of U.S. columnists, four years from now I will say I was right in '52.

One thing for sure. The defeated candidate will admit he has learned from experience, the best teacher.

But it's unlikely he'll have any great affection for the professor.

G.O.P. VERSUS DEMOCRATS

What the Election Means to Canada

BY RONALD HAGGART

Special to The Times

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4 (Special to The Times)—Upwards of 50,000,000 Americans trooped to the polls today to choose between the New Deal and the New Bloom.

Whoever wins, the Democratic party represented by Adlai Stevenson or the Republican forces of Dwight Eisenhower, what will the outcome mean to Canada?

If Eisenhower wins:

1. No fundamental change in the bi-partisan foreign policy, but a closer look at the cheque book in an attempt to fulfill campaign promises of lower taxes. With 85 per cent of the American budget committed to defense, including foreign aid, help for overseas Allies could be the major target of budget-cutters in a Republican Senate.

2. An ending of U.S. price controls. Eisenhower is opposed to "direct, artificial" controls and most Republicans voted against the price ceilings which are still in effect here. Any increase in the U.S. cost of living could, by normal economic osmosis, have an effect on Canadian prices.

3. Many Republican leaders would like to see Chiang Kai-shek's Formosan army used in the Korean war. Eisenhower would have to be pressured into it, but he has urged the use of more South Koreans. ("If there must be war in Asia, let it be Asians against Asians.")

In addition, Sen. Robert A. Taft, who would be a tremendous power in a Republican senate, has urged U.S. participation in the St. Lawrence Seaway.

If Stevenson wins:

1. Continuation for a while at least of heavy expenditures on defense. This means orders for some Canadian plants.

2. Repeal of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act and perhaps repeal, in time, of the McCarran Immigration Bill (although it was sponsored by Democratic Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada). The act will take effect no matter who wins. This is the act which will require Canadians staying longer than 30 days in the U.S. to be fingerprinted, carry registration documents at all times and report all changes of address.

TRUMAN HAS 12 WEEKS LEFT IN WHITE HOUSE

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Nov. 4 (UP)—President Truman voted early today and boarded his special train to return to Washington for his final 12 weeks in the White House.

Mr. Truman's wife and daughter Margaret also were voting in their home town and going back to Washington with him.

Although he expressed confidence of victory for the Democratic ticket, the president didn't make any prediction of the number of electoral votes Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate would get.

The president made his last bid for votes for the Democratic ticket Monday night in an appeal carried on nationwide radio and television networks.

He spoke from nearby Kansas City, preceding Stevenson and Sen. John Sparkman, the Democratic vice-presidential candidate, who made a final pre-election rally address to a national audience from other places.

Mr. Truman said his party had given the nation its "greatest prosperity" and had stopped Communist aggression without throwing the world into an "all-out atomic war."

He said that Stevenson and Sparkman are the "only men" who could lead the nation in achieving world peace and maintaining prosperity at home.

Hit-Run Driver Leaves Victim Helpless on Saanich Highway

Policeman Hurt As Patrol Car Wrecked in Crash

A city police patrol car was almost totally destroyed today when it smashed into a sawdust truck parked on the north side of Dallas Road, near Menzies, at 1.55 a.m.

And when Police Chief John Blackstock surveyed the wreckage, he remarked: "It must have been the driver's lucky night."

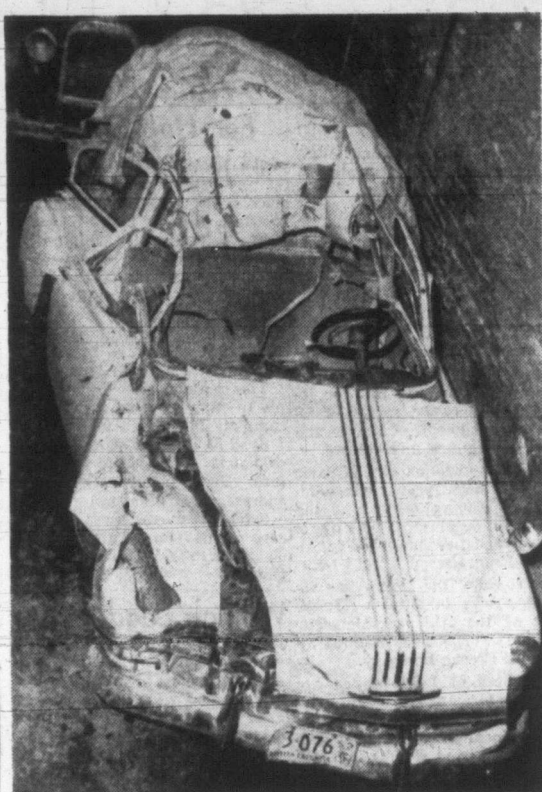

Victoria Police Constable Frank Colli, 2022 Richmond Road, driver, miraculously escaped serious injury.

X-rays were taken at Royal Jubilee Hospital this morning, but his only surface hurt was a gash on the forehead requiring five stitches.

According to police officials, the patrol car was proceeding west on Dallas near Menzies when it crashed into the truck, property of William Walker, 739 Pandora.

The front end of the police car went completely under the back deck of the truck. The force of impact smashed back the front upper section of the sedan to the rear seats.

Police officials, were going to interview Constable Colli later today, if his physician permits, to learn the cause of the accident.

District Police Mobilized in Widespread Hunt

Police of the Greater Victoria area were searching today for a hit-and-run driver who left an elderly man unconscious in the middle of the intersection at Quadra and Union Streets Monday night with serious injuries.

In Royal Jubilee Hospital today in only "fair" condition is 80-year-old John W. Buckler, 1015 Collinson Street.

He was struck while crossing the intersection at about 10.30 p.m.

Mr. Buckler, a well-known insurance man and church choir conductor, received severe head injuries. His body was badly bruised.

He had not regained full consciousness at a late hour this morning.

He told his wife, Gertrude, a partner in the firm of J. W. Buckler Insurance Agency: "I don't know what hit me."

Saanich policeman Constable Robert Adrian reported finding the unconscious man nine feet into the traveled portion of Quadra in a pool of blood when called to the scene by a passing motorist.

"Contrary to other reports, we have no leads on the car responsible in this case and would appreciate it if anyone who has any knowledge of the accident whatsoever would contact us at the Saanich police office," said Sgt. Jack Hamilton.

He has asked help in tracing the hit-run driver from other police forces in Victoria and district.

It is not known how long the injured man lay in the roadway. Jack Craig, Townsend Drive, was driving out of town when he saw the injured man lying on the other side of the road. He first moved the body well off the highway and then telephoned Saanich police.

Constables Leslie Ledson, Walter Mycock and Robin Stewart attended the investigation.

Mr. Buckler had been visiting his daughter, Mrs. Frank Truman, 3912 Winton, and was going to catch his bus home when the accident occurred.

Mr. Buckler, a Victoria resident for 30 years, has been conductor of the Centennial Church and Lutheran Church choirs here over a long period.

ELECTION SIDELIGHTS

ABILENE, Kans., Nov. 4 (AP).—Of the first 44 votes cast in Dwight Eisenhower's home town in today's general election, 39 were for the Republican candidate for president.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP).—Elder statesman Bernard Baruch today called upon the United States electorate to unite behind the next president, and then cast his own vote.

Baruch had some difficulty with the voting machine and called out: "This damned thing doesn't work, you can't pull the levers." The machine was adjusted in a few moments.

Asked about a letter he had written praising Republican candidate Dwight D. Eisenhower, Baruch said after his vote: "I don't say one thing and do another."

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Nov. 4 (AP).—Four assistants co-operated today as 111-year-old Jim Hard, the country's oldest surviving Union veteran of the Civil War, cast his vote for Gen. Eisenhower.

Hard said he cast his first vote for Abraham Lincoln.

The history-literary guy is Adlai Stevenson and the jungle hero is Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Victoria 'Straw Vote' Picks Ike to Top U.S. Presidential Poll

Ike or Adlai?

This question was popped at a long list of prominent Victorians by The Times today.

Ike emerged on top by a substantial margin.

The well-known Victorians were asked: "Whom do you think (not hope) is going to be the next president of the United States, and do you think that person will be good for Canada-U.S. relations?"

Here are some of the replies from "those persons who were willing to go out on the proverbial limb:

Mayor Claude L. Harrison: "I think Ike. I think he'd be satisfactory to Canadians, too. He has the interests of the whole of America at heart."

Businessman Russel Ker: "Stevenson will take it, but I'm hoping Eisenhower will. Ike's past record, and what he has done for the whole world, shows he can get on with other nations. That is most important in this day and age. We in Canada are most interested in the American foreign policy, not its domestic policy."

Realtor Major H. C. Holmes: "I think Ike will win, but it's going to be very close. The beauty of it is, of course, that both candidates are of such high calibre that the nation will benefit either way—and Canada too."

Ex-Premier John Hart: "I think Adlai will win, and I think he's a better man for the job. Eisenhower is not sufficiently versed in the economic conditions of the country. He has been trained by the military mind. Stevenson has a grasp on the economic situation. Also, I judge it will be a photo-finish."

Lawyer Jack Rutman: "I'm betting on Ike, and I hope he makes it. This talk that Stevenson is a more cultured chap and would be better for relations with Ottawa is a lot of nonsense. Ike has what it takes."

Ex-Premier Boss Johnson: "Too close to say, but I'm hoping Stevenson wins."

Ex-Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb: "Ike will get it, but it'll be close. I'm just back from California and I judge it will be a photo-finish."

Transportation company executive Walter Miles: "I think the sentiment has swung to Ike. His election, though, may not be good for Canada. He might be a protectionist and raise tariffs. But the

SHOPPING GUIDE

By PENNY SAVER

Victorians, like people the world over, love the ballet. Last week we were privileged in seeing a film on glorious ballet teamed with opera and this week we are looking forward to the visit of the National Ballet Company.

It is not very often that we have the chance to see ballet and possibly there are quite a few of us who have not had the opportunity to learn all we would like about the art.

If you feel that you are not getting all you should from the ballet, through lack of knowledge, you may be interested in a new book now out, "World Book of Modern Ballet."

It's a fabulous publication. It will give you the history of the art as well as enlighten you on the choreography involved.

The book sells for $3 and contains priceless information.

Another book which would be ideal for anyone learning ballet themselves is entitled, "Beginning Ballet."

This, too, contains a lot of information and is priced at $1.25. If you know the program ahead of time you will appreciate reading one of the little books which tell the story of each ballet. It will add immensely to your enjoyment.

At present there is a book on "Tales From Hoffman," which is selling at $4. Another book is expected to arrive soon which will tell the story as it was in the movie.

The ballet is also the theme for very attractive personal notes I saw this morning.

The notes which sell for $1.25 a box have graceful ballerinas on them.

Here is an item which I haven't seen in the stores for a long time.

Marks 40th Anniversary

Alliance Francaise, which celebrated its 40th anniversary in Victoria last month, has for its primary object the spread of interest in the people of France, the French language and culture.

From its headquarters in Paris are sent each year representatives to leading centres of the world to organize libraries, schools and new branches of Alliance Francaise.

In Canada, the group has its headquarters in Ottawa. President of the Alliance, Monsieur Gagnon, works with cultural attaché of French Embassy.

Members of local branch are looking forward to lecture by Father Jean Omer this month. He is a member of the Dominican Order and lived for many years in Russia and will talk on the contrast between eastern and western worlds. Another lecturer will be the curator of the museum in Palais de Versailles, who will speak on "A Day at Versailles at Time of Louis XIV." Lecturer will also show a film on Versailles.

Next meeting of Alliance Francaise will be held on Thursday at 3, at home of Mme. Graeff, 1031 Verrinder Avenue.

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph.D.

It is possible to love two people but these loves are never the same. Because all people are different, the love of a woman feels for one man can never be duplicated in her love for another man. That is what this widow must understand and accept if she wants to remarry.

(Q) "I am 47 years old. Two years ago, I lost my husband whom I loved, very dearly. I have a 14-year-old son. I hold two jobs, from 7.30 a.m. to 11 p.m. in order to support us. I am very tired but can see no other way out. My parents tell me to go out more but I don't have time as I have my own work to do week-ends. Some advise me to marry again to ease my burden but every time I go out with men I freeze up. It seems wrong, somehow, for I still love my husband, and I don't feel I should remarry."

(A) "You should not consider remarriage until you are sure you love the man you marry. It would be unfair to him and to yourself to marry for any reason other than love."

Certainly you should not marry just to have someone help you with your financial burdens. That would not be fair to a man who wants more from a wife than to pay her bills.

I don't understand why you need two jobs to support yourself and your son. Why can't he take after-school and week-end work to help you?

If the work you now have pays so poorly that you must carry two jobs, try to get something that will pay better so you will need only one job. That will not only enable you to have more time for your home but it will give you a chance to go out with people.

In time, as you get a better perspective on things, you may be able to see this matter of remarriage in a different light. Of course you could never feel about another man as you do about your first husband. But that does not mean that you cannot love him, even if it is a different kind of love.

Dr. Hurlock will help you with family problems. Write her in care of this newspaper.

Women's Benefit Association Sponsors Successful Bazaar

Alderman Margaret Christie, introduced by Mrs. Elsie Roberts, president and general convenor, officially opened the annual bazaar and tea, arranged by Women's Benefit Association, Review No. 1, in K. of P. Hall, Monday afternoon. Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. Christie, with the soloist and her accompanist, Mrs. J. Slater and Mrs. A. MacDonald, were presented with corsages by the secretary, Mrs. Helen Glaas.

The head table was centered with a silver vase of red roses, the group's floral emblem, and flanked with tall red candles in silver holders. Mrs. M. Dunmore presided and seated with her were two pioneer members, Mrs. Julia Ricketts and Mrs. S. Adams, the district deputy, Mrs. M. Minnis, Mrs. Christie, Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. Slater and Mrs. MacDonald.

Stalls arranged around the large room were convened as follows: Tea set, Mrs. J. Bowden; chicken dinner, Mrs. K. Thompson.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Hats That Are Too Flat Are Not for Tall Girls

For a few days I have been bringing you sound ideas about how the tall woman should dress. These are based on an interview I had recently with Peg Newton in New York, whose "Tall Girl's Haven" is just that to many tall girls.

Today—let us consider hats. Miss Newton feels that the tall woman can wear almost any kind of a hat if it has a little width. She warned, "It should not be too flat." I suppose this is the same principle which makes the too short skirt bad. If your attempt at decreasing the illusion of height is too obvious, it defeats its purpose. Draped or asymmetrical lines are good. A large hat is fine but do not have it too flat on top. Veils are becoming.

Your hair styling should, of course, take into consideration your facial contour, but as a general rule it should not be extreme; not too short or too long or too high or too low.

Next we will think of collars. Stylish full collars and dramatic ones are attractive. Avoid the plunging V neckline. A square, lowcut neckline is good. A collar in the back is flattering because the tall woman usually has a long neck.

I asked Miss Newton if she thinks tall girls should wear high heels. She replied, "If they like them and they go with the costume, they should wear them." Then she looked quite mischievous when she added, "You cannot measure romance with a yardstick."

I have some ideas about this which were reinforced by my talk with Peg. I have often noticed that attractive self-confident short men often marry beautiful tall women. It all depends on the individual.

If it makes you feel uncomfortable, write to me.

table to be taller than your date then wear low heels. If it makes him uncomfortable and he is that important to you, wear low heels. Otherwise forget it.

Before closing this column I want to add one suggestion. If you are tall you can wear big checked material and big flamboyant prints. Some of the latter are very stunning. Let the small prints and checks strictly alone.

While giving three days of this week's copy to the tall women I have not neglected the short ones because the rules given for "tall" are good advice for "short" in reverse.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Planning Clothes to Suit Figure and Personality," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 34 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Between Ourselves

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Near Penticton, last week, I saw the result of an experiment which was started last spring, when apple blossoms were coming into bloom.

It was on the George Craig estate orchard, between Okanagan and Skaha Lakes, run now by one of the Craig daughters, Mrs. Elsie MacCleave.

Apple blossoms are formed in clusters as you know, a crown blossom, surrounded by a number of smaller buds. And, for many years, if orchardists expected to produce large apples, there was a season of debudding, often by hand methods.

If this was not done, there would be a quantity crop but the quality might be inferior. Scientists have been working on the problem for some time and there is now a spray that, used at the proper time, will kill all the circling buds and leave the crown blossom to bloom alone.

The spray must be used just as the crown blossom is coming into bloom, otherwise there is danger of killing it as well as the other buds. That's where the experiment comes in.

Last spring, with the help of government agricultural experts in the district, and the urging of her manager, Dick Stocks, a young neighbor farmer with modern ideas of farming, Elsie MacCleave decided to try the spray on Delicious apple trees in her orchard.

There were many consultations. The blossoms were carefully watched. And just as the crown buds started to unfold, they decided the great moment had arrived.

A helicopter flew over the orchard and in a matter of moments the trees were sprayed.

Then came the anxious wait, for if the buds were not at the right phase of growth, if the crown blossom was not far enough open, or if it was too far open, it, too, might be killed, and the whole crop lost.

"But the Gods were with us," Elsie MacCleave said, last week, "and we soon saw the crown blossoms were still alive."

"All the other blossoms turned brown and dropped off. It was an amazing thing to see."

Aerial Hormone Spray to Save Fruit

Next worry was the period of drop, just as the apples are coming to maturity. And here again Elsie MacCleave decided to experiment with her acre of Delicious apples.

In late September an aircraft again skimmed over the tree tops, fine jets of orchard spray pluming back from under the wings. In two minutes flying at 90 miles an hour just 20 feet above the trees it covered the acre of trees with a new hormone spray that it was hoped would stop the pre-harvest drop.

This operation was only the second of its kind in the Okanagan. The result? A picture of beauty almost beyond description!

When I stood in that orchard a little over a week ago, they were just beginning to pick the Delicious apples. The trees were laden with perfectly formed fruit... large, luscious and juicy. And they were growing on the trees in pattern, and with a symmetry that would have delighted the eye of an artist or an architect.

The crop was heavy... one of the best the Craig orchard had seen in years.

"Only one fly in the ointment," Elsie MacCleave said, "this had to be the year the good weather continued far beyond expectations. There has been little frost, the color is not what we had hoped."

Are they going to spray the blossoms again next year? "We certainly will!" Elsie says. Her manager nods his head in quick approval. And they tell you other orchardists in the valley are considering the idea, too.

"It's still an experiment," they remind you, "but it's getting safer each year. And we are all for it!" Only trouble will be... from an outsider's point of view... (an outsider, that is, who loves to travel the valley at apple blossom time) there will not be nearly the quantity of blossoms. In fact, the crown blossom is almost hidden among new green leaves.

As science progresses, then we may lose the beauty of blossom time... but we will certainly gain in the bountiful harvest.

Wed Recently In Vancouver

Mildred Elizabeth Bailey, formerly of Victoria, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil J. Bailey, Glendale, Calif., was united in marriage with George Philip Andow, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Andow, at a recent ceremony in Chown Memorial United Church. Rev. W. Packham officiated.

Mrs. Irma Couta sang "Because" during the signing of the register.

The bride wore a bluish pink satin dress misted with silk lace and styled with full skirt, off the shoulder neckline. Her full-length veil of French net cascaded from a shirred headdress and was caught at each side by stephanotis. She carried a bouquet of red roses and stephanotis.

She was attended by Miss Eileen Munro, maid of honor, and Doris Andow as flower girl. The maid of honor's dress was emerald green velvet and she carried a bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums and yellow carnations. The flower girl wore a frock of gold velvet in crinoline style and carried a colonial bouquet of roses and marguerites.

Don Andow was best man for his brother and ushers were J. Kadzielawa and Arthur J. Bailey. Ernest B. Smith proposed the toast at reception following the ceremony.

For her going-away ensemble the bride wore a fine gold dress topped with a winter white coat with brown velvet trimming, a brown velvet hat with matching accessories and a corsage of roses.

The newlyweds will make their home in Vancouver.

Mamie or 'Buffie'—Next U.S. First Lady Has Charm

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—The next hostess in the White House will be a woman of charm, a cosmopolitan and a good hand-shaker.

That holds true whether Adlai Stevenson or Dwight Eisenhower is elected president today.

Both Mamie Doud Eisenhower, wife of the Republican nominee, and Elizabeth (Buffie) Stevenson, sister of the Democratic candidate and his official hostess as Governor of Illinois, are qualified.

They look you directly in the eye. They smile easily. Both have a firm handshake that suggests warm personal interest. And they share a liking for people and parties.

The role of first lady or official White House hostess is an exacting one. It is hard work over long hours. Her manners are watched, her words quoted and her hair-style copied.

To begin there are the traditional White House state dinners and receptions. These events mark the peak of the Washington social season.

In addition state visits by heads of foreign governments can be expected. There will be women's organizations who want to be received at the White House.

Mrs. Harry Truman has had weeks during which she has been "at home" nearly every day.

to women's groups varying from 10 to hundreds of members.

Mrs. Ives, wife of a retired career diplomat, and Mrs. Eisenhower have had extensive experience in entertaining. Each knows the detailed planning that goes into making a function move smoothly.

Stevenson was divorced from Ellen Borden Stevenson, socially prominent Chicago matron and mother of their three sons, shortly after his election as governor of Illinois. He turned to his sister for help in official entertaining.

Both Mrs. Eisenhower and Mrs. Ives are 55 years old. Neither is a stranger to Washington. Mrs. Eisenhower stayed here during the war when the general was overseas. Mrs. Ives made her debut here when her father was special assistant to secretary of the navy Josephus Daniels.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Bed Rest Only Cold 'Cure' Time-Tested

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Nothing would make this column more popular than to announce that the writer had the answer to the common cold, and that by following some simple directions or taking some easy remedy, readers could count on avoiding this annoying affliction in the future.

Perhaps the time to make such a happy statement will come, but at present I shall have to remain in the doghouse.

Scarcely a year goes by without the announcement of at least one new "wonder" cure for colds. Naturally, we are all so eager to find some way of getting rid of this miserable disorder that we are eager to believe the claims made for practically anything.

In spite of the enormous number of "cold cures" on the market, the statement that "no substance or combination of substances available at the present can be relied on to prevent or cure the common cold" still holds true.

In the face of this "scientific" view, nose drops, inhalants, liquid and solid medicines, gels, special diets, lemon cures, and a thousand and one other treatments will be used all winter.

Perhaps something really good will be found at any time. Any one, however, who has lived through the past few years will be somewhat skeptical about any new "discovery" until it has been tried and tried again.

The supply of moisture to the nose and throat by means of steam inhalations is probably of some help during the early and I mean early—stage of a cold.

Alcohol (taken internally) remains a favorite with some, but there is considerable doubt as to whether it really helps the cold or merely makes it easier to forget.

Cathartics or laxatives are hardly desirable unless needed for other reasons, and if used to extremes they may cause too much loss of fluids from the body.

VACCINES COME UP AGAIN

In the last year or so vaccines for colds—given either by injection or by mouth—have been suggested again. But the fact remains that careful studies of such methods of cold prevention have been far from convincing.

The only thing which has really stood the test of time so far is rest in bed. In all probability if everyone went to bed at the first sign of a cold and used steam inhalations, their colds would not last so long. Such action would also cease to expose others to their colds and therefore cut down on the numbers of them going around.

This is easy to say, but few people try it.

U.K. Grocers Ask for More Canada Cheese

LONDON, Nov. 4 (Reuters).—Britain's grocers today appealed to Food Minister Lloyd George to "make every effort" to get cheese from Canada and increase the ration, now a meagre one ounce a week.

The National Federation of Grocers and Provision Dealers said in a telegram to the minister: "The grocers' federation records country-wide discontent with the cheese position and otherwise. We urge every effort to get the cheese piling up in Canada, and some relaxation of the ban on imports of specialty cheese."

The government has blamed its dollar shortage for not buying Canadian cheese, and imports of "off-the-ration" specialty cheeses from the continent were reduced last year.

National Y.M.C.A. Secretary Tells Gyros of World Group

Spiritual advancement is last, but material gains of mankind disappear . . . and Gyro Club members Monday were asked to consider whether modern man places too much confidence in the latter.

The guest speaker was C. A. Schell, secretary of the national council of Y.M.C.A. in Canada, visiting here from Toronto for a few days. Impressions he gave were absorbed recently during a European tour which followed a meeting of the World Alliance of the Y.M.C.A. in Athens, Greece.

The World Alliance represents almost 1½ million "Y" enthusiasts, 100,000 of whom are in Canada. The last decade of Y.M.C.A. growth has shown an increase from 14 members per thousand of world population to 19 per thousand.

The Y.M.C.A. was driven from countries which were under Nazi domination in the late thirties and has seen similar setbacks in Communist countries.

He went on to divulge plans of the international group to hold a giant rally in Paris in 1955, to celebrate the founding of the World Alliance there 100 years previously.

The speaker traced the Y's work in France, Greece, Germany and Italy.

It was the thought behind the fallen empires of Europe that impressed Mr. Schell most. He viewed Mars Hill, in Athens, where Paul taught God's word, the ruins of old Corinth, the Coliseum's crumbling shell, in Rome, the forgotten glory of the French Palace at Fontainebleau. He visited at the infamous trench-graves of Belsen. He saw them as graveyards of man's material efforts.

Much of its work in Europe and Asia has to do with educating persons against Communism, as in Malaya, and with helping those refugees and displaced persons fleeing the doctrine of dictatorship, as in Lebanon, said Mr. Schell.

Women Demand Subsidy for B.C. Dairymen

A subsidy for dairy farmers was asked Thursday by the B.C. council of the Congress of Canadian Women in an interview with the provincial cabinet.

The government, a delegation contended, should make up "the difference between what the consumer can pay and what the farmer must receive" for his milk.

The delegation also requested producer and labor representation on the B.C. Milk Board, and declared costs of milk distribution should be made public.

Other requests of the delegation: Abolition of the $1 a day co-insurance charge, revamping of the "prejudiced" Public Utilities Commission, support of their doubled family allowance drive, and an early session of the Legislature.

Daily Compass Closes Down

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP).—The Daily Compass, a morning tabloid with 30,000 circulation, went out of business Monday after three and a half years.

Published in the plant of the defunct New York Star, The Compass absorbed some of the feature writers who wrote first for the newspaper PM and—when it quit—for The Star.

The Compass was described as "Liberal crusading in its politics. It had been supporting Governor Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic nominee for President.

New 'Mikado' Production In Final Polishing Phase

Rehearsals of the Victoria Gilbert and Sullivan Operatic Society for its forthcoming production of "The Mikado" have rolled into high gear with show-time just three and one-half weeks away.

Eleven principals and 50 choristers have been practicing twice weekly since the beginning of September. When the cast takes to the stage of the Royal Theatre Thursday, November 27, for a three-day run, it will be backed up by a full 18-piece orchestra.

Lieut. Col. Victor Mills is producer and stage director of show, and Melvin Knudsen, first conductor of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, is musical director.

Tenor Alan White has been assigned the leading role of Nanki

Poo, and Ruth Champion, a newcomer to the city from Toronto, will play opposite in the role of Yum Yum.

Jim Mead-Robbins, a veteran member of the G. and S. Society, will take the main comic part of Ko-Ko, Lord High Executioner of Titipu. Catherine Denison, contralto, will portray the wicked Katisha, and Alan Robertson will play the title character, the Mikado.

Pretty maids are Angela Clarke, who is to play Pitti Sing, and Helena Williams, Peep Bo.

Concert baritone artist John Bray is Pish Tush, and William Fahey, the stuffy Pooh Bah.

Death Valley in California, 276 feet below sea level.

Rare Skills Displayed By Organ Master

Portland Artist Plays for Fund

The art of the organist, like the art of any other musical performer, is a composite of tradition and individualism, of mechanical skill, science and temperament.

Some artists—and Lauren B. Sykes is one—have these qualities in "usually well-balanced proportions." The visiting Portland organist gave a brilliant recital before a capacity audience at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Monday. He was assisted by the church choir. Proceeds were in aid of the Jesse Longfield Memorial organ.

The fact that Mr. Sykes is of English stock may explain the fact that his playing embodies the finest English tradition with the versatility of the best American playing.

In presenting a program broadly representative of the concert organist's repertoire, he selected shrewdly all the orchestral colorings which could most effectively be drawn from his instrument.

He achieved a lovely mood and a caressing quality in delicate pianissimos.

Possibly the finest example of his virtuosity came with the playing of the Franck, "Finale." It is a work which makes tremendous demands on the musician's ship and technical resources of the most experienced recitalist.

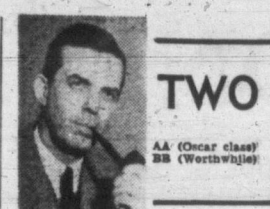

Sykes' sheer competence and mastery in this number brought to mind the performance of the great Belgian organist, Cournon, who performed the "Finale" in this city a number of years ago.

The rapid stop changes, without loss of rhythm, in the virtuosic "Comes, Autumn Time" (Sowerby), were little short of miraculous. Breath-taking climaxes in the Bach D minor Toccata and Fugue, the playful scherzo-like quality injected into the Widor "Pastorale," and the brilliant military style and extraordinary echo effects of the Allegro Maestoso from Handel's "Water Music," were other highlights of a distinguished concert.

The choir, conducted by C. C. Warren and accompanied by Sykes, sang two groups. The singing was marked by sweetness of tone, firm chording and shapely phrases.

CONTINENT'S HIGHEST

Mount McKinley in Alaska, 20,257 feet, is the highest mountain in North America.

(BB) THE NARROW MARGIN (Dominion)—This is strictly for the suspense and whodunit fan and, as such, is to be commended.

Although the locale—a streamer running from Chicago to Los Angeles—is only one more murder-on-a-train gag, "The Narrow Margin" has enough new spice and gimmicks to give it life and a sharp twist.

Based on the magazine serial by Martin Goldsmith and Jack Leonard, the story of the adventures of detective Charles McGraw while trying to safely escort a gangster's widow to Los Angeles so she can testify before the grand jury is cleverly wrought so the theatregoer is nicely deceived. Object of the search by underworld thugs is a pay-off list the widow has which, if delivered into the hands of justice would incriminate police officials.

In addition to McGraw also well cast are Marie Windsor and Jacqueline White.

(B) RANCHO NOTORIOUS, the second half of the Dominion's bill, is a gaudy western that made me mad. I like my westerns stark and grim. I don't like them laced with songs and piano stylings. Most of all I like my western women of the poke-bonneted variety and I like 'em reasonably young. And although I'm a great admirer of "grandma" Marlene Dietrich as a "Merry Widow" playing alongside her contemporaries, my imagination simply isn't tuned to watching her make love with gentlemen of comparatively tender years.

Now that I have disposed of my pet hates I would admit, however, that the plot isn't too bad, that is if it were cut considerably and lightened up generally. Briefly, it is this: Following the brutal killing of his fiancée Arthur Kenny sets out after the murderer with a single clue—the word "Chuck-a-Luck." For more than a year he carries on until he finally is able to connect the word with a woman known as Altar Keane (Miss Dietrich). Through her beau, gun-totin' Mel Ferrer, who owes him a debt of gratitude, Kennedy is led to "Chuck-a-Luck," Altar's ranch. Here he finally finds the murderer and the gun-smoke erupts.

Police Close Huge Still

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (CP)—One of the biggest illegal liquor stills ever discovered here was raided Monday two blocks east of Brooklyn police headquarters where it was running at full blast—1,000 gallons of 180-proof alcohol a day.

The five operators, including the owner, David Littman, were charged with maintaining an unregistered still and possession of untaxed alcohol.

SOLDIER SEEMS BULLET-PROOF

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4 (AP)—In the Second World War the U.S. War Department reported Sgt. Omer Willette killed in action. He turned up alive in a hospital.

Two weeks ago, the Defense Department reported Willette killed in Korea.

Monday night, his wife received a telephone call from Tokyo.

"I'm all right," said Willette, who was startled to hear he'd been reported dead. "I'm wounded but I'll be home soon."

Their seven-year-old son, George, piped up:

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

Many people have difficulty in flowering some of their house plants. Others report flowering at "the wrong time." What may be done about it?

Take, for instance, the Zygocactus truncatus, commonly called Christmas cactus. Obviously, unless the plant is in full bloom over the holiday season the common name is not applicable, so we must find out the best way to handle it.

An old plant will require either

SEE IT AT WILLCOX LIMITED

1736 DOUGLAS—Opp. "The Bay"

Convenient Credit Terms

repotting immediately after flowering, usually during February, or two applications of a complete fertilizer in the early spring period.

Perfect drainage is necessary, and ample watering is essential during spring and summer to encourage new growth. Shading from continuous sunshine is beneficial since the plant comes to us from the jungles of Brazil where it grows in the crevices of the trees.

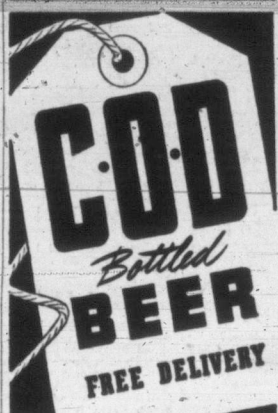

As the cooler weather of September approaches, taper off the water supply. By the middle of the month the plant will become somewhat hardened, and able to do without any water for one month. This treatment sets the flower buds on the tips of the leaves. In less than two weeks after resuming moderate watering, the buds may be seen. That is, before Nov. 1.

Now, to ensure that your plant will actually be in flower for Christmas, commence a feeding program. Weak liquid manure water may be given once a week. Or a quarter of a measuring teaspoon of a balanced commercial fertilizer in dry form may be scattered on the surface soil of a plant in a three or four-inch pot. Correspondingly more for larger plants. Water well to dissolve the powder.

Place the cactus in a sunny window, and continue this feeding and watering program until the buds show their pink color, then discontinue feeding. Water only when the top soil is definitely dry. Bud drop is sometimes caused by lack of care in these two details.

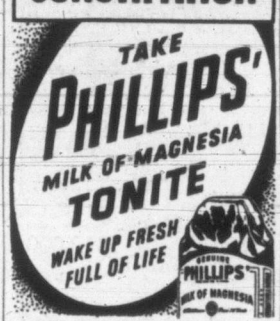

The Zygocactus gives so much bloom over a long winter period, that it is certainly worth while keeping the plants in good condition, so that they maintain their reputation for abundance.
